Big turnout expected

WHIP, TOP both predict election victories today

by LYNN ASINOF

Representatives of both Wheeling political parties said they think their candidates will win in today's election for five village positions.

Michael Valenza, campaign manager for the incumbent To Overall Progress Party (TOP), predicted a large voter turnout and a clean sweep for the TOP candidates.

Valenza said he estimated that 3,200 village residents will vote today. He said he expected the TOP candidates to be elected by a 3-to-1 margin.

OTIS "Skip" Hedlund, candidate for village president on the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) slate, said his party had enough votes to win the election.

"We can win the election," he said. "I feel we have enough votes already to win just on the basis of the pluses and minuses on our poll sheets."

Hedlund said he expected a large voter turnout of 80 per cent of the more than 6,800 voters in the village. "That will be larger than we've had in years," he said. He added that a large turnout would favor the WHIP candidates.

Both parties are geared for the regular election-day work of getting voters to the polls and checking on voting procedure at the polling places.

WHIP workers are planning to keep the names of their candidates visible throughout voting hours today. Besides distributing literature throughout the village, workers have been instructed to decorate their cars with WHIP posters and park them in strategic places.

Neighborhood coffees for both parties ended late last week. The last minute campaign push for both parties consisted of door-to-door canvassing and distribution of election information.

TOP workers, however, did not canvass on Sunday. Valenza said the party candi-

TOP refuses funds disclosure

Officials of the To Overall Progress Party (TOP) in the Wheeling village election refused yesterday to release any financial information concerning their campaign.

The TOP party is running against the Wheeling Independent Party (WHIP) in today's village election. WHIP released a total figure of $985 spent on its campaign as of last Friday.

The Herald has been trying to get the TOP information for almost a week and until yesterday afternoon, TOP officials kept saying they'd get the information. Yesterday, however, TOP campaign manager Michael Valenza said, "There's no sense in my kidding. They (the figures) are not prepared."

Valenza also explained that Mrs. Roberta Krause was in charge of TOP's funds. When contacted by the Herald, Mrs. Krause said she is not the only one responsible for the funds.

SHE SAID SHE co-signs the checks with Valenza and she could not release any information on the finances without Valenza's permission. She also said she thought Valenza wants to have the books audited before he releases the information.

Neither Mrs. Krause nor Valenza would say where the TOP funds come from or for what purposes the funds are used.

WHIP officials said last week that most of the money to finance that campaign has come either from donations or from the candidates themselves. They said a small part of the funds were raised from party membership dues.

WHIP officials also said the major campaign expense was for printing brochures, handbills and sample ballots. They said money was also spent on campaign buttons.

dates were not on the streets because of Palm Sunday observances.

Valenza said TOP candidates will hear election returns at their victory party at the Hartmann House Restaurant on Milwaukee Avenue.

WHIP campaign manager Sheila Schultz said the WHIP candidates have made no plans about where they will receive election results. She said some of the candidates probably would gather at her house to get the results as they are phoned in from the precinct workers.

Candidates of the WHIP party are holding their "victory party" at the Holl-day Inn on Milwaukee Avenue in Northbrook. The party is scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Village residents will be able to watch the returns on a closed-circuit television hookup in the council chambers of the Wheeling Village Hall. Returns will be posted by precinct on a blackboard and then televised. The village is providing free coffee for the vote-watchers.

Polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 6 p.m. with election returns expected to come in about 6:45 p.m. Persons wishing to get election returns by phone can call the village hall at 537-2141 after 7 p.m.

written statement explaining why he was seeking a position on the school board.

Two caucus-supported candidates were successful in last Saturday's election. They were incumbent Edwin Smith of Buffalo Grove and Steve Greenberg of Arlington Heights. The other winner, Kenneth Rodeck of Wheeling, sought but did not get caucus support.

Commenting on the outcome of the election, Mrs. Silberman said, "We really had some good candidates this year and we worked hard to get them elected."

WATER POLO PRACTICE schedules for these Wheeling youngsters will be rearranged during Easter vacation next week. Monday through Friday Neptune's Pool hours will be 1 to 4 p.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. The pool, located at Wheeling High School, will be closed Easter Sunday.

Dial 394-2300 for vote results

Need local election results?

The Herald's main switchboard will be open until midnight tonight as local vote tabulations come into the newsroom. Calls to the Herald office at 394-2300 after 10 p.m. should get you the results of most municipal elections.

Please bear with us if we seem busy. Herald staff writers will be covering local elections in all Northwest suburban communities for tomorrow's paper.

Gill gets 6% pay increase next year

School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill will begin taking home paychecks next year that will reflect a 6 per cent raise awarded him by the school board.

The increase will set Gill's salary for the 1973-74 academic year at $33,360. According to the contract, his salary will remain at that figure for the next three years unless the agreement is altered in the interim.

The contract also provides that Gill will receive the usual benefits specified for all full-time employees of School Dist. 21 including life, health and accident insurance.

GILL'S RAISE is comparable to a 6 per cent pay hike recently negotiated by Dist. 21 teachers. The salaries for all full-time Dist. 21 teaching personnel and administrators appear to be in line with those of other nearby school districts.

The $31,500 salary received by Gill last year was about average for other local school superintendents. Because 1973-74 salaries for most elementary district superintendents have not yet been finalized, it is not yet known how Gill's increased salary will compare to that of other area administrators.

Like several other superintendents, Gill receives a car to use in addition to his regular salary and contract benefits. The car is replaced every two years. The vehicle Gill presently uses was purchased for him last year.

Shooting death ruled suicide

A coroner has ruled suicide as the cause of death of a 20-year-old Rolling Meadows man found shot in the head late Saturday in his apartment.

The ruling was made yesterday after an inquest into the death of Douglas A. Buchanan, 4728 Arbor Dr., Apt. 202. Buchanan allegedly jumped out of a window of his second floor apartment and shot himself with a .22-caliber rifle.

The incident occurred late Saturday during a drinking party in Buchanan's apartment, police said.

Several persons were in the apartment at the time the incident occurred but only one man, Richard E. Heimberger, 22, has been charged.

Heimberger, who shared the apartment with Buchanan and two others, is charged with contributing to the delinquency of two juveniles who were in the apartment at the time of the shooting.

Organizational meeting tomorrow

General caucus procedure may change

Changes in the operating procedure of the Dist. 21 General Caucus may be made tomorrow at the organization's last scheduled meeting this year.

The meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. at the Dist. 21 administration building, 999 W. Dundee Rd., Wheeling.

Nancy Silberman, president of the 1972 caucus, said yesterday she would like to see more Dist. 21 residents get involved in next year's caucus.

"We're just not drawing enough people into the caucus," she said. "Dist. 21 is just too large to reach people with what we're doing now."

MRS. SILBERMAN said she had several ideas on possible ways of stimulating more citizen involvement in the caucus, but she preferred not to discuss them until after Wednesday's meeting.

Currently, delegates to the caucus are made up of representatives from several community organizations and PTAs. About 25 delegates voted on caucus endorsements this year.

Candidates who sought the support of the caucus were required to appear before the membership. The caucus also allowed nominations from the floor. Each candidate was required to submit a

Prosecution may rest case today

Si Jayne bought rifle ammo: witness

by BARRY SIGALE
A gunshop owner testified yesterday that Silas Jayne purchased ammunition for a .30-caliber rifle seven months before the 1970 rifle slaying of his brother, wealthy horseman George Jayne.
Frank Baumann, co-owner of the B and L Rod and Gun Shop of Elgin, referred to the sales log of his store as he told a Criminal Court jury that Silas bought ammunition for the rifle March 19, 1970.
According to the prosecution, George Jayne was murdered in the basement of his suburban Inverness home by a bullet from a .30-caliber rifle fired through the basement window by a gunman who crouched outside the house.
The testimony by Baumann, who also is an Elgin police lieutenant, came as the murder trial of Silas Jayne, Joseph LaPlaca and Julius Barnes entered its tenth day.
ASSISTANT STATE'S ATTY. Nicholas

Motherway called nine witnesses yesterday in what was expected to be the next-to-last day of testimony before the prosecution rests its case.
Motherway said he would call fingerprint, firearms and crime laboratory experts to the stand today who will link Barnes, alleged triggerman, to the actual murder on the night of Oct. 28, 1970.
Motherway set the stage for testimony expected today with the testimony of Donald J. Moriarity, Chicago policeman who was an investigator for the state's attorney's office in 1971.
Moriarity said clothing confiscated from a locker at a Chicago firm where Barnes worked was analyzed by the state crime laboratory after Barnes' arrest. Experts are expected to testify today that soil particles from the clothing match the soil outside the basement window of George Jayne's home.
ALSO TESTIFYING yesterday was State Rep. Leland Rayson, D-Tinley

Park, an attorney, who said he kept as legal fees $8,500 given him by admitted murder conspirator Melvin Adams, the prosecution's star witness.
The money, Adams has testified, was part of $30,000 paid by Silas Jayne for George Jayne's murder through LaPlaca. Adams has said he sent his $10,000 share in a package to Rayson, whom he retained on Nov. 11, 1970.
Rayson testified that the $8,500 was for legal fees in the murder case, in a divorce action and in witness tampering and gun charges that had been brought against Adams. Rayson said he returned the remainder of the $10,000 to law enforcement authorities after Adams was no longer his client.
He said Adams told him that Adams earned $4,000 of the money as a bodyguard for an Ohio millionaire. Rayson did not say how Adams accounted for the remaining $6,000 of the money. Adams later testified that the entire $10,000 came from Silas.

PROSECUTION witnesses have testified that the .30 caliber rifle used in the murder was borrowed from a Markham policeman by Adams' wife, Pat, who told the policeman she wanted to use the gun for hunting. Adams and his wife have been given immunity from prosecution in return for their testimony.
Adams has said on the stand that he was paid to kill George Jayne by Silas and LaPlaca and later subcontracted the job to Barnes.
Outside the courtroom yesterday, Frank Jayne, brother of Silas and George, said he was optimistic about the outcome of the trial, which will resume at 11 a.m. today.
"I can't say what is coming, but I just want you to know there are some goodies coming up," he told reporters. "We (he and Silas' immediate family) are well satisfied and (attorney F. Lee) Bailey is doing a good job."

Are you due for a (gulp!) tax audit? Don't be worried

NEW YORK (UPI) — You've filed your tax return just the way you've done it for years, and you expect that little green check from Uncle Sam.
But instead, you get a letter from the Treasury Department.
You're being audited! And your heart is in your mouth.
Well, relax. Every year more than a million taxpayers get that same grim feeling when they are audited by the Internal Revenue Service.
"The man who is the most upset," said Mrs. Lillian Sohnen, "is the illiterate taxpayer. He received a letter from the U.S. Treasury with an official seal on it and comes in frightened witless."
"This says I'm going to jail," he says to me. Well it says no such thing and I try to put him at ease."

"So he scribbled on a note, in fisherman's terms: 'Business expense — $300 to have my bottom scraped.'"
"Shouldn't this be a medical expense?" I asked. And for the next 20 minutes, I talked about his bottom and he talked about the ship's bottom."
Sometimes, Mrs. Sohnen's encounters aren't as embarrassing as they are ironic.
"A really good-looking young man came in one day. He looked like a football hero, but something was wrong with this picture of strength — his hands were trembling and an occasional tear would run down the side of his nose."
"I asked him if he was nervous."
"No," he said, "my wife is the nervous one."
The football hero, Mrs. Sohnen said, could not prove he paid out $1,200 in medical expenses. All he had was $300 in cancelled checks.

AFTER A LITTLE detective work, she computed the man's medical expenses and found out he was going to get a refund and not a penalty.
"Well, that great big football hero just broke down and cried and people started looking at me like an ogre. I had to call a policeman to escort him out of the office."
Mrs. Sohnen said most people are audited because a computer says something is wrong with a deduction.
And some of the deductions she runs across are quite strange.
One taxpayer told her that he paid $100 for a cocker spaniel, but the dog fell into his pool and drowned. Could he take the price of the dog off as a casualty loss?
"Death and breakage are not deductible. But I thought the dog might be a source of income and asked if he was for show or stud purposes."

"Well, when I said stud purposes, the man looked down his nose at me and said:
"Snoopy was a member of the family. Oh, I realize that if my wife fell into the pool and drowned, I wouldn't have a loss, but I didn't pay $100 for my wife."
And the marriage proposals?
"Three drunks asked me to marry them," she said.

Booras trades county ecology job for state

Samuel G. Booras, director of the Cook County Department of Environmental Control, has resigned from that position to become director of the Illinois Institute of Environmental Quality.
Booras' resignation, effective May 1, was announced by County Board Pres. George Dunne yesterday.
In a letter addressed to the board, Booras said he decided to accept the new position because it will "increase my responsibilities and knowledge."
Dunne expressed his regret over the resignation and said the county will begin immediately to interview potential successors to Booras' county position.

Barrett sentencing set today; up to 80 years

Former Cook County Clerk Edward J. Barrett will be sentenced in federal district court today for accepting $180,000 in bribes for voting machine contracts and $8,000 in kickbacks on voting machine insurance.
Federal District Court Judge Richard Austin will mete out Barrett's punishment, which could total up to 80 years in prison and $108,000 in fines.
The 73-year-old Barrett, a long-time Illinois officeholder, was removed from the County Clerk's office last month by the Cook County board after the federal jury found him guilty of a total of six counts of bribery, four counts of tax evasion and six counts of mail fraud.
BARRETT'S nine-day trial in late February and early March was highlighted by the testimony of Irving H. Meyers, a former officer of the Shoup Voting Machine Co. of Bala-Cynwyd, Pa.

Edward Barrett

Meyers told of meeting Barrett at O'Hare airport and paying him a total of $180,000 in bribes in exchange for Cook County ordering 900 voting machines from his company between 1967 and 1970.
The voting machines are used by the county in suburban polling places.
The trial was marked with clashes between Judge Austin and Barrett's defense attorney, Thomas Foran, with the defense repeatedly asking for a mistrial because of prejudicial comments by the judge. Judge Austin denied each mistrial motion, just as he had denied Foran's attempt to delay the start of the trial because of its proximity to the conviction of former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.
Last week, Austin denied a request for a new trial for Barrett and said the sentencing would proceed as scheduled today. A pre-sentence investigation of Barrett had been ordered by the court to be ready for tomorrow's sentencing.

To establish state crime lab

Sheriff's police get OK to headquarter in Maywood

The Cook County Sheriff's Police Department got final approval yesterday to move ahead with plans to relocate its headquarters to west suburban Maywood.
The county board yesterday approved contracts for the purchase of the 44,000-square-foot building located in the Maybrook Square complex and for the construction of another building on the site.
The county has agreed to pay $1,123,000 for the two-story and basement Jefferson Building and the land on which it lies, plus 80,000 square feet of additional vacant land which adjoins the property. The second building to be constructed will cost the county $400,000.
The site is located just south of the Eisenhower Expressway and east of the Tri-State Tollway. Sheriff Richard Elrod has said he wants the new quarters so the sheriff's police will be more accessible to the suburban areas they serve. Current headquarters are located in the County Building in Chicago.
THE TOP-PRIORITY use for the new facility will be the establishment of a new state crime lab, which will be available for use by every suburban police department in Cook County.
In addition to the lab, the new headquarters will house classrooms for training sheriff's and suburban policemen, a large pistol range, a central communications and records center, and temporary prisoner detention cells.
The project is being funded, in part, by a $500,000 federal grant through the Illinois Law Enforcement Commission.
A spokesman for the county board said the sheriff's department may begin moving into the new facility by September. The crime lab is slated to be housed in the basement of the existing structure, where only partitioning work is needed, the spokesman said.

'150 miles an hour... is really moving'

The doctor has a love affair—with Corvettes

by STEVE BROWN

Dr. Bruce Peterson is known to his patients as "the eye doctor with the Corvette."

But for the 30-year-old Schaumburg optometrist the relationship with his "Vette" is far more intense than that of average motorist and the family buggy.

Peterson "lives, breathes and eats" Corvettes in his spare time. When the unassuming optometrist begins to explain his experiences, the listener learns he is a true aficionado of the specialized automobile.

One look around the doctor's office in the Town Square shopping center reveals that his interest in America's only true sports car is much more than a passing fancy.

Trophies abound and above his desk is a painting of a yellow "Vette" streaking along a race course.

"That's MY favorite," he explained while glancing toward the flaxen fiberglass speedster he owned and raced in 1967.

The doctor's love affair with the car blossomed in 1955 and has continued ever since. In 1970, he became president of the Chicago Corvette Club, a position he still holds.

While Peterson said he became interested in the car in 1955, it was not until 1964, after working odd jobs and saving his cash that he was able to buy his first "Vette."

"I have had one ever since," he said with a smile.

And although Peterson bought his first Corvette before his wife's engagement ring, the car and club have proved to be a source of many activities for the couple.

"She was driver of the year for the ladies in 1971," he said, explaining his wife has not become a weekend widow.

WHILE THE CLUB is his major hobby, Peterson has also become involved in the Schaumburg Jaycees and several professional associations.

The car, however, still dominates at least one weekend a month. The club holds races, rallies and other activities to keep the owners involved, Peterson said. Corvette owners get together annually for a national convention, usually near a major racing facility.

Peterson said his biggest thrill behind the wheel came not too long ago at the Daytona Speedway in Florida.

"We hit about 150 miles per hour on the banked track, and that is really moving," he said.

He said he usually drives conservatively on the street because his 500-horsepower car tends to attract extra attention from police.

"I try to keep about five miles under the limit, just to be sure," he added, which is probably to his advantage. The car with its modified hood, special exhaust system and radial tires appears to be going about 100 miles per hour while standing still.

Peterson said he probably will not run again for the club presidency. He wants to become more involved in the Jaycees and other activities.

READY TO ROLL...Schaumburg optometrist, Dr. Bruce Peterson, stands by his shiny Corvette, which not long ago turned more than 150 m.p.h. on banked track at the Daytona Speedway. Peterson is president of the Chicago Corvette Club and is active in the Schaumburg Jaycees.

But that does not mean his interest in the sports car is lessening. He recently bought his 2-year-old son a "Vette," the two pedal kind, and he is looking forward to an anticipated model change in 1974 or 1975.

Will he ever give up this affair with his motorcar and settle down to a sensible station wagon, with air conditioning and maybe even power steering?

"Never, once the car gets in your blood..." he said while pouring over a newly arrived edition of the Corvette owner's magazine.

"Once it gets in your blood, you can never change."

'Better than entirely new trial'

Residents seek 'combined' testimony

Residents of the W. Strong Street area are seeking to combine testimony on the recent rezoning of their neighborhood with the zoning case now in court.

"I think it is probably more proper to get it all heard at once rather than having an entirely new trial," said attorney John M. Burke, representing the Strong Street residents.

Burke said he asked the court yesterday to allow the case to be reopened so that the residents can challenge this month's rezoning of the entire W. Strong Street area to allow apartments.

The suit currently in court challenges last year's rezoning of 47 scattered lots for six-flat apartment buildings. Residents charged this action was spot-zoning because it ignored the single-family homes now in the area.

THE VILLAGE, however, has been allowed to admit evidence on rezoning the entire area to allow apartments. Burke said this rezoning would seriously damage the previous spot-zoning charge.

He said his clients built their case on the spot-zoning charge, and therefore should be allowed to present new evidence on the rezoning.

"I wanted to file an amended complaint stating that this zoning is also unconstitutional," he said. However, Burke said Judge Robert J. Downing was reluctant to allow him to present this new testimony because it might open up areas not currently related to the present case.

In court yesterday, Judge Downing gave Burke until tomorrow to file his arguments for reopening the case to allow the Strong Street residents to present further testimony. He also denied Burke's request to strike the evidence presented by the village on the recent rezoning.

JUDGE DOWNING said he will rule on Burke's request to reopen the case at 10 a.m. Thursday. Burke said if his request is denied the W. Strong Street residents will probably file a separate suit challenging the recent rezoning.

How about 'Bet'em high and sleep in the park?'

The Wheeling Park District is conducting a slogan contest for local residents. The entries that best describe the park district's summer schedule of activities will be worth money to the authors.

Entrants in the contest must submit a slogan of five words or less by April 31. The slogans must be mailed to the park district office, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

The contest is limited to residents of the Wheeling Park District. There is no limit on the number of entries per family that may be submitted, but no more than one prize will be awarded to a family. No full-time Wheeling Park District employees, park board members or their immediate families are eligible to participate.

WINNERS in the contest will be announced by April 25. The family winning first prize is to receive their choice of participating in any park district programs, activities or classes between June 1 and Dec. 31, 1973 up to the value of $35. Five families who receive honorable mentions will be awarded $10 in free park district activities.

Entries will be judged by the Wheeling Park District Slogan Advisory Committee. The judges will base their decisions on the originality, appropriateness to the theme and public relations value of slogans.

The judges' decisions are final and all entries will become the property of the Wheeling Park District. The winning slogan will be used on all park district promotional materials for summer activities.

April 15 Illinois Assembly proposal cutoff

Last-minute proposals wide-ranging

by BOB LAHEY

In the final days before the April 15 deadline for filing legislative proposals in the Illinois General Assembly, legislators from the Northwest suburbs submitted bills covering a wide range of subjects.

They ranged from proposals to create a Northeastern Illinois transportation agency, to a bill requiring use of headlights on automobiles when windshield wipers are in operation.

The regional transportation agency bill was introduced by Rep. Eugene F. Schlickman, R-Arlington Heights, and would make the Chicago Transit Authority the base of the six-county transit agency. It is similar to a bill he introduced last year without success.

The new bill, however, calls for a levy of a one-cent gasoline tax within the six counties. His original bill called for one-half cent, the first gas-tax proposal in the state for such an agency.

SCHLICKMAN'S proposal is nearly identical to a plan espoused by Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

Another major bill, sponsored by Rep. Aaron Jaffe, D-Skokie, would require sharing of income tax funds with school districts.

Jaffe said that when the income tax was first instituted, it was with the promise that schools would share in the revenue. However, he said, municipal governments have "gobbled up" the one-twelfth share of the income tax returned to local governments and schools have received nothing.

Jaffe's proposal would require that one-third of funds returned to local governments go directly to the public school districts. He said the measure would provide $50 million to schools in the state.

SCHLICKMAN ALSO introduced a package of three bills calling for a statewide policy of land use planning and management. Noting that the fertility and productivity of Illinois land is the outstanding factor in the economic stature of the state, Schlickman added, "But, man, through indiscriminate use, is drastically reducing the amount of our prime agricultural land, destroying our natural water courses, and creating seas of asphalt and concrete."

His legislative package prescribes a statewide land-use inventory and measures for strengthening the powers of local officials in "meeting the attack of developers who see only dollars in land."

Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, also introduced a bill in the Senate calling for creation of a Land Use Study Commission.

Other measures introduced by suburban legislators included:

HOMEBUILDERS

By Regner, a bill requiring homebuilders to place 5 per cent of selling price of new single residential homes in escrow for use in payment of claims on faulty construction.

By Regner, a bill creating the Residential Contractors Licensing Act. Creates six-member licensing board, provides Exempts mechanical specialty contractors for suspension and revocation. Tractors not primarily engaged in residential construction.

LAND GRANT

By Regner, a measure authorizing the Department of Children and Family Services to convey to the Northwest Educational Cooperative Association a 10-acre campsite near Bartlett. The educational cooperative provides special education services to suburban areas including Elk Grove, Palatine, Schaumburg and Wheeling townships.

LAW AND ORDER

By Rep. Brian B. Duff, R-Wilmette, a bill amending the Uniform Code of Corrections to include the organization and implementation of a statewide uniform system of probation. Provides for direct state funding of probation offices, central control under administration of chief judges in each circuit, and establishes qualifications and duties of probation officers.

By Rep. Donald L. Totten, R-Hoffman Estates, a bill requiring mandatory 10-year sentences for first offenses, and life imprisonment for second offenses, for certain crimes committed with a firearm. Includes armed robbery, armed burglary.

TAXES

By Sen. John J. Nimrod, R-Skokie, a bill establishing a $20 million revolving fund for direct loans to middle-income taxpayers who cannot obtain bank loans or scholarships for college education of their children. Provides similar benefits to those available to low income families. Authorizes loans repayable 10 years and 9 months after graduation, forgives interest payments if borrower completes college.

By Regner, a bill amending the Revenue Act to provide that in Cook County, complaints filed with the Board of Appeals regarding over assessments or exemptions must designate the school districts and municipalities within which property is located. Requires notice of hearing to school districts and municipalities.

DISABLED PERSONS

By Schlickman, a bill assuring that disabled persons would not suffer reductions in benefits under company insurance policies as a result of cost-of-living increases in Social Security benefits. Invalidates clauses providing that disability benefits can be adjusted downward when income is raised through cost-of-living increases, thus negating such increases.

By Jaffe, a bill making it the responsibility of police officers, doctors or any citizen to "look for medical information concerning a person who is unconscious or unable to communicate." Aimed at correcting cases of false arrest and medical neglect.

TRANSPORTATION

By Regner, a bill appropriating $805,000 to the Department of Transportation for channel enlargement and reconstruction of bridges and culverts to alleviate flood problems along Weller Creek.

By Regner, a bill providing that motorists on public highways turn on their headlights when conditions require the use of windshield wipers.

By Regner, a bill requiring that vehicles transporting radioactive materials be marked in same manner as vehicles carrying explosives or flammable materials.

EXECUTIVE POWER

By Sen. Bradley M. Glass, R-Northfield, a resolution calling for public referendum to determine whether the governor should be permitted to retain his amendatory veto. Previously approved in the House.

HORSE RACING

By Rep. Robert Juckett, R-Park Ridge, two bills to remove from the Illinois Racing Board the power to set racing dates at various tracks, and to change tax on racing from progressive rate to flat 10 per cent.

TEEN DRINKING

By Glass, a bill to lower drinking age for beer and wine to 19. Passed in House.

WOMEN'S RIGHTS

By Rep. Eugenia Chapman, D-Arlington Heights, and Rep. Virginia Macdonald, R-Arlington Heights, a package of eight bills to correct inequities to women under Illinois statutes.

ANIMAL TRAPS

ELECTION RULES

By Regner, a bill repealing "archaic law" which requires cities, villages and incorporated towns to print and post a list of registered voters five days before a municipal election.

FIREMEN

By Regner, a bill providing for fireman cadet programs for municipalities and appointment of cadets to active duty. Aimed at providing reservoir of trained firemen to meet future needs.

A stream as a boundary line for a piece of property is an interesting incident in real estate law. It seems that if a stream is the boundary for your property, you own half the stream. Harper Arlington campus gains state endorsement

Harper College won support from the Illinois Junior College Board last week in its effort to set aside land in Arlington Heights for a second campus.

The junior college board voted to send word to the Arlington Heights Plan Commission that it supports Harper's effort to have the land at Palatine and Schoenbeck roads designated for educational use on the village master plan.

The board action, according to Harper Pres. Robert Lahti, does not mean the junior college board has given the college permission to buy the site. Permission for the school to buy the land has been held up pending studies of enrollment projections by the Illinois Board of Higher Education.

THE JUNIOR college board action came in response to a letter from the Mayo Foundation in Rochester, Minn., owners of the property. In the letter Mayo officials asked that the board indicate how long it may be before Harper is given permission to buy the land.

In the latter, Mayo officials said the foundation has decided to dispose of the property as soon as possible because taxes on the 146-acre parcel are larger than the income from the farm now operating on the land.

The Mayo officials said they do not intend to try to block Harper College if it wants to acquire the land, but added, "If the possibility that Harper College will need this land in the near future for a second campus site is remote, or should it appear that this possibility is many years off, we feel that in all fairness the Arlington Heights board of trustees should be so informed."

IF ARLINGTON Heights designates the land for educational use on its master plan, Harper will have a year to acquire the site. Mayo would, however, be able to submit an alternative plan for the land.

Lahti said the junior college board gave no indication of when the board of higher education may rule on Harper's request, but did agree to urge that board to speed its deliberations.

Lahti said his next step, if the higher board does not communicate with Harper within the next two months, will be to ask the Harper board to request action.

Lahti added that he expects the changeover in executive directors of the higher board, from James Holderman to Cameron West, to cause some delay for Harper.

Lahti said the action of the junior college board was "extremely good news" and added, "It is simply keeping our options open."

Cameron West, vice president for planning at the University of North Carolina, has agreed to become executive director of the Illinois Board of Higher Education, the board announced Monday.

Donald M. Prince, board chairman, said West will move into the job June 1, replacing James B. Holderman, who resigned.

"We are delighted that Dr. West has agreed to come to Illinois," Prince said. "He has a distinguished national reputation."

West, 51, served as director of the Board of Higher Education at the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill, from 1968 to 1972. He holds a bachelor of arts, a master of arts and a doctor of education degree from North Carolina.

From 1960 to 1966 West was academic dean of Pfeiffer College in Misenheimer, N.C. He and his wife, Florence, have three children and will live in Springfield.

The Illinois Board of Higher Education voted unanimously last month to offer West the executive director's post.

Freedom of the press

The average American doesn't seem concerned about the controversy

by RALPH NOVAK
First in a Series

NEW YORK — Ever since the day when some caveman first had the bright idea to scratch a public message on a rock and some other caveman picked up the rock and hit him over the head with it, people debated the issue of freedom of the press.

The debaters, however, have rarely included the average citizen, the typical rock reader on the street. And things are no different in the current furor over freedom of the press in the United States.

American journalists are arguing with an increasing sense of desperation that government officials in general and the Nixon administration in particular are trying to exert illegal controls on the press.

Government officials respond that they

OF THE PRESS: WHO

are as concerned with the Constitution's guarantee of freedom of the press as anybody but that journalists should be above neither criticism nor the law.

THE NEWS-CONSUMING public, meanwhile, hears a lot of discussion of purity-laden abstractions. But it has yet to be faced with the dramatic kind of evidence it needs to bring the issue home.

True some reporters have been arrested and put in jail. Publication of the Pentagon Papers in newspapers was delayed by the government. Vice President Agnew has attacked the "Eastern liberal press establishment." And Clay Whitehead of the White House Office of Telecommunications Policy made it clear that the government does not like the

IN SOME NATIONS, most recently Vietnam, censors seldom bother to "correct" articles before they are set in type. They chop out the official "errors," which results in a front page something like this.

news operations of the television networks. But American newspaper readers have not been faced with huge gaping blank spaces government censors left in their morning edition, as South Vietnamese readers have on more than one occasion. News and commentary critical of the government still gets distributed. Walter Cronkite has not yet become a spokesman for the government, as he might be in the Soviet Union, or France.

So what is all the fuss about? A GALLUP POLL showed that only 57 per cent of nearly 1,500 persons questioned supported a reporter's right to withhold the name of a news source in court (34 per cent opposed it, 9 per cent were undecided).

Letters-to-the-editor reaction to the freedom of the press controversy has shown a strong tendency toward an anti-press attitude, typified by this excerpt from a letter from Mrs. Ben T. Hawes of Owensboro, Ky., to the weekly National Observer.

"If the press does not want any government intervention they can do a far greater service to themselves in cleaning up their own households than hollering to high heaven when some reporter is thrown into jail. The government truly has its side of the story and the public is very much aware of it."

And there has been no sign of mass rallying to the sides of the journalists, however hard the journalists keep insisting that what is involved is the public "right to know."

IT IS MORE than a little ironic that journalism has done such a poor public relations job for itself. On opinion surveys that rank occupations according to prestige, journalists usually rate somewhere between burglars and dog-beaters, and their image is still hostage to the 1930s movie reporters — wild-eyed and fast-talking sharpies who wear their press cards in their hatbands and scurry about constantly mumbling about "scoops."

Back in 1947, master press critic A. J. Liebling wrote, "I think that anybody who talks often with people about newspapers nowadays must be impressed by the growing distrust of the information they contain. There is less a disposition to accept what they say than to try to estimate the probable truth on the basis of what they say, like aiming a rifle that you know has a deviation to the right."

Things do not seem to have changed that much in the last 25 years. Even people who trust a news item usually see it only as a finished product like a bag of potato chips, they are not aware of the problems a reporter might have had obtaining it or what facts he might have missed because of, say, illegal government suppression of information (or because of his own biases).

SO PRESS supporters usually fall back on quoting Jefferson, Madison, Milton, Paine — anybody up to Lawrence Welk who has said anything favorable about the press.

They enlist such supporters as Sen. Alan Cranston, D-Calif., who, in announcing his new bill to protect reporters' right to keep their sources confidential, says "My bills are designed to protect the public, not merely the press. They would protect the public's right to know about scandals in government and business and the public's right to information which could lead to the conviction of criminals."

And they figuratively (and sometimes literally) stomp around in frustration as the evidence seems to pile up around them.

No experiment can be more interesting than that we are now trying, which we trust will end in establishing the fact that man may be governed by reason and truth. Our first object should therefore be to leave open to him all the avenues of truth. The most effectual hitherto found is the freedom of the press. It is therefore the first shut up in those who fear the investigation of their actions. The "freedom" with which the people have withdrawn the late abuses of the press, the discernment they have manifested between truth and falsehood show that they may safely be trusted to hear everything true and false, and to form a correct judgment between them.

Thomas Jefferson in a letter to John Tyler, 1804

A chronology of press 'freedom' events

Historic events involved in freedom of the press in the United States 1735—John Peter Zenger, a New York weekly publisher is acquitted of "raising sedition" after criticizing the English-appointed governor of New York. Brilliant defense by attorney Andrew Hamilton is first use of principle that the press cannot be prosecuted for libel if what it publishes is true.

1789—A provision that Congress "shall make no law abridging" freedom of the press is part of the Bill of Rights added to the Constitution.

1798—Congress passes the Sedition Act aimed largely at controlling press opponents of the Adams administration. Many newspaper editors are thrown in jail for criticizing government officials before the law lapses in 1800 and stays lapsed under Jefferson.

1837—Editor Elijah Lovejoy is killed by an Alton Ill. mob when he refuses to stop publishing antislavery articles. Above from an old print, the attack on the warehouse that resulted in Lovejoy's death.

1861—Press coverage of the Civil War is subjected to only sporadic censorship.

1917—The Committee on Public Information a combination information-propaganda-censorship organization, formed as U.S. enters World War I and encounters few problems.

John Adams

1931—The U.S. Supreme Court rules in Near v. Minnesota that the Constitution's freedom of the press guarantees apply to the states as well as the federal government after a scurrilous Minneapolis paper is suppressed.

1942—American press cooperates almost unflinchingly with the Office of Censorship and Office of War Information to give what historians Edwin Emery and Henry Ladd Smith have called "the best and fullest (war coverage) the world has ever seen."

Tom Hackenbach deserves break

Critics of public education — those who argue it tends to eliminate the unusually creative teacher by insisting on the conformity of "diplomaism" — have a good point when they bring up the case of Tom Hackenbach.

Normally, Tom Hackenbach is not a controversial sort of fellow. In normal times, Hackenbach is a teacher in the auto mechanics course at Arlington High School, and a highly successful one at that. Enrollment in the course has almost quadrupled since he began teaching the course four years ago.

Teaching, you see, is a 24-hour-a-day activity for Hackenbach. Working with students is like "hav-

So, the Dist. 214 board has reluctantly ordered Hackenbach dismissed. For four years Dist. 214 has employed him on an emergency certificate by signing a statement saying they could not find any other auto mechanics teacher with formal qualifications. Now, qualified auto mechanics teachers are available, and the district could not keep Hackenbach on without lying to the state.

Logically, Hackenbach should go out and take the education courses needed — courses, we suspect, which have little to do with auto mechanics. But, he says, "I'd have to start with all those beginning courses that would probably bore me to tears."

There's one bright ray of hope for our young — and educationally competent — teacher. There's legislation in Springfield — SB 172 — which would allow Hackenbach to claim experience in lieu of academic credit to gain a teaching certificate for auto mechanics.

It seems that, two years ago, the legislature passed a bill to require a certain number of college credit hours for a vocational certificate. Hackenbach does not qualify for a certificate under this existing law.

Under the proposed legislation, Hackenbach could qualify for a provisional certificate, a certificate which would require him to be reviewed once every few years.

We encourage the legislature to enact into law what amounts to a return to prior standards. We wonder what ever possessed the legislature to change the law in the first place, for the old law appears to be sensible for men like Hackenbach. It does not create a loophole for incompetents.

Education cannot afford to lose individuals like Tom Hackenbach. There are many, many persons who lack the proper trappings of education but are more competent to teach — indeed, to inspire — young people than many teachers.

Put another way, Tom Hackenbach strikes us as a competent teacher, a man that Dist. 214's students need. He deserves to retain his job, and we support whatever legislation which will help keep him in Dist. 214.

Analyzes Wheeling picks

We feel very strongly that comment should be made on Friday morning's endorsements for the Wheeling elections. While we agree with the selections of Mr. Hedlund, Mr. Jackson, and Mrs. Heitkotter, we feel the omission of Mrs. Bokina and especially Mr. Fagan are a glaring oversight. In view of Mr. Fagan's impressive record of service to our village, it behooves us to strongly consider his candidacy in this election.

Minton 'unfair'

I have never written a letter to a newspaper before but I feel that I must do so now. Recently in our Mount Prospect election campaign one of the candidates, Mr. Minton, has frequently referred to Huntington Commons as a suburban "Cabrini Green." This is very unfair.

The Forest View High School bus has its second to the last stop in front of our home. The students who continue on to their stop appear to be no different than any other student I have seen. They appear shy, friendly, uncertain, in general no different than any other group of high school students I have seen. But according to Mr. Minton comments there really should be something different about them as they live in Huntington Commons.

If Mr. Minton is against multi-family dwellings let him say so. However these young people live here with their families and should not have to be used in a political campaign as they are. The implication that they are members of a suburban "ghetto" is very harmful their enjoyment of the new schools and place they are to take in the community.

Politics should be on a level much higher. Branding an area is unfair and certainly very unChristian.

The suburbs are supposed to be a good place for a young person, with their family, to live and grow up. Let's keep it that way by not using them in any way in any political campaign.

Perhaps due to the vicious rumor campaign by TOP against Mr. Fagan, his accomplishments have been omitted by the press. This man has worked untiringly for over 2½ years to give the people of Wheeling an independent voice in village government. He has faithfully attended Monday board meetings, often alone in the audience, making him one of the best informed candidates on his ticket. He has repeatedly shown the people that he cares what happens to us by putting his support into action. He is the kind of man who takes a day off work without compensation to go to a county office to stop an illegal landfill. He is the kind of man who accepts the responsibility of accepting the position of spokesman for a group of people fighting an injustice. The people of Strong Street have not been disappointed in their choice. His efforts on their behalf have taken much of his time and have taken him into many difficult positions, yet he has served them well. We know through experience that Mr. Fagan does what he sets out to do, he is a man of action, a man that sticks to his convictions making sure no one tampers with his integrity. He has proven he deserves our vote.

The Herald's endorsement of Mrs. Dier's solely on the fact that she's been clerk for so long is sort of sad. Most people agree it is time for a change. If people want a balance of power on the village board as the Herald encourages them, they must vote straight WHIP, or they will still have a board that can out vote good measures. We urge to include Harold Fagan and Marlene Bokina when they vote straight WHIP on election day.

Buffalo Grove: 'split ticket'

With regard to our upcoming Buffalo Grove village election, I am deeply concerned about the prospect of either of the Fence post Harold Fagan draws a critic

In the Herald of Thursday, April 5, it was reported that Mrs. Maureen Pitt condemned Trustee Bill Hein for using problems on West Strong Street to further his political campaign. However, Mrs. Pitt fails to condemn Mr. Harold Fagan, WHIP candidate for trustee of the village, for whom Mrs. Pitt is an active campaigner. Mr. Fagan is the chairman of the W. Strong Street Homeowners Association, despite the fact that he lives nearly two miles away, in Dun-hurst.

It seems to me that Mr. Fagan is more guilty of the crime of using problems on W. Strong Street than is the accused Mr. Hein. I believe Mrs. Pitt should take a close look at her own WHIP party before she makes charges against members of the other party (TOP) in the upcoming election.

Backs Jane Murphy

Paddock Publications has always made much to do about apathy in the village of Schaumburg (and rightly so) and the need for more involvement by its citizenry.

In the past few years a young homemaker has had the courage of her convictions to become involved and to speak out on issues about which she feels strongly in an effort to try to do something about them.

I take particular issue with a recent item in P. Gerlach's column and her snide statement pertaining to Mrs. Jane Murphy suggesting a farewell party be held at a mythical company at Schaumburg Airport, when Mrs. Murphy leaves the community in the near future.

I believe Mrs. Murphy feels as many residents of Schaumburg do, (wasn't she able to obtain 1,000 signatures supporting her stand?) objecting to the enlarging or extension of the Schaumburg Airport. In fact, if my memory serves correctly, prior to Mrs. Murphy's residency in Schaumburg, the village of Schaumburg itself went on record opposing the proposed extension of the then Roselle Airport, when the area was unincorporated township land. What are the reasons for this change in thinking?

I am not personally acquainted with Mrs. Murphy other than supporting some of her views. But I do believe Mrs. Gerlach owes her an apology in this instance. Schaumburg will miss her and her crusades and the present administration will lose a sorely needed fresh approach against apathy on controversial issues.

Reader supports Minton

I am Chris Korbela, a very good friend of Michael Minton. I understand he is running for mayor in the Village of Mount Prospect.

I would like all of you to know you couldn't elect a better person for mayor than Mike Minton. If anybody would help a person, it would be him. Because Mike Minton has done a whole lot for me, as far as favors, as far as kindness and, above all, as the best of friends. I couldn't ask for a better friend than him.

I am also blind and I think the world of Mike and his whole family. So to all the people in Mount Prospect, I would appreciate it very much if you all vote for Mike Minton, the best, wonderful and kind person there is.

Teichert draws local endorsement

Teichert (truth) or Minton (mud slinging lies).

It is difficult to believe that this mayoral campaign is actually happening here in the village of Mount Prospect. If I hadn't looked at my village sticker whereon are the words "Mount Prospect, Where friendliness is a way of life," I would swear I was in Chicago, where the mud slinging and false accusations are a daily occurrence.

My family and I have lived in Mount Prospect for almost seven years and have watched several campaigns, mayoral, park district, school district, state and federal, and have always marveled at how well they carried on. The candidates were fighters, but it was always on a high level.

What impressed us the most was that false accusations were never a part of any campaign.

Now we come to the 1973 mayoral campaign and on one hand we have Robert Teichert, who has lived in Mount Prospect for over 17 years and has always been involved with our village whether it be on the Football Association or Baseball Association, or in actually serving the village as a member of its administration. He was an outstanding village trustee for four years (1965-

69) and an excellent mayor for the last four years. In total he has actually been involved in the village administration for almost eight years. He was so highly thought of by our neighboring villages that he was elected president of the Northwest Municipal Conference. He is a hard-working man of integrity, honesty, and what impressed me most is that if something is good for the majority of the people of Mount Prospect, Bob Teichert will back it 100 per cent, even though it may not be popular.

One of the most recent actions, but not the most popular, was the necessity to raise our water rates. Bob Teichert knew that we needed another well, additional water storage (four million gallons), property for additional wells (two new sites), automated water control, etc. We all know that our water supply is our most precious possession. All of this has been accomplished, but it could not have been done without funds. I personally feel a few extra pennies on our water rates is well worth the return.

Bob Teichert's accomplishments stand as a monument to his love for Mount Prospect; his hard work and integrity are an example to us all, and his truthfulness in all matters, whether popular or not, is a sure sign. We have a "rare" man as mayor, and one that is near impossible to replace. Bob Teichert's many accomplishments are public record, and therefore need not be listed.

Now, on the other hands, we have Michael Minton's accomplishments:

—He has brought Mount Prospect politics to the level of mud-slinging street fighting.

—He has cost the people of Mount Prospect almost $6,000 to reprint ballots and to get a list of the eligible voters in Mount Prospect, and he isn't even mayor yet!

—He says he is going to lower taxes, however, he also says in the same breath he intends to hire 37 new policemen. What does he intend to pay them?

The above mentioned Minton accomplishments are sufficient reason for any responsible Mount Prospect resident to retain Bob Teichert as mayor.

Rausch's needed

Our parks still need a John! John Rausch, that is, John lost a close race in Tuesday's election for the Hoffman Estates Park District and it won't be long before the people realize what a sad mistake that was. John knows and loves every square inch of our parks, including every eroding lake and dying tree, probably more so than some of those who already sit on our park board. Now that the voters have given the go-ahead for corner to corner playgrounds with super-organized sports (that are supposedly played for the children's sake) I fear for the natural beauty of our parks and the spontaneity of a baseball game by the local residents.

Yes, our parks still need a friend and I suggest that for any future vacancies on the board, there can be no other choice than one very talented and knowledgeable man, John Rausch.

DETROIT — Is there any other way but up for the U.S. automakers?

Sales of new cars — both domestics and imports — have been on a steady increasing upward curve. And 1973 promises to be the third straight boom year as the industry comes off its best first quarter in history — a record 2,900,000 cars.

Auto executives are optimistic and talk of a boom. Some economic forecasters, however, can see an end to the high demand of the past two years.

What's been pulling customers into new car showrooms in record numbers?

IT'S A COMBINATION of factors, say some analysts, that might not be evident later this year. Personal income is at high levels, people have record savings and more disposable income, including record U.S. income tax refund checks because of overwithholding from payroll checks last year.

That, plus the anticipation of higher prices on both domestics and imports either this spring or by fall at the latest, spurred many sales during January, February and March, traditionally the slowest period of the year.

"I'VE NEVER seen such a demand for cars. We're taking everything we can get, regardless of what equipment is on them," comments Tony Viviano, a Dodge dealer in the Detroit suburb of Sterling Heights.

"People come in and don't ask about the price; they just want what we have in stock," he said. "We're not accustomed to that."

U.S. AUTOMAKERS had been pushing for price increases to cover added costs of labor and materials since the middle of 1972. When controls came off in January, price hikes were predicted but materialized only with an average $42 increase by Chrysler. General Motors and Ford promised no across-the-board hikes before the fall introduction of the 1974 models.

The sale of imports in February and March rose to new levels spurred by devaluation of the U. S. dollar and subsequent price hikes by the foreign makers. Buyers sought to beat the price hikes by picking up good deals on models already in this country.

The three largest imports — Volkswagen, Toyota and Datsun — have now raised prices. Datsun increased its retail prices by 13.7 per cent, Toyota by 10.2 per cent and VW by 7.2 per cent, leaving the U.S. subcompacts in a better competitive position.

THOSE SALES caused by extra income and the fear of higher prices could show up this fall and coming winter in lower sales.

The head of Chase Econometrics Associates which forecasts economic trends for more than 300 clients, including Ford and GM, expects the economy to slow down substantially during the next year or two.

Dr. Michael K. Evans told a group of Detroit bankers and stock brokers recently that sales this year should probably be about 11.7 million cars, a sharp increase from 10.9 million in 1972. But 1974 sales should level off at about 11.1 million units.

"I'm very bearish on the domestic auto industry," Evans said. "I see all sorts of problems developing."

One big problem, he said, is the addition of expensive equipment to clean up emissions. This will result in much more expensive cars that work less efficiently and are less attractive to car buyers.

COUNTERING such pessimism are statements from the top automakers who at the end of 1972 were predicting sales for this year would hit about 11.2 million cars. They've since revised those estimates upwards.

The only shadow on the sales boom in the near future is the auto contract talks that begin in July to replace the present pacts that expire for more than 750,000 workers in mid-September. Industry observers say indications are that the three-year historic strike pattern may be broken.

CITY FOLKS outnumber him 70 to 1. No longer able to locate adequate help, the American farmer depends on automation and operating efficiency. Here, animal feeding is done with pushbutton controls.

But optimism unshakable

So you've got problems? Pity livestock farmer

by LEA TONKIN

The livestock farmer's lot has never been an armchair kind of existence, and the current problems of rising costs, fuel shortages and poor weather add uncertainty to the cost of doing business.

Yet the farmers' optimism is pretty unshakable, said the marketing director for a local grain storage and feeding systems company. "We are optimistic because the farmers are optimistic," said Morris Fonda, director of marketing for the Arlington Heights-based A. O. Smith Harvestore Products Inc., subsidiary of A. O. Smith Corp.

"With the increase in the more businesslike type of farm, we all think this is good for their outlook," Fonda adds. The overall trend, despite recent boycotts, is toward higher consumption of pork and beef and this means rising farm income.

THIS TRANSLATES into hefty sales increases for the Harvestore division. "Through March of this year, we are double our production for the same period last year," said Fonda. "We're at the top of our production right now, even at the point that we can't meet the demand. We plan to begin building a new plant this summer."

Currently, Harvestore structures are manufactured at a Kankakee plant. A new site has not been named for the new plant but it will boost manufacturing capacity by 50 per cent, from 4,000 to 6,000 units a year.

"Our setup is such that we distribute through a national dealer organization," continued Fonda. "Our people meet with farmers all the time." He noted that many livestock farmers were hit by adverse weather conditions last fall and were unable to harvest feed grains. At the same time, they face the rising cost of feed and equipment and the shortage of fuel required to dry harvested grain and possible planting delays.

IN THE FACE of all these difficulties, how can a farmer afford to shell out say, $20,000 for one of those big blue Harvestore storage units when a run-of-the-mill concrete silo would cost much less? "It's something like comparing a pickup truck to a wheelbarrow," said Fonda simply.

Q. Do you have a free booklet that shows you how to fill out your tax return?

A. Yes. Just write your Internal Revenue district office and ask for IRS Publication 528, "Information on Preparing Your Tax Return." It's available free.

I don't have enough income to file a return this year, but some tax was withheld from my pay. Should I file anyway?

A. Yes. To get a refund for income tax withheld, you must file a return even if you are not otherwise required to file.

Knox Gelatine drops ad claims

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Knox Gelatine Inc., Johnstown, N.Y., has agreed to stop advertising that Knox Gelatine Drink is an important health and nutrition aid.

Under a consent order tentatively accepted by the Federal Trade Commission (FTC), the firm also was forbidden from saying that gelatine protein in general is a high quality protein or a source of nutritional benefit, or that any gelatine food product leads to good health or is nutritious.

The FTC had contended that gelatine protein is relatively low in quality and of little nutritional good, and that Knox Gelatine Drink, contrary to the firm's ads, does not contribute in a major way to nutrition.

Knox agreed to stop making the advertising claims but under the FTC's consent order procedure its acceptance did not constitute an admission that the previous claims were in error.

Harper's TV studio a magical place... but not the dental clinic

Young 'uns get a glimpse of 'grown-up' campus life

by WANDALYN RICE

The power saws being used by construction workers on the Harper College campus sound like elephants.

The college's TV studio is a magical place where you can make faces at cameras and see yourself at the same time.

But the school's computer, which draws a picture of Snoopy pursuing the Red Baron, doesn't do any better than a 4-year-old.

Those opinions were expressed by a group of children from the Candy Cane Nursery School in Des Plaines when they toured the junior college with their teachers recently.

The children, all 4 and 5 years old, got a guided tour of the school's dental hygiene clinic, TV studio and computer area from Harper student Bruce Ross. The tours were offered to school groups during the "Week of the Young Child" observed during the first week of April.

IN ADDITION to the scheduled stops on the tour, the children also made some unscheduled pauses — to stick their hands through the book-return slot in the library and to watch the construction workers putting up the new building at the school.

The first stop on the tour was the dental hygiene clinic, where a few of the children looked a little apprehensive. "Are we going to sit in the chair?" one asked her teacher.

Nobody sat in the chair, however, and the children instead watched a little boy getting his teeth cleaned.

From there, the group went down some grown-up sized stairs, noted that the stuffy air in the stairwell "smells like a swimming pool," and took off across campus for the TV studio.

One boy, named Bobby, pulled his stocking cap down over his eyes and spent part of the time on the way to the studio chasing two little girls who said he was a monster.

AT THE STUDIO, the group evicted a crew that had been rehearsing and giggled happily as they watched themselves on monitors. After playing some games and making faces at the cameras for a while, the class decided the life of a TV star is pretty tough, however.

"It's hot in here," one boy exclaimed, looking up at the bright lights.

From there, the group followed Ross through the learning resources center, staring curiously at the almost grown-up students studying there. Then Ross told them, "We'll run over to A Building," but a teacher corrected him.

"I think we should walk to A Building," she told the children.

Ross laughed and said, "You really have to watch what you say with kids. This morning I had a group of 10-year-olds and I said we were going to run somewhere, and, boy, they ran."

THE NEXT-TO-LAST stop was at the computer center, where a computer was all ready to draw Snoopy. "Can you draw that well?" one of the teachers asked the children.

"Sure, I can," came the confident reply from a little boy.

The trip ended with a snack of juice and cookies prepared by the Harper cafeteria staff, and, as the class chanted "Thank you" to Ross and the cooks, they seemed to have enjoyed their trip.

And Harper had survived and enjoyed the group as well. As one staff member said as he watched the children file by, "It's the invasion of the mighty mites."

Wheeling Republicans to sponsor forums

The concept of a "community forum" series sponsored by the Wheeling Township Republican Organization, with offices at 201 N. Dunton, Arlington Heights, has been approved by Committeeman Richard A. Cowen.

"Starting this spring, we will hold the first in a series of timely and topical programs open to the entire community," Cowen said.

"These forums will explore issues and people. They will not be limited to political areas. The format could be an individual speaker or a debate."

Cowen said the object of the forums is to stimulate thinking and discussion as well as to provide information on current questions.

The Republican organization would welcome cosponsorship of this nonpartisan series by a community group or groups, Cowen said. First of the series is planned in early May, and that program is now being developed.

Maybe that hurts...

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Omar the tentmaker? In Arlington Heights? That's what Mrs. Mary Jane Paulsen's daddy named her when, at age 14, she sewed him an old-fashioned, billowy nightshirt.

That initial endeavor, however, started Mary Jane on a lifetime joy of designing and sewing clothes and costumes for family and friends . . . and handwork of all kinds. Mrs. Paulsen never follows a pattern but improvises and adds to as she creates, she says.

"Mother has imagination!" declares Mary Jane's daughter Mrs. Mary Lynn Smith, one of five Paulsen children. Both her parents (father Walter is a craftsman-carpenter) are perfectionists, she adds.

Mrs. Paulsen's imagination and drive for perfection twice have won her the grand prize in doll dressing contests sponsored by Northwest Trust and Savings Bank of Arlington Heights.

Everything Mary Jane makes is washable, meticulous in detail and inexpensive. She watches for sales and has accumulated boxes and boxes of remnants and trims. When she's inspired to design and sew, everything she needs is at hand.

THESE SALES collections came in handy when Mary Jane decided to enter her first doll dressing contest. The bridal outfit she created captured the grand prize, and of her two winners, is her favorite.

Dressing the doll from inside out, the clever seamstress sewed a tiny bra and panties, even made nylon stockings. And not forgetting the "something blue," she fashioned a garter from blue ribbon and added a wee blue flower.

Mrs. Paulsen designed the bridal gown with circular skirt and the bodice with long sleeves pointed at the wrists. She chose white washable crepe as the fabric, interlined the skirt with Pelon and overlaid the skirt with lace. For extra beauty and detail, she fastidiously sewed a tiny seed pearl into the center of each lacy flowerlet.

To enhance and secure the white illusion bridal veil, Mary Jane formed a tiara by threading wire with white and clear beads and shaping them into petals.

Another talented member of the Paulsen family, Mrs. Cindy Dion, who is a floral designer, created the bridal bou-quet. She chose pink, blue and lavender forget-me-nots coupled with pink cascading ribbons tied in loveknots.

MRS. PAULSEN's other prize-winning costume represented a Southern belle of bygone years. She fashioned the gown of white filmy cotton and inset tiers of white lace. She completed the outfit with a floral coat of pastel colors, trimmed it in white lace and added a matching cap embellished with white ruffle.

Making costumes is nothing new for Mary Jane Paulsen. She's created rag dolls, doll outfits and other costumes for years . . . but never for money. "Once you start selling, it becomes work," she philosophizes. Either she gives away her creations or keeps them for family enjoyment.

A square dance enthusiast along with husband Wally, who's a caller, Mary Jane has designed and sewed for herself at least 30 outfits. A clown suit she made for her own children to wear at Halloween now brings joy to her grandchildren, Bobby and Patti Smith, who live just down the street from grandma.

Bobby and Patti have also benefited from their grandmother's expertise in sewing stuffed animals. These she makes from washable, plush fake furs.

Mary Jane also likes to crochet, her most recent creation a baby afghan for infant granddaughter Michele Dion. Its pastel greens, yellows and pinks remind her of sherbet, she says. She also recently finished a white baby shawl in a popcorn stitch made for a friend.

CONFINED TO A wheelchair because of illness, Mrs. Paulsen is grateful her talents keep her busy. She puts together decorative plaques and paints plaster molds. Among her favorites, two hockey players representing sons Tim, 17, a senior at Rolling Meadows High, and Scott, 10, a student at Park School. Bob, 26, her eldest, also plays hockey — for the Rolling Meadows senior hockey league.

Mary Jane's such an avid hockey booster, she attends games in her wheelchair. Active in the Arlington Heights Minor Hockey Association, she mends jerseys and socks for the players and stitches numbers and letters on about 150 jerseys.

Recently hospitalized, Mary Jane's thinking about her next project for when she comes home. It probably will be decoupage and you can bet Mary Jane will do a prize-winning job.

LUCKY TO HAVE an imaginative, some of the stuffed toys sewn for nimble-fingered grandmother, Patti them by Grandma, Mrs. Mary Jane Smith, and brother Bobby cuddle Paulsen of Arlington Heights.

Laura Becker, an old-fashioned bride

An old fashioned skirt and blouse of ivory voile trimmed in ruffles, lace and pink ribbon was chosen by Laura L.

Becker for her marriage March 24 to Laurence R. Gall. A headpiece trimmed in the same lace and ribbon held her floor-length veil, and she carried a nosegay of pink and white roses, baby's breath and white miniature carnations.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Becker, 1002 W. Cedar Lane, Arlington Heights, Laura and Laurence, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Gall, Chicago, were married in a double ring service at 2:30 p.m. in Mayfair Bible Church, Chicago.

Mrs. Sandra M. Becker of Rolling Meadows, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Buffy Daggett and Linda M. Cichy, both of Mount Prospect. The attendants were in pink and white flocked blouses in floral print with solid pink skirts with ruffles at the hemline. They carried nosegays of multi-colored flowers.

FRANK L. GALL Jr., Chicago, was his brother's best man, and his brother Warren Gall, Chicago, and the bride's brother, Jeffrey R. Becker, Rolling Meadows, were ushers.

The service was followed by a reception for 200 guests in the church parlors and a family dinner at the Brass Ball in Arlington Heights.

Laura is a 1970 graduate of Forest View High School and a 1971 graduate of the American School of Beauty Culture, Des Plaines. She is employed by Sears Roebuck, Niles. Laurence, a '69 graduate of Roosevelt High School, is an x-ray technician student at Sidney Forkosh Memorial Hospital, Chicago.

The newlyweds honeymooned in Wisconsin for a week and are now at home in an apartment at 3750 W. Montrose, Chicago.

The Home Line

by Dorothy Ritz

I'm just back from the funeral service for an 18-year-old boy, dead by his own hand. He was one of those unfortunate victims of LSD, the hallucinatory drug. Some people have experimented with it and boast about it, as if it was a feat. Some are wrecked by it — how many we will never know. This young man was one of those.

It ruined his young life and he left it rather than inflict more anguish on his father and mother. I'm not going to preach any sermon. If this simple message of my own grief over this kind of needless meddling with strange drugs deters only one young reader, it is worth the printing.

Dear Dorothy: On a recent trip to Mexico City I purchased a handsome leather handbag. However, it has since developed a dreadful odor, similar to cod-liver oil. It's an expensive bag and I'd like to be able to use it. Any suggestions? I. Mueller Sorry, I haven't. I don't want to malign all of the leather goods made in Mexico because some are excellent.

But in some instances, the tanning is faulty and the result has been products with odors so unpleasant they have had to be thrown away. Up to now I haven't run into any process that eliminates these odors. Has anyone?

Dear Dorothy: I want to buy some netting to put over my fruit trees when the time comes. Cotton netting is less expensive than nylon but I'm wondering if there's a preservative I can use to make it last longer? —Joseph Friebert

If that is, I've never heard of it. I didn't know anything made cotton stronger. Most people buy the nylon netting for this purpose just because it is practically indestructible.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to her in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 200, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60005.)

List tells children's events

Denmark: a family fairyland

by CLARE WRIGHT

The friendly Danes are pushing family vacations this year with a slew of practical ideas for the Mom and Dad who want to take their kids along on that trip to Europe.

The Danish National Tourist Office has published "The Children's Own Event List of Denmark" which includes the best attractions for the family traveling with children.

Included are lists of castles, museums, amusement parks, circuses, zoos, festivals and fairs where children — and their parents — can have a lot of fun in Hans Christian Andersen's happy country.

For parents who would like to spend a part of their European vacation on their own — and know that the youngsters are having fun, too — the Danes have several suggestions:

- Camp Viking for boys and girls 8-15 years old is situated at Asserbo, Frederiksvaerk, 25 miles north of Copenhagen. The camp fee is $58.50 per week.
- The Jutland Riding Institute at Vejle offers a combination summer camp and riding school for children. Campers live and eat at the Athletic School of Jutland, one of the most beautifully situated schools in Denmark with nice rooms with two beds, showers, outdoor swimming pool, Finnish sauna and all kinds of sports activities.

HALF AN HOUR AWAY from the Riding Institute is a real Wild West Vacation Center for children from 7 to 16 on a 70-acre farm.

Here there are riding grounds, pony treks, wagons, and camping facilities.

- Danish Farm Vacations. At Aarhus, on the peninsula of Jutland, your children can spend a week (or more, of course) on a real Danish farm for $5 a day, including full board. English is spoken, of course.

If you keep your children with you throughout your vacation in Denmark, but still want a "night out" on your own now and then, babysitters are no problem in Copenhagen. An excellent sitter service is operated by students of the Copenhagen University — Studenternes Babysitters, Martensens Alle 4A, VE 3038.

Few cities in the world offer more fun for children than Copenhagen. Here are a few examples:

Tivoli Gardens: Open from 9 a.m. to midnight, featuring, apart from a supervised playground, a variety of attractions, such as the world's only Pantomime Theatre.

Copenhagen Zoo, located in a beautiful 20-acre park.

Circus Schumann — one of the finest of its kind.

The National Museum — fascinating collections, dating back to the time of the Vikings.

The Arsenal — containing one of the most important collections of weapons, colors and uniforms in the world.

Old Canals of Copenhagen, seen by motorboat, a charming experience, as is a trip around the harbor — the largest in Northern Europe.

Frederiksborg Garden — a truly romantic park, with canals for rowboats, wading pool for children, toy sailboats, and ducks.

Deer Park at Klampenborg — just North of Copenhagen and considered Denmark's most beautiful forest, covering nearly 900 acres, with more than 1,200 deer.

Denmark is an ideal country for traveling with children. The country has a wonderful climate, superior health standards, and is famous for the best in foods which are exported to all parts of the globe.

And — practically all Danes speak English. Or, they like to think they do.

A FARM vacation in Denmark can be a great experience for the whole family.

Old MacDonald had farm but don't start humming

Vacationing on a Danish farm can be a unique family vacation.

But before you start humming "Old MacDonald Had A Farm" remember that you can't expect wall-to-wall carpeting in your bedroom or soft music in the background.

But, promises the Danish National Tourist Office you'll have a good bed, good food, good fun, and a rewarding "people-to-people" experience.

"This was the first time I'd ever really had a holiday with the kids along — we hardly saw them except at mealtimes," commented one Northwest suburban homemaker after she and her family spent a vacation on a farm in Denmark.

Danish farm vacations were started in 1966 by a local tourist organization in Jutland.

Today the fast-developing tourist project is well-regulated by farm owners in cooperation with local tourist offices.

ALL FARMS ARE working concerns. At least one member of the farm household must have a practical knowledge of the language of his guests. No farm must take in more than eight guests at any one period.

Danish towns are already set to receive bookings this year. Inquiries should be addressed to the tourist office in the town of your choice, specifying requirements such as length of stay, rooms needed, and type of board (full or demi-pension).

The season is June 18 - Sept. 20, and rates begin at $5.50 for room and full board (three meals). There is a 50% reduction for children under four, and 25% reduction for children from four to 12.

Cities and towns offering farm vacations include Aalborg, Haderslev, Horsens, Kolding, Silkeborg, Skive, Struer, Vejle, Viborg, Ring, Koge and Ringsted.

Modern methods come to Fijian drink fixing

Time was when a maiden was required. Now it's mortars and machines.

No longer must village maidens chew the pepper plant root into the soft, pulpy mass necessary for the preparation of yagona — the Fijian ceremonial drink, pronounced yang-gona, or kava. Today, the root is pounded in a pestle and mortar or ground into powder by machine.

However, when both machine and maiden are unavailable, ready-to-mix yagona powder can be purchased in markets and small shops.

Kava is mixed in a tanoa, a large wooden bowl carved from a single piece of hardwood called vesi. Most tanoas are simple, round bowls supported by up to 10 legs and sometimes as wide as 36 inches. Ceremonial tanoas can be much larger and often are quite old.

In the preparation of yagona, water is added to the pulped root in the tanoa. Then, the gritty pieces of root are strained out by passing the liquid through the Vau tree through the liquid. Or, cheese cloth can be used. When the grit's gone, the kava is ready for drinking.

In ancient Fiji, yagona mixing and drinking — a complicated and strict ritual — was performed on such occasions as birth, marriage or the installation of a chief. Because of the great significance still attached to the ceremony, it is not handled as a spectacle for tourists.

However, American Airlines — with daily service from Chicago to Fiji via Honolulu — reports that of late kava drinking has also become social. And tourists can take a "nip" at the Fiji Visitor's Bureau in Suva, where they will receive a certificate of membership to the Fellowship of Fiji Kava Drinkers.

The taste? Champagne it ain't!

Pioneer museum will show Kentucky history

FRANKFORT, Ky., (UPI) — Kentucky has decided to provide a museum at the Kentucky National Guard Arsenal here so visitors can enjoy a trove of memorabilia acquired since pioneer days.

Designed primarily to be a panorama of Kentucky military history, the exhibits at the arsenal will include military weapons, soldiers' uniforms, battle flags, drums and even Daniel Boone's famed long rifle. The 123-year-old arsenal is expected to begin its new function as a museum this June.

Honeymooners heading for cities

Newlyweds are shifting their choice of honeymoons back to major cities in the U.S., reversing a decade of preference for the "country" honeymoon.

"There appears to be a cycle. At one time, when our population was less urban, young folks went to the cities for the theater, museums, shopping and general cultural experiences," notes Kenneth Scholl, a veteran hotelier who manages the Sir Francis Drake in San Francisco.

For years after, Europe was a favored destination for honeymooners who took advantage of the special air fares available to them in the 1960's. During the Kennedy administration and into the years of the Johnson administration, numerous steps were taken to keep the tourist dollar at home, the formation of the Discover America program and heightened emphasis on our natural parks systems.

"In the early 1970's, we saw increased honeymoon traffic to our great urban centers . . . New York, Chicago, Washington, Boston, St. Louis, Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"Last year at the Sir Francis Drake in San Francisco, honeymoon business increased nearly 25 per cent over 1971, and projections now show even more of an increase in 1973.

"Young people are interested in people, and the cities with their great melting pots offer the greatest opportunity to meet others," Mr. Scholl notes and, putting in a plug for his city, "Naturally San Francisco is the world's most exciting with a diverse population living in harmony by the sea."

TIVOLI GARDENS, in Copenhagen is one of the great reasons why traveling in Europe with children can be a fun experience for the kids — and Mom and Dad too!

Gear the trip to their interests, too

Traveling with kids takes planning

by PEGGY WISNIEWSKI

Thinking of traveling abroad with children?

The first time I started planning a trip with mine I guess I imagined myself tirelessly hopping across Europe feeling and looking fresh and well-groomed and constantly patient... the glamorous American homemaker with two neat, always clean, cooperative and enthusiastic children.

People looked at me with astonishment when I announced my plans. And they had plenty of questions. What if the kids get sick? What about food? Laundry? Will sightseeing be too boring or tiring for them? Will we require special services because of the children? What about bathroom stops? Will they cramp the style of the adult members of our group?

Prepared for the most exciting travel experience of our lifetime (as well as any possible major and minor catastrophe), my mother, two sons (aged six and five) and I embarked on a month-long Globus Tour to nine European countries via tour bus, canal boats, jets, double-decker buses, steamer, hydrofoil, horse-drawn carriage, row boat, taxi, streetcar, underground, cable car and ski lift with 30 other adult members of our tour.

IT WAS GREAT! The two little ones were fascinated by the sights, sounds and smells of Europe, and our own enthusiasm was sparked by watching them share the pleasures of the adults around them.

It takes a lot of preparation and forethought if your child is to get the most out of his trip abroad and remember the wonderful experiences he will have.

Use the library before you leave. Tune in your children's ears to different languages he will hear with children's records and songs. Read them stories of boys and girls in other lands.

While you're in Europe, try to let your children meet children of foreign countries to hear them speak. They'll make friends quickly, especially if they have a toy to show or a snack to share. Parks are the best place for meeting other children in a relaxed and natural setting.

If possible, let your child have his own inexpensive camera so he can take pictures of friends he meets.

HAVE PAPER, pencils and crayons handy on your trip so the children can draw what they see. This is a wonderful way to pass time while on a tour bus. Have them dictate postcards and letters to their friends back home.

Trace your itinerary on a map so they can see where they have been and guess how long it will take to get to the next destination.

Tips for Mother! A fairly large lightweight travel bag is much more practical than a purse for the things you want to keep handy during the day. Carry a small plastic litter bag, pre-moistened towelettes, a few favorite non-perishable snacks, small toys and storybooks, a few bars of soap and a small first aid kit.

Try to have your child wear the same clothes two days in a row — even three if possible. Mix and match, perma-press clothes, especially socks, should be of the fast-drying types of fabric. Even though laundromats are available in most of the larger cities, you will have more exciting things to do.

BE SURE THAT everybody has at least two pairs of comfortable shoes.

Have your pediatrician prescribe tablets for diarrhea. You needn't worry about unexpected bathroom stops. Tour guides make sure there are sufficient rest stops along the way. It does help, however, to cut down on liquid refreshments if you have a long bus trip ahead of you.

Babysitters are easily available in most all hotels in Europe. Rates are about the same as they are here — sometimes slightly less.

Don't forget your child needs, at times, to work off excess energy — and it's easier on you if you devote a great deal of your sightseeing to things that interest the children too.

If you stop at a hotel or motel outside the city limits you might walk to the nearest farm. We did and were delighted to find a cordial farmer who let the boys watch the grooming and feeding of his cows and pigs — and discover a new baby calf.

CHILDREN LOVE Europe's old fortresses and castles. Ours liked posing with guards and mounted policemen. And what fun they had running about the courtyard of the Tower of London while we took time to look at the Crown Jewels.

Our boys were delighted with the deep bathtubs of Europe, the trundle beds with thick soft feather comforters, and the wonderful amusement parks (especially Tivoli Gardens with its magical lights, fountains and rides). They'll never forget the colorful street vendors, wooden shoes, traveling carnivals, hot chocolate always made with milk, yodeling, lake excursions, bicycles everywhere, the gargoyles of Notre Dame Cathedral, fishermen and fishing boats and all the marvelous beaches.

Don't miss the chance to take your children along when you tour Europe. I'm so glad I took mine!

TRAVEL LORE

by Clare Wright,
TRAVEL EDITOR

So you're planning your first trip to Europe and you're already worried about customs!

No need to be! For the most part, the inspectors at the airport are just as anxious to speed up the process as you are.

You can help too — by following a few simple rules beforehand.

First of all — remember to make a full declaration. That means ALL foreign purchases you bring into the U.S. If they add up to less than $100, you don't have to make a written declaration.

We usually do, however. The airlines provide all passengers with an easy declaration form, and even if you've only done a small bit of shopping it's smart to use it.

SINCE WE ALWAYS seem to come back loaded with a conglomeration of small toys and inexpensive souvenirs, we lump these into a miscellaneous declaration. You can do this up to $50 worth. After that you must itemize.

Yes, you must include in your list any items of clothing you are wearing — or things that are used — along with the price you paid for them. Customs inspectors will make an adjustment in the value of used items.

Each individual gets a duty exemption of $100 if he's been out of the country more than 48 hours. Mexico (with no minimum time) and some U.S. territories are exceptions.

If you go beyond the $100 exemption — even just a smidgeon — you must pay duty on the purchases that push you over. Most inspectors, however, charge on items with the lowest duty rate.

Don't submit an incomplete customs form. If you do, your foreign purchase may be confiscated and you can be charged a penalty equal to the U.S. retail value of the undeclared article.

DON'T FORGET to register any foreign-made articles like cameras, watches, handbags or similar items BEFORE you leave on your trip. You may do this at any airport customs office, or at the District Customs Director's Office, 610 S. Canal St., Chicago.

Just be sure you have the articles with you so the customs officer can examine them. He'll then certify on a form that you possessed the items before you left the country. When you come back through the U.S. Customs line, just show this form to the inspector. Be sure you don't lose this form because the customs officers won't keep a copy of it.

And — if you have a charm bracelet made of gold coins, leave it home!

HERE ARE TWO more things you can do to help speed up your inspection at the customs line:

- Pack all foreign purchases in one suitcase so the inspector can examine them easily.

- Keep receipts for all items purchased abroad. And be sure and be wary of foreign merchants who suggest writing "deflated" sales slips to make your duty less. Don't accept them. Customs inspectors are sharp about catching incorrect receipts, and they are knowledgeable about foreign prices.

According to a spokesman in the Chicago customs office, travelers should always avoid listening to "advice" given by foreign shopkeepers about import duty. The only completely qualified advisers are the people in the U.S. customs service.

Actually, most customs regulations are pretty easy to understand.

The Bureau of Customs publishes a helpful, free booklet, "Know Before You Go," which you can obtain by writing to the District Director of Customs, 610 South Canal St., Chicago 60607, or calling them at 353-6115.

Bridge the generation gap in America's own 'Camelot'

by C. J. CAMPION

SAN FRANCISCO — This western Camelot-by-the-Bay is perhaps America's easiest city for instantly bridging the generation gap.

Grownups, teen-agers and small-fry alike find a wealth of things to do and places to see on the six-by-seven mile peninsula and its surrounding satellites. Situated on several major and scores of minor hills, San Francisco is vertically-oriented. One can walk almost anywhere, or get there in minutes on the amazing cable car (for 25 cents.)

Start with a downtown stroll, which breaks pleasantly for lunch and shopping. Union Square is a convenient starting-point; greenery in the sunlight amid the fine shops and big hotels. Go east on Post Street two blocks, then up Grant Avenue and you're in Chinatown. A gilded pagoda gateway tells you so.

Dozens of shops, Chinese groceries and some mysterious alleys here and there. Chopstick cafes, incense and strange string music... Dubuque it ain't.

At the junction of Grant Avenue and Jackson Street, turn right (east) to cross Columbus Avenue and enter Jackson Square. This brick-front row of decorators' shops and showrooms is all that remains of the wicked Old City, destroyed by earthquake and fire in 1906. Linger awhile, then turn south on Montgomery Street to see the Wells Fargo Museum (just north of California St.) where there's a real stagecoach and gold, guns and relics of the Days of '49. Open weekdays 10 to 3 p.m., free admission.

NEARBY (PINE and Sansome) the busy Pacific Coast Stock Exchange is open daily for visitors until 2:30 p.m., weekdays.

Across Market at Sansome is the Standard Oil Petroleum Museum: enough dinosaurs and old cars to please everyone. It's open 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays, free.

Enough for the day? Perhaps another might be spent under the wing of The Gray Line, which operates sight-seeing tours of the City four times daily, (six times in summer); at night, over to the redwoods of Muir Woods, and up to the Napa Valley wine country. A call to 771-4000 will yield details. Other tours can be chosen by a stop at the Redwood Empire Association Visitors Information Center,

476 Post St. — half a block west of Union Square. (Open 9 a.m. - 5 p.m., Monday - Saturday.)

One delightful "family-type" day can include seeing San Francisco's unmatched Golden Gate Park, a 1,017-acre oasis on the ocean's edge. It was reclaimed from sand dunes a century ago. Various municipal buses serve the park and its treasure-trove center area, containing the DeYoung Museum, with the dazzling Brundage Oriental wall; the Steinhart Aquarium, the California Academy of Sciences, the Japanese Tea Garden, 60-acre Strybing Arboretum, and much, much more.

FOR THE ACTIVE there are horses, boats and bicycles for rent, polo and baseball to watch, tennis and bowling, and miles of quiet shrub-bordered paths. This is truly one of the world's great city parks.

The San Francisco Zoo, (L Streetcar or No. 18 Bus) is well worth a visit. It's open daily, 10 a.m. to 5:30 — admission 50 cents, with youngsters under 16, and senior citizens, free. There are elephant trains, a Children's Zoo, acres of swings and walks.

Toward the north edge of the City lies another pleasure ground for visitors. The old Spanish Presidio, now a wooded 1,500-acre military reservation, shelters Civil War-vintage Fort Point, a brick bastion guarding the Golden Gate, and open daily, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Just outside the Presidio on Lyon Street is the Roman-style Palace of Arts & Sciences, which houses a sort of on-going happening labelled Exploratorium. Kids love it. Many of the main touch-see-hear exhibits are free, a "Haptic World" tour is $1. It's open Wednesday through Sunday, 1 to 5 p.m., and Wednesday nights 7 to 9:30 p.m. No 30 bus.

Nearby is the Victorian boutique-and-bistro called Union Street, fine for strolling, shopping and snacking. In the other direction, by the Bay, is the broad Marina Green and several yacht harbors — recommended for girl and boat watchers.

If you'd like more information on what to do and see in this favored family center, send 25 cents to cover postage and handling to Redwood Empire Association, 476 Post St., San Francisco, Calif. 94102.

Travel briefs

ICELANDIC STARTS CHICAGO SERVICE

Icelandic Airlines, which will inaugurate direct jet service between Chicago and Luxembourg May 2, has increased its previously announced schedule from three to five round-trip flights weekly. A stop is made in Iceland, with stopover privileges at no extra air fare, on all flights.

Departures aboard DC-8 jets are scheduled from Chicago's O'Hare Airport Wednesdays and Saturdays at 8 p.m., Thursdays and Sundays at 8:30 p.m., and Mondays at 11 p.m.

Connections can be made in Iceland for flights to Norway, Sweden, Denmark, England and Scotland.

"INSTANT" AIRLINE TICKETS

Passengers will get their flight tickets faster and be assured of more accurate ticketing, thanks to new computer systems being installed by United Air Lines and American Airlines in Chicago and throughout the country.

United's first instant ticket printers, which will issue completed, passenger-ready tickets in an average time of eight seconds, will be installed at O'Hare about May 3, and at Midway about Aug. 21, with a total of 250 units to be placed at airports and ticket offices throughout the U.S. by the end of the year.

American hopes to have 85 per cent of its fare combinations computerized by June, and 100 per cent by mid-November.

The plan will enable American reservations and ticket salesmen to make their fare quotations directly from a computer to help the airline reduce the margin of human error occasionally encountered when a passenger buys a flight ticket.

Both United and American are already using computer ticketing systems on a limited basis.

DOLLAR STABLE IN CANADA

United States and Canadian currencies are virtually at a par and all indications are they will remain so, according to the Canadian Government Travel Bureau. An exchange of $500, for example, produces a difference of only 60 cents in favor of U.S. currency.

"YOUNG ADVENTURE HOLIDAYS"

Land costs, starting at $239, include accommodations, meals, sightseeing, tours and excursions, transfers, use of equipment, theatre tickets in London and supervision, counselling and instruction by professional adult organizers and administrators.

Six departures are scheduled between June 19 and Aug. 1.

"Young Adventure Holiday" brochures and other information are available at BOAC sales offices — or at your Northwest suburban travel agent's office.

Social Security and You

Q — I am 67 years old and I haven't received any Social Security checks since I had them stopped when I went back to work in May of 1972. I have already filed my federal income tax return for 1972 which shows how much I earned. However, my neighbor says that because I received some Social Security payments in 1972 I am also required to file an annual report with the Social Security Administration. Is this true? I earned $2,400.

A — Yes. A person must file an annual report with the Social Security Administration if (1) his earnings for 1972 came to more than $1,680 and (2) he received Social Security benefits in any amount. Upon receipt of that report, the Administration will determine whether the individual is entitled to any additional Social Security payments for the year or must refund any payment that was made. In 1972, $1,680 was the maximum a Social Security recipient could earn without affecting his benefits. Effective in 1973, the allowable earnings is $2,100. The deadline for filing of such reports is the same (April 15 this year) as the deadline for federal income tax returns.

The Doctor Says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Some time ago you wrote in your column that the scientists recommended that heart patients eat no more than three egg yolks per week. Yet in a popular food book the author says that there is enough lecithin in an egg yolk to destroy the cholesterol in it and we've read this in other articles too. Now just who is right?

Dear Reader — I'm afraid the lady who wrote the book you referred to is not in step with the scientific community or the rest of the medical profession that is concerned with heart and vascular disease. In fact, three of her books are on the "not recommended" list prepared by the Chicago Nutrition Assn.

I continually get questions about lecithin "breaking up the fat" or "neutralizing the cholesterol" and other such statements. Egg yolks do contain lecithin. Lecithin is one type of fatty acid. Originally it was hoped that it would help to improve solubility of the fatty particles in the bloodstream and thereby prevent atherosclerosis.

Dedicated scientists have evaluated this problem rather carefully in hopes to achieve this. The results of carefully designed experiments have established clearly that the addition of lecithin and like products to the diet will not lower the blood cholesterol, it will not dissolve the fats in the bloodstream and most specifically it will not prevent atherosclerosis, or hardening of the arteries, that leads to heart disease and strokes. Publications that state to the contrary do not have the stamp of approval by the scientific community and the statements are not supported by competent scientific investigation.

PERSONALLY telephoned Dr. Jeremiah Stamler in Chicago who has been one of the pioneer research investigators in this area and with others carried out a great deal of the research of lecithin and related substances. I have also discussed this specific point with the medical director of the American Heart Association. The results of careful research have been published in scientific literature and are available to, and known to, the medical profession.

Scientists in the American Heart Association and other scientific organizations do not feel that the presence of lecithin in the egg yolk or the use of lecithin in health food tablets or from any other source provides any meaningful answer to the problem of atherosclerosis. This is true regardless of enthusiastic articles in popular magazines published without the approval of the scientific community.

Dear Dr. Lamb — Please tell me what foods are rich in potassium for someone with a potassium deficiency.

Dear Reader — In general the fruits are rich in potassium although there are many other sources of potassium in the foods we eat anyway. It's more difficult to design a diet to be free of potassium than it is to add potassium to the diet.

One of the sources I usually recommend is orange juice. A full glass of orange juice three times a day provides as much potassium as is often prescribed by doctors for potassium deficiencies. If a person will drink a full eight ounce glass of orange juice each day it will add a great deal of potassium to his regular intake.

You can also get lots of potassium from grapefruit, apples, and other fruits. But orange juice is at the top of the list for a common food that contains a lot of potassium.

Loopholes: a quagmire of worthy causes

WASHINGTON — A number of senators in recent days have spoken out on the need for tax reform. The one thing that stands clear from their statements is that they don't really understand the problem.

Senators tend to approach reform from the angle that while their backs were turned some nefarious person or persons unknown infiltrated the Internal Revenue code and riddled it with loopholes.

In their view, tax reform is needed to undo the work of highbinders acting at the behest of vested interests.

I certainly agree there are elements of inequity in the tax laws. And that something should be done before the phantom loophole strikes again. But this is not the greatest defect.

THE MAIN PROBLEM rests on the premise that:

- People who mean well cause more trouble in this world than those with evil intentions.
- True reform must begin by draining the great dismal swamp through which one must slog in order to pay one's taxes.

Believe it or not, our tax forms, which are the verbal equivalent of freshly discarded bubblegum, were not deliberately contrived to vex and nettles you to the point where you break out in hives. It just seems that way.

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (UPI) — Germs and mankind live in peaceful co-existence. But when the bacteria get out of line, it is all-out war and in terms of survival, the germs may be the loser, a Yale University doctor says.

In order to survive, bacteria must have a compatible environment. If they upset their ecological balance and destroy their host, they destroy themselves.

Dr. Lewis Thomas, dean of the Yale Medical School, says Americans have become overly suspicious about germs and spend millions of dollars to weed out the unseen millions whether friend or foe.

"THESE ARE paranoid delusions on a societal scale, explainable in part by our need for enemies and in part by our memory of what things used to be like," Dr. Thomas said.

Bacteria once posed a serious threat to mankind which was afflicted with such diseases as pneumonia, meningitis, diphtheria, syphilis, tuberculosis and fevers.

"Most of these have now left most of us, thanks to antibiotics, plumbing, civilization and money," Dr. Thomas wrote in a recent article for the New England Journal of Medicine.

"But we remember," he said.

OUT OF THE thousands of varieties of bacteria, he said, only a relative handful pose the threat of disease. Built into man's system is a line of defense against bacterial infection that is so strong, he said, that its cure can be far worse than the disease.

"We are, in effect, at the mercy of our own pentagons, most of the time," he said.

"We are certainly as much a threat to the bacterial world — probably more of a threat than they are to us," he said.

"We have very powerful defense mechanisms available to us and much of the trouble we get into from infectious diseases is turned on by our own defense mechanisms," he said.

Dr. Thomas said the reaction of the body to alien bacteria dates from the far reaches of time and has evolved as part of man's heredity — a memory bank of how to defend the body against invaders.

The mania for routing out bacteria through disinfectants, germicidal sprays and deodorants is largely a waste of time and money, he said.

"I THINK WE TAKE the threat a great deal more seriously than it needs taking," he said.

"I don't think we pass around very many diseases by passing around the wrong drinking cup or touching the world outside. I think there are bacteria all over the place and I think the majority of them do not wish us harm."

"I think we overestimate the hostility of the microbial world," he said.

Many of man's serious diseases are the result of the body's over-reaction to the presence of bacteria rather than the infection itself.

When the body detects alien bacteria, it opens up its arsenal of biochemical defenses to wipe out the enemy. Some relatively mild bacteria, he said, produce violent reactions in the body all out of proportion to the real threat.

The body has a particularly violent reaction to endotoxins, a poisonous substance produced by the deadly so-called "gram-negative" bacteria as well as other less lethal types.

WHEN THE BODY detects the toxin, it reacts with full fury, he said, even if it isn't the feared enemy. The body's reaction causes hemorrhaging, kills the tissue in the area of the infection and the patient goes into shock.

The body, unable to distinguish the seriousness of the chemical signals, releases a fever-producing toxin, making the patient even more ill.

"It is a shambles," he said.

"All of this seems unnecessary, panic-driven."

While the bacteria producing the toxin may not pose a serious threat, he said, the body believes it to be the dreaded gram-negative bacteria and it will stop at nothing to annihilate the threat.

Rixi Markus is a staunch advocate of the almost indiscriminate use of the four-card major suit opening. Her statement is, "Whenever possible I open the bidding with one heart or one spade whether the suit has four or five cards."

Then she gives an example of a very successful use of an opening spade bid with a weak four-card suit.

The hand was supposedly playing in a pairs event. Her spade opening effectively stole the spade suit from her opponents and after South's three no-trump bid West couldn't lead a spade and led his long suit to collect six tricks in it right off the bat.

At all other tables South played in spades and made 12 tricks. Most were in game; a couple of pairs just got to a part score while some hardy souls actually bid the slam.

This hand certainly shows merit to the random four-card major suit opening. Five-card majors can produce just as devastating examples of bad results due to this type of opening.

We will continue to stand by our own theory which is to avoid four-card major openings as much as possible, but not to leave them entirely out of our bidding kit.

Supreme Court 'irrational'

Abortion decision hit

The final chapter on the issue of abortion has not yet been written. If we understand the circumstances which brought about the recent change in our laws, we will be convinced of the urgency to work for a reversal of the Supreme Court ruling.

A drift toward irrationality started in the judiciary branch of our government with the appointment of Chief Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes to the Supreme Court in 1902. It continued under his 30 years of leadership, when the priority of social directives was substituted for constitutional precedent. During that time, and with continued momentum afterward, the tortuous meandering of court decisions was incapable of synthesis; neither had it any direction except that of anti-constitutionalism and anti-intellectualism.

We saw the culmination of these lack of principles in our law with the ruling on abortion. What had begun slowly and subtly now revealed its true nature.

Our guarantees for the protection of life were undercut. The words of the Founders of this nation, as stated in General Congress on July 4, 1776, were rendered meaningless. "Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life." Included in those rights was protection for the child in the womb, because centuries old common law held that abortion was the taking of a life.

By virtue of the change in existing abortion laws, the members of the Supreme Court and the pro-abortionists who lobbied for it substituted considerations of pragmatism — which can be a cover for license, economics, power or anything else — for our constitutional guarantees.

The decision on abortion set a most serious precedent and destroyed the foundations of our rights in society. It has extended the limits of personal freedom at the expense of the sovereignty of all the members of society.

As long as this ruling stands, the source of our law will be the judgment and whim of groups or individuals in control of the offices in government. Since such decision is variable and arbitrary, it is therefore tyranny.

For those who argue that the issue revolves on the definition of the humanity of a fetus, "What are the credentials of those who challenge the common law of past centuries?"

The medical profession, whose dedication to humanity was a matter of tradition, is a sorry witness. The serious internal dissension within the ranks of the American Medical Association in the past two decades is a fair index of their self-serving. An additional insight is offered by Abraham Joshua Heschel in his address to the members of the A.M.A. when he suggested they could combat the "virus of commercialism" by deciding to "establish a maximum level of annual income."

Even the great institutions of freedom, the communications media, have failed us. They exploit the issue of abortion for their own purpose, just as they have profited from the pornography in which we swim.

We might expect enlightened leadership on another front, our leaders in government, but the flagrant instances of the use of tax shelters in the past provide us with doubts.

In conclusion, it should be self-evident that government cannot be accepted as a source of moral values, it cannot provide a meaning to life, or give inner peace, or justify a conscience. Those on the other hand who side-step moral considerations must face the intellectual absolutes if they are to avoid blame for irresponsibility, because these are the fiber of our inner being. In this regard man has no freedom of choice. To be rational man must define and choose principles of action.

By striving to reverse the ruling on abortion we will gain our own self-respect.

Mount Prospect's Motsch defends his candidacy

This letter is in reply to Anton Dvylis's letter, "He backs Mount Prospect candidate."

Since I am his chief target in this letter, I make this reply: I am very much interested in the wants and needs of my community and since no other candidate other than the incumbent was a candidate until the campaign was half over, I felt it was my duty to become a candidate. I could not see an unopposed candidate for mayor in such a large village as Mount Prospect. It was not my personal desire to become mayor. I am a candidate by necessity rather than by ambition. Ambition is no disgrace, but lack of it is.

Letters welcome

The Herald welcomes and encourages letters from readers. Letters are published in "The Fence Post" column; no anonymous mail is considered for publication, and we will not withhold names on request. Letters in excess of 300 words are subject to condensation. Direct your mail to Herald Fence Post, P. O. Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.

My critic states that my political experience and administrative abilities have never been proven. This is a false accusation. Where has Mr. Dvylis been the past 16 years that I have resided in Mount Prospect? During this time on many occasions I appeared publicly on 'Educate yourself'

An open letter to all women who are now seeking, or will in the future seek, an abortion:

The Supreme Court has handed down a decision that has given you the right to decide whether to continue your pregnancy or not. This right presents you with a tremendous obligation.

You are obligated to make an intelligent and educated decision. This obligation is to yourself, your unborn, and your future.

Intelligently examine your motives for having an abortion. Are these reasons acceptable to you? Are you seeking the abortion because you want it or are you succumbing to the pressures of society, parents, peer group, husband, lover? If you have doubts, don't give in. After the abortion you will be left to face up to your decision alone. Or are you terminating your pregnancy because of panic, fear, desperation? Pro-abortionists tell us to leave emotion out of the abortion issue — now is the time for you to leave the emotions of panic, fear and desperation out of your decision. These emotions can change quickly, so ignore them when deciding.

You have been given the right to control your bodies. In order to use this right properly you must educate yourself.

Do you know what is happening to your body while you are pregnant? Educate yourself about the facts of pregnancy, childbirth, and fetal life. Now, do you know what happens during an abortion? Educate yourself — find out what the risks are, what the medical procedure is, what the after effects are — physically and emotionally. All of this is essential to making an intelligent decision.

Have you really thought about why you became pregnant in the first place — was this really an unwanted or accidental pregnancy? Do some soul searching. Educate yourself about preventing another pregnancy — contraceptives are extremely effective when used, sterilization could be the answer.

What about alternatives to abortion — have you talked to counselors or adoption agencies? Find out what the alternatives are and give them an honest appraisal.

Before aborting your baby, accept your obligations. Educate yourself about yourself — your feelings, motives, and desires. Get factual information about what you are doing. This is a life and death decision — give it that kind of consideration.

Hits flood statement

Two years have passed and we're at it again. The "neophytes" have not changed their ways. Untruths are running wild and the candidates are running a smear campaign unrivaled in our community in years.

Why do political candidates have to defend individuals who are not running for office? Shades of the early 1960's when a member of a commission was trotted out by a group of "citizens." Seems that "group of citizens" also had political aspirations.

Untruths — try this one. "Our candidate is the first woman seeking the position of trustee." Bah-humb! Knowledgeable they are not. In 1967 (I am sure that most if not all of the candidates or their "learned" staff on the one slate were here in 1967) two women appeared on the ballot.

People have been told their taxes would increase by up to $600 per home —

mentary in the March 15 Wheeling Herald that village politics are hard to follow, I find I have to agree with her. However, as the objector to the T.O.P. petitions, I feel it needs some clarification. After carefully studying their petitions and statements of candidacy, I was amazed at the careless way in which they were prepared.

Miss Aswad in her commentary says, "The objections were for the most part petty inaccuracies" and "an abuse of the protections provided by state election laws." However, the news story in the March 6 Herald gave a different interpretation. It stated that "the T.O.P. party's place on the ballot will depend on the board's interpretation of the validity of signatures and election laws." I believe it was not an abuse but a valid, legal action.

Since the village of Wheeling has a history of being very technical on these matters, it appears they only apply to challengers and not the party in power. The fact that they had 450 questionable signatures shows their disregard for technicalities.

The points to which I objected, such as: The designation of precinct district rather than Wheeling; incorrect headings; names not signed as registered; signatures of non-registered voters and duplicate signatures, are identical to those raised against WHIP in 1971.

At that time, the Electoral Board, consisting of Evelyn Diens, Ted Scanlon and Peter Egan, ruled to remove WHIP from the ballot on these and other objections. Now, only two short years later, the petitions of Diens, Mr. Scanlon, and their running mates contain the same discrepancies.

Regarding Mr. Massa's objections to WHIP, his accusation that none of the petitions were signed in the presence of the circulators was an attack on the integrity of these individuals. We feel this was definitely an abuse of election law, for which Mr. Massa has yet to answer.

I disagree that I abused election laws. Those laws were formulated and enacted to protect the voter from a fraudulent election. I do agree it's a shame to devote so much time, effort and money to court hearings, but now the voters will be guaranteed a democratic choice of two parties, rather than the uncontested elections that Wheeling voters have been subjected to for over six years. To clarify any misinterpretation, this is what I am grateful to have accomplished.

ERA passage encouraged

Dear Donald Totten, R-3rd:

As State representative of the 3rd District, the district in which I live, I find it upsetting that you are planning to vote against an amendment that would insure equal rights for over one-half of the population. The amendment reads as follows: "Equality under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or by any state on account of sex."

The Equal Rights Amendment would amend the United States Constitution to insure that men and women have the same rights and responsibilities under the law. As Virginia R. Allan, former chairman of the President's Task Force on Woman's Rights and Responsibilities, says: "The amendment would be a major step toward assuring first class citizenship for women, toward their assumption of fuller responsibilities, and toward bringing women into the mainstream of American life."

What this amendment provides is that sex should not be a factor in determining the legal rights of men and women. The Equal Rights Amendment affects only government actions, but the fact that the government is taking some type of action to insure equal rights for women is the first step in affecting the discriminatory attitudes that exist in interpersonal relationships. Senator Birch Bayh of Indiana states that: "We cannot overlook the immense symbolic importance of the Equal Rights Amendment. The women of our country must have tangible evidence of our commitment to guarantee equal treatment under the law. An amendment to the Constitution has great moral and persuasive value. Every citizen recognizes the importance of a constitutional amendment, for the constitution declares the most basic policies of our nation as well as the supreme law of the land."

There has been some question as to if the Equal Rights Amendment is really necessary. There has been progress in recent years toward equal rights, but the fact still remains that there is still discrimination on the basis of sex. This fact has been thoroughly documented in many Congressional committee hearings held during the past years, especially over the last two years. In report No. 92-689 of The Senate Judiciary Committee it is stated that: "On the whole, sex discrimination is still much more the rule than the exception. Much of this discrimination is directly attributable to governmental action both in maintaining archaic discriminatory laws and in perpetuating discriminatory practices in employment, education and in other areas. The social and economic costs to our society, as well as the individual psychological impact of sex discrimination, are immeasurable. That a majority of our population should be subjected to the indignities and limitations of second class citizenship is a fundamental affront to personal human liberty."

The constitution as it now stands only grants the right to vote to women. Women's civil rights were not effected with the passage of the suffrage amendment. Even though the 14th Amendment guarantees "equal protection under the law" many cases are on record of the Supreme Court having to invalidate laws that are discriminatory. One such case is Reed V. Reed. This case involved an Idaho law which arbitrarily favored men over women as administrators of estates. The Supreme Court invalidated this law but left the burden of changing all discriminatory laws on every woman plaintiff. If the Equal Rights Amendment were to be passed, the states would be given two years to review laws which did not comply with the Amendment. To change the laws this way, without the aid of the Equal Rights Amendment, would take much time and money as opposed to the much less expensive and less time consuming process of passing the Equal Rights Amendment.

Mr. Totten, I realize that you have answered the question of whether you will vote for passage of the Equal Rights Amendment with, "no, generally I believe rights are not a matter to be legislated," but I urge you to consider what would have happened if our founding fathers had said the same thing while they were writing our Constitution. The whole set of ideals that our nation was built on would have been threatened. There would have been no freedom of speech, freedom of the press, freedom of religion, and the freedom to live as we wish. The due process of law and the right to a trial by jury would not be guaranteed. In other words, the whole idea and spirit of the United States would have been in grave danger. In view of this, Mr. Totten, I strongly urge you to vote yes toward the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment. Just as we look back on our founding fathers with gratitude for giving us our basic rights the next generation will be thankful that in 1973 an amendment was passed supporting equal rights for all.

He hits Wheeling 'untruths'

In the past week I have read with great interest two articles in the Buffalo Grove Herald. The most recent was the article headed "Fewer Flooding Problems Expected" (Tuesday, March 20). This article outlined at least five projects the village of Buffalo Grove has undertaken in the past year to alleviate and lessen flooding in our village. Furthermore, four more projects were mentioned that are to be initiated this year.

The other article appearing Friday,

March 16, reported on the forum held by the Buffalo Grove Jaycees to allow the candidates for village trustee to discuss key issues. A quote in the article read, "Aligmanas 'Al' Kezelsis, also of the CCBG party, charged the present village board was insensitive and lacked initiative in dealing with flooding as well as other matters. 'Flooding is only talked about at election time,' Kezelsis said."

It seems to me that this village trustee candidate has not done his homework and is throwing out statements that are completely untrue and unfair to our village administration. Does he expect to get elected with irresponsible statements like this: If he knows this little about flooding, how much does he know about other equally important issues facing our village?

I sincerely hope the voters in Buffalo Grove will consider these questions before they go the polls on April 17.

It's 'murder with big M'

Abortion is murder with a big M. It is taking a life and medical evidence proves that life begins at conception and so does God. "Before I formed thee in the belly, I knew thee; and before thou earnest forth out of the womb I sanctified thee." Jeremiah 1:5.

Also, "But whoso shall offend one of these little ones which believe in me (such as an innocent babe before birth or after) it were better for him that a millstone were hanged about his neck, and that he were drowned in the depth of the sea." Matthew 18:6.

Whoever passed this law for legal abortion and all these doctors or whoever performs abortions, these babies' blood will be on their hands forever. They (doctors and mothers) will see all these "little ones" before their eyes when they stand before God to be judged at the Great White Throne.

God's words and laws in the Bible state very plainly, "Thou shalt not kill." Exodus 20:13, Deut 5:17, Matt 5:21.

And in regard to the women who think and say their bodies are their own and they can do what they want with them, listen to what God has to say about this. "What? know ye not that your body is the temple of the Holy Ghost (God) which is in you, which ye have of God, and ye are not of your own?" 1 Corinthians 6:19.

The minute conception takes place (the sperm is alive) God gives this little babe a soul and no man has the right to destroy it.

"We ought to obey God rather than men." Acts 5:29.

DuBrow on TV...by Rick DuBrow

Upcoming special video features to emphasize quality

HOLLYWOOD — Viewers who sometimes complain about the quality of television should make it a point to keep their eyes on video in the immediate future because quite a few special programs, many intriguing, are coming up.

Today, for instance, NBC-TV presents "Upon This Rock," an hour tour of St. Peter's Basilica in Rome, with Sir Ralph Richardson as the guide and narrator. Notable persons associated with the history of the basilica will have their words spoken by Orson Welles, Dame Edith Evans, Dirk Bogarde and Richardson.

Tomorrow, ABC-TV's Dick Cavett program will be devoted entirely to American prisoners of war returned from the Southeast Asia conflict.

The same night, also on ABC-TV, there will be a 90-minute broadcast presenting the Shenyang acrobatic troupe of China. The show was taped at the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts in Washington during the troupe's recent tour.

ON THURSDAY, the noncommercial network's "Humanities Film Forum" series offers the 1956 motion picture version of Shakespeare's "Richard III," starring Lord Laurence Olivier, who was also the director and producer. The notable cast includes Sir Cedric Hardwicke, Richardson, Sir John Gielgud and Claire Bloom.

Thursday's network schedule lists, in addition, the first of two Cavett broadcasts that will be turned over completely to the subject of alcoholism. The second broadcast is set for Friday.

Another Thursday entry is a special two-hour segment of the highly popular and critically acclaimed CBS-TV series "The Waltons." In this segment, the mother of the seven Walton youngsters is stricken with polio and faces a possibility of permanent paralysis.

ON FRIDAY, there will be a CBS-TV rerun of the film adaptation of the historic Rodgers and Hammerstein Broadway musical "Oklahoma!" with the cash including Gordon Macrae, Shirley Jones, Gloria Grahame, Charlotte Greenwood, Eddie Albert, Rod Steiger, Gene Nelson, James Whitmore and Jay C. Flippen.

On Easter Sunday, ABC-TV will present an hour entitled "Portrait: A Man Whose Name Was John," a drama about Archbishop Angelo Roncalli, later Pope John XXIII. The title role will be portrayed by Raymond Burr, and the network says that the dramatization concerns "incidents which occurred during World War II while the prelate was . . . Papal Nuncio to Turkey, and was instrumental in saving a boatload of displaced Jewish children from Nazi persecution."

NEXT MONDAY, CBS-TV has a two-hour television adaptation of the classic Cervantes novel "Don Quixote," starring Rex Harrison in the title role, and with Frank Finlay as Sancho Panza. The production was first seen on British television.

In late-night presentations on Monday and Tuesday of next week, the "ABC Wide World of Entertainment" series will put on a two-part video adaptation of Oscar Wilde's famous novel "The Picture of Dorian Gray," about a man whose desire to remain eternally young comes true, at a dreadful price. Shane Briant portrays the young man, and the two-part offering will total three hours.

Also on Tuesday of next week, CBS-TV has a 90-minute teleplay by Ingmar Bergman, "The Lie," about an affluent suburban couple forced to face the false values of their way of life, and starring George Segal, Shirley Knight and Robert Culp.

The same night, ABC-TV will present a 90-minute video adaptation of Edward Everett Hale's famous story "The Man Without a Country," starring Cliff Robertson, Robert Ryan and Beau Bridges. (United Press International)

Dr. Brothers: biggest quiz show winner

by VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD — The biggest winner to emerge from television's quiz shows is Dr. Joyce Brothers, who won $134,000 in 1955 and parlayed her success into a career that dwarfs her triumphs in the isolation booths.

Today she is mistress of ceremonies for "Living Easy," a half-hour daily talk show; writes a daily column for newspapers; appears on NBC radio's "Emphasis" five days a week; is a Saturday-Sunday regular on "Monitor"; writes a monthly column for a national magazine; lectures to groups around the country; and has authored three books.

She is among the most respected and admired women in the United States, a fact that pleases and somehow unsettles the diminutive blonde psychologist.

A NEW YORKER, Dr. Brothers' telephone number is listed in the Manhattan book.

"I do that because there is no place for a person to look up an agency when he or she is in need of help," she explained. "So I act as sort of a clearing house for seriously disturbed persons."

Dr. Brothers won the New York Deadline Club award for her on-the-air conversation with a would-be suicide on her radio show, "Call Dr. Brothers," in 1971.

"That show isn't on the air any more," she said. "I'm so busy there just wasn't time for all the activities. But I still get about 10 calls a week from persons with psychological problems."

"Few of them are from people who just want to chat. I'm happy to say no one calls as a prank."

AN OVERWHELMING number of callers are women, most of whom are concerned about indifferent husbands.

"Women are less inhibited about asking for help than men," she said. "That's true about medical attention and psychiatric needs. Psychiatrists and psychologists treat many more women than men."

"Maybe the reason women live longer is that they don't wait until they are terribly ill or unable to face psychological crises until it is too late."

A look at thinclad records

ONE OF THE OLDEST of many old adages in sports is "records are made to be broken."

True enough. And, just as much, records are kept to stimulate interest on the part of both fans and performers.

Fans are fascinated by anything listed as the all-time best, longest, most, farthest, etc., in anything. (That's why Guinness sells so many books every year). And performers, in anything from baseball to pie-eating, are spurred on to greater heights by the prospect of being a record-holder.

In keeping with these ideas, I decided to put together a list of area, state and national records in a sport that lends it-

No records were set last year, so the most recent were in 1971 — 1:53.9 by Fremd's Bill Jarocki in the 880 and 4:16.0 by Prospect's Ron Hankel in the mile. Another recent mark is :14.1 by Conant's Steve Peterson in the 120 high hurdles in 1970.

It appears that the records most likely to be broken this year are the shot put (even though the record is a toughie, this area has an exceptional bunch this spring), the long jump, and mile run. I won't mention top local performers here because you'll be reading plenty about them in these pages.

Least likely to be broken? I'd say the discus, pole vault, mile relay, two-mile run, 440 and 100 records (all held by Palatine alumni except the discus). Just look at the accompanying list of records and you'll see why these may not be topped for a long time.

STATE

Maine South and Evanston are the only schools with two Illinois marks at this point. Evanston's were both set in the last two years by super sprinter Howard Jones and Maine South holds the oldest — Larry Kelly's fantastic 1:50.4 in the 880 in 1964.

Records don't seem to last long in this category. Could it be that the state as a whole is improving faster than this area? Actually, there have probably been many times in this state better than records, in meets other than the state final, but they don't count. Bahnlief's 220 peak is just one example.

I'd say the most likely to be broken this year are the mile and two-mile, just because of one guy — Craig Virgin of Lebanon. He won both of these events in last year's finals and wasn't far from the records in either case.

Very possibly others will be broken. They are every year. But who can guess which ones at this point?

NATIONAL

Not surprisingly, climate is a key factor here. For obvious reasons, because track is a year-around affair in California, it claims six of the 15 U. S. records alone and shares three others.

Curiously, though, other warm-weather states in the South, such as Florida, are not impressive.

Considering the limited season Illinois has, it's not unreasonable to say this state might be up there with California if it had the same weather. Illinois may be the best foul-weather thinclad locale.

Bill Bahnlief

self perfectly for this kind of number-gazing — track and field. The numbers won't mean much to non-track buffs, but are worth looking over for the rest of us.

A few observations on all three categories of records, one at a time:

HERALD AREA

One name stands out among many memorable greats in this area through the years — Bill Bahnlief, Class of 1967, Palatine. Judging by the records, he would have to be considered the greatest thinclad performer ever. And for the same reason, Palatine as teams and Joe Johnson as a coach also rate as the best ever in these parts.

Numbers don't lie, and they show that Bahnlief is not only the only performer who still holds two area all-time records, but also the only one still clinging to a state mark. Set in 1966, when he was only a junior, Bahnlief's incredible :47.3 in the 440-yard dash is the second-oldest standing state mark. (These records must be set in the state finals).

His other mark is equally dazzling, :20.9 in the 220 yard dash, and in fact that's better than the state record — but is not official since it was not achieved in the finals, but in a conference meet. That time was run when Bill was a slalom.

Palatine holds eight of the 15 area records and all but one have been set since Johnson took over the Pirate track program 10 years ago. The lone exception will be one of the toughest to crack, if it ever happens — Andy Merutka's 62-9 3/4 shot put in 1962.

The only other school to hold more than one area record is, logically, the oldest school besides Palatine — Arlington, with three marks. Two of them are the oldest standing — a 22-7 1/2 long jump by Gordon Busse under the lights in 1950 and 6-5 1/2 high jump at the state by Bill Palmer in 1957. Both of these marks have been closely threatened many times, including last year, and it is amazing they have held up for so long.

Wheeling, Prospect, Conant and Fremd each have one record-holder and no other schools own any.

Development of shot technique featured Friday

Twenty years ago a new shot put technique was introduced to high school track and field in the area and the state.

It caused an immediate sensation and astounding results.

The shot put has consistently been one of the area's strongest events, and 1973 is no exception.

In Friday's Kickin' It Around column Bob Frisk will examine the development of this new technique. He talked last week to the coach and athlete responsible.

That coach is now an area athletic director, and the athlete, who graduated in 1954 from Arlington High School, is a doctor in Seattle, Wash.

Watch for this special track and field feature with pictures in Friday's sports section.

Indy 500 racer in Des Plaines

The Norton Company at 200 Oakton St. in Des Plaines will have an Indianapolis racer on display for five hours beginning at 4 p.m. this afternoon. Admission is free.

The automobile, built by long-time race car designer Rola Vollstedt and driven by Bill Simpson, has been entered in this year's Indianapolis 500 plus races at the Daytona and Ontario Speedways.

HARPER'S MIKE HONEL is out, Oakton's Rich Miller airborne and teammate Denny Moss firmly planted at first with ball in hand during early action last Friday afternoon. Harper's Hawks outthrew the Raiders, 8-6, but couldn't survive three first inning errors and numerous walks. Oakton won easily, 9-0.

Harper posts first baseball win; Triton rallies for Skyway victory

Harper had to feel mixed emotions when its long baseball day ended Sunday.

The Hawks had to be happy about the 7-4 win at Triton. It ended an 0-7 streak.

Still, the seventh loss was really tough to accept. Triton came from behind to win 7-3 in the game that counted toward the Skyway Conference standings. The two teams tied for second last year.

Harper appeared headed for an 0-8 record in the seven-inning non-league game, but a one-run fourth and a five-run sixth turned the tide.

Coach John Eliasik's team pulled to within one in the fourth when Bob Chen reached on an error and eventually scored on a Tony Fricano sacrifice fly.

The most damage came in the sixth after one out. Mark Wicklund, the starting and winning pitcher, singled and scored on a double by Fricano. Mark Jesse singled in Fricano.

Gary Pemberton and Sheridan singled, the latter driving in run No. 3 of the inning. Keith Steelman doubled in Pemberton and Rich Luzinski singled in two more.

Harper broke out in front in the second. Sheridan walked, moved up on Steelman's hit, both advanced on Luzinski's sacrifice and Chen drove in Sheridan with a single.

Steelman and Luzinski went 2-for-3 with Pemberton and Jesse going 2-for-5 at the plate.

Wicklund went the distance with two strikeouts and one walk.

In the opener, Don Kunde was breezing along with a 2-1 lead when the Warriors rallied in the sixth. Terry Moriarity finished the last 2-2/3 innings.

Harper took the lead in the fourth. Sheridan walked and Steelman, who now leads the Hawks with 7-for-13 this season, reached on an error. Two passed balls moved them into scoring position. Then Bob Andreas drove them in with a single.

The Hawks' run-scoring bats were silenced until the ninth. Luzinski rapped a pinch-hit double to lead it off and Fricano followed with a single.

Steelman and Fricano had two hits each.

Harper will be hoping to improve on its SC record of 0-2 against McHenry this afternoon.

Area golf report

Lions hit 149, Prospect 155, Palatine 157

Golf Editor

Area golf squads continue to take the plunge — the plunge that drops the team scores into the low 180's, 150's and even high 140's — into respectability and in some cases state recognition.

St. Viator, perhaps still feeling the smarts from Hersey's streak-breaking victory last week, became the area's top-scoring entry after the Lions sand-blasted Niles North, 149-168.

Prospect is another crew taking the elevator ride down as it posted an impressive 155-159 triumph over Deerfield to remain undefeated for the season.

Palatine continues to rate the top choice in the Mid-Suburban League off a conference-opening 157-166 triumph over Fremd and Conant has shown signs of blossoming after edging Wheaton North 167-168.

LIONS GROWLING

St. Viator could well be on its way to another 59 straight decisions if it keeps shooting like it did against Niles North Friday.

"The kids learned something from that Hersey meet (a 152-154 Husky triumph that ended four years of unbeaten Lion records)," Viator head coach Ken Peck said. "They are working under tremendous intensity and concentration."

The Lions' formula worked to perfection as sophomore Mickey Fitton and junior Larry Pelfer shot par rounds of 35 over Viator's home Rob Roy layout. Junior Kevin Hanigan contributed a sparkling 39 and another junior Jim Pavik registered a 40 toward the nifty winning total.

Mike Brawley carded a 43 and Bill Fitton a 44 while Ray Carroll was right behind the leaders with a 41. St. Viator completed a sweep for the day as the frosh-soph Lions handled Niles North, 162-193.

KNIGHTS GEL

Prospect adjusted quickly to unfamiliar surroundings at Deerfield's home layout at Riverwood Country Club and as Knight head coach George Bork quipped, "the course really lived up to its name."

But the Knights overcame "a lot of water and trees" and crammed four scores below the magic 40 mark. Junior John McBride announced it was his turn to pace the well-balanced Prospect club with a two-over-par 38, and he had more than ample support from 39's by Craig Ridley, Rich Reed and Craig Calkins. Bob Horwath fired a solid 40 for insurance.

Deerfield, a perennial threat in the post-season state classic, countered with scores of 39, 40, 41 and 42, but to no avail. The unbeaten Knight frosh-soph were pushed to the hilt after tying Deerfield at 178 through four players, but bailed out their third straight victory when the verdict swung to the fifth man, 225-226.

PIRATES SHOOT BIG GUNS

Palatine, intent on replacing Prospect as Mid-Suburban League golf champion, got another shot in the arm when it up-ended Fremd, 157-166. The victory was the first decision for the Pirates — a sectional representative last year.

Jim Sobczynski, the Chicagoland Area's Player of the Year in 1972, carded a nifty 37 over Palatine Hills' par 36 layout. Jim Arden helped the cause with a fine 38, Bob Capoun chipped in with a 40, John Capoun a 42 and John Lonergan a 43.

"I give a new sleeve of golf balls to any of my players who shoot par," Palatine head coach Marc Denny said. "I'm really pleased with the way these kids are shooting and I'll probably be broke by the end of the season."

Fremd offered a consistent attack headed by 41's by Lach Frew and Jeff Rubak. Joe Murken and Brian Brown each hit 42's and Craig Falkenthal notched a 43.

The Vikings returned the favor on the frosh-soph level as Cliff Garcia's 40 paced a 165-189 Fremd victory.

COUGARS BAG FIRST

Conant picked its most thrilling match of the year to annex its first victory of the season. Battling a consistent Wheaton North entry and soggy and cool conditions at Golden Acres, the Cougars fired a 167 to earn the nod.

Dave Love spearheaded the Cougar attack with a round of 40, but upon entering the final four holes, he was just a stroke over par before running into trouble.

Bob Whiting was right behind his teammate with a 41 while Jim Cannon was next in line with a 42. Kevin Eakins and Dave Domek each toured the grounds in 44's while Keith Kellogg and Mike Profit came home in 49 strokes.

Conant stayed unbeaten on the freshman-sophomore level in another dramatic victory over Wheaton North. The Cougars prevailed by two strokes, 194-186.

Attention, golf league secretaries

Golf league officials, this concerns you.

The golf season for both men and women is fast approaching and the Herald sports department would like to publish as much newsworthy information as the leagues can turn in.

The following eight suggestions should be passed along to your league secretaries, handicap chairmen or publicity officials so that they can use these items as a guide in compiling their information:

1) First and last names of the players mentioned.

2) Names of the low gross and low net players, the scores they shot along with the par of the nines they played.

3) Names of the birdie, eagle and hole-in-one shooters along with the holes. For the latter two include the yardage of the hole, the names of the other witnesses, what club the ace shooter was using, how the shot went in, what he had for the round and if it was his first hole-in-one.

4) Names of the golfers on the team that is leading the league.

5) The standings with the names of the sponsoring companies and the points each team has accumulated.

6) Names of golfers who scored chip-in shots, the hole it was accomplished on, the distance of the chip, the score for the hole and the par of the hole.

7) Oddities, such as a golfer shooting par, bogey, par, bogey for nine holes; firing all fours, all fives, all sixes, etc. And also strange shots or happenings on the course.

8) Names of the leading regulars and top alternate in each flight and their records.

After this information is gathered together, here are some tips for turning it in to the Herald:

*Just give sports the straight facts, you need not write the story.

*Please type or print the information clearly so that names will not be misspelled.

*League information must be turned in early enough so that it will appear before the next league meeting the following week.

*The sports department will accept golf league information one of two ways — either drop it off at the Arlington Heights office (with the receptionist during office hours or in the mail slot to the left of the front door after hours) or send it to the Herald Sports Department, 217 W. Campbell St., Arlington Heights, Illinois 60006.

*The sports department will not take golf information over the phone unless it pertains to a hole-in-one. If an ace should be shot, call the Herald as soon as possible at 394-2300.

Prospect, Palatine win in league

Tennis Editor

Two victories were recorded Friday afternoon by Mid-Suburban tennis teams, but they were playing league meets. The two teams that went outside the conference found the going rough.

Prospect and Palatine were the MSL winners with Schaumburg and Conant suffering losses.

PROSPECT SHOWS TOUGHNESS

In the first big meeting of two contenders for MSL honors, the Knights overpowered the hosting Huskies 4-1.

Considered by some league coaches as having good shots to capture second behind awesome Arlington, the Knights took a big step in that direction. However, the meet was closer than the final score.

Twice the Huskies pushed their visitors three sets before falling. Keith Rayner won his opening set with fast-recovering Rob Zimmanck, 6-2. However, Zimmanck — a No. 1 player for Coach Jim Wright last season — showed his old form by winning by 6-4 scores. Zimmanck was injured during the basketball season.

John Hastings and Alan Myers also started off with a 6-2 win in first doubles against highly touted Jeff Risteen and Charles Clemens. Then the tough duo battled back with 6-2, 6-3 victories.

Mark Johnson posted the only win for Hersey with 6-4, 6-3 decisions over Spencer Clark at third singles.

Mark Meves won first singles 6-3, 6-2 over Dave Schunk. The second doubles team of John Waters and Steve Ristow handled Bruce McAlister and John Walworth 6-1, 6-3.

The Knights have plenty of talent coming up, too, as was shown by their 5-0 sophomore victory.

PALATINE POWER

Only a Forest View victory at second singles prevented a Pirate sweep on the Falcon courts. The final score was 4-1.

Palatine victories in singles were notched by Matt Borman and Mac Bennison. Borman defeated Joe Karwinski 6-3, 6-2. Bennison stopped Charles Cooksley 6-4, 6-0.

Forest View's Greg Meyer beat Steve Snyder by 6-3 scores.

The Falcons first doubles team made a fight of it against Lew Sevey and Andy Hazel before losing 6-4, 1-6, 6-3.

Fred Hoegler and Dave Bals won 6-1, 6-4 over Dave Jacob and Randy Router. Forest View won the frosh-soph meet 3-2.

SCHAUMBURG FALLS

The second doubles team of Drew Kron and Gary Wright saved the embarrassment of a shutout with a 6-4, 7-5 victory over B. Cavatrey and B. Benckus. Saxon losses came like this:

Mike O'Laughlin to Sean O'Donnell, 1-6, 2-6; Pete Viohl to F. Fischer 1-6, 0-6; Mike Passaglia to M. Downs 1-6, 3-6, 6-7; and John Kalwarf and Jim Brennan to M. Sawko and G. Sawko 2-4, 2-6. Schaumburg won the frosh-soph meet 5-0.

COUGARS BOW TO LANCERS

Lake Park proved a tough guest for Conant in fashioning a 5-0 victory.

The setbacks — all straight set affairs — went like this:

Brian Arimura over Buddy Edmondson 10-8, 8-6; Duane Hemmerle over Marty Rohr 6-3, 6-2; Tom Pauly over Rob Wade 6-1, 6-0; Dane Dougherty and Tom Tierney over Bruce Koehler and Kurt Echert 6-4, 9-7; and Joe Perry and John Gieseke over Eric Burseth and John Schuller 6-2, 6-1.

Harness racing moves to Hawthorne

Chicago's record harness racing season moves only a trot away from Sportsman's Park this Tuesday night to neighboring Hawthorne Race Course and the start of 1973 Suburban Downs spring sulky meeting.

The mobile starting gate will sweep down America's longest homestretch for Standardbreds — a full 1,320 feet — at 8:15 p.m. sharp, a first race post time which will prevail nightly, Monday through Saturday, for 34 programs, through Friday, May 25.

Managing director Robert F. Carey is dangling a lucrative stakes and feature race program of 26 events, totaling $363,500 in purse money, as guarantee for some of the most competitive harness sport in the annals of the sulky sport in Illinois.

A full mile track and the fifth oldest in America dating to 1891 and noted for its thoroughbred feats, Hawthorne will host its fourth annual Suburban Downs sulky session, the pioneer group founded by the late Erwin F. Dygert in 1954 and currently headed by Carey. Gust K. Newberg and Mrs. Beulah G. Dygert.

Its strip famed for both speed and safety, Hawthorne will try to surpass last year's record when no less than 16 two-minute miles went into the books. Fastest was Nansermond's sizzling 1:57 1-5 trip en route to defeating the vaunted Albatross in the $40,000 added Suburban Downs Pacing Derby.

The '73 Pacing Derby, divided into two $40,000 added sections on Friday and Saturday, May 4-5, is one of several seasonal headlines.

The $40,000 added Dygert Memorial Trot, annexed in '72 by Speedy Crown in 1:59 2-5, climaxes the season on May 25. The meeting is launched by the first of five events comprising the $49,000 Suburban Downs Pacing Series, spotlighting a $17,500 Final on May 8.

In between, the $20,000 added Cleopatra Pace for fillies and mares, and a host of Illinois-bred stakes as well as regularly scheduled Free-for-Alls for both trotters and pacers, also will be presented.

New for '73, and a breakthrough for Illinois racing, is Hawthorne's gate policy which prohibits admission of anyone under 18 years of age. Several other major racing centers in the country already have this age restriction.

Besides the opening Daily Double, Hawthorne will offer the Quinella on the second and the big jackpot lure, the Trifecta, on the 10th race nightly.

Virtually all the top stables and drivers currently in action at Sportsman's Park, including Joe Marsh Jr., Jim Curran and Walter Paisley, will shift their racing to Hawthorne.

In addition, racing secretary Bob Larry has made room for several "new faces," pacers and trotters trained and driven by Joe O'Brien, Jack Ackerman and Jack Bailey, among others, to spice up the nightly action.

Eighty-nine were nominated for the opening Pacing Series. Larry plans to open with twin divisions, the $7,500 Inaugural on Tuesday, April 17, followed by another $7,500 Pace on Wednesday. Other first week features include the $19,000 added Cicero Illinois-bred Pace on Friday, and the $15,000 Tar Heel Invitational Free-for-All Pace Saturday, April 21.

All Hawthorne interiors, grandstand as well as clubhouse, are both heated and air-conditioned to combat the fickle spring weather. Under glass are all dining facilities, including the luxurious Gold Cup Room overlooking the finish wire, and the Terrace Room which banks the clubhouse turn.

Strong relief sends Demons to sweep

Bob Gullberg and Wayne Sommers both won in relief last Saturday as Maine East swept both ends of a non-conference twinbill from Morton East.

Finishing the last inning and two-thirds in relief of Greg Maloney and Greg Ellin, Gullberg picked up his first win when East scored once in the seventh to edge Morton, 4-5, in the opening game.

Sommers took over from Dave Baskin with Maine leading 8-3 in the second game and was credited with the victory when he tossed three-hit, no-run ball, striking out five. The Blue Demons were go-away winners, 10-3.

The doubleheader sweep gives coach Herb Ward's club four straight wins since an opening game loss to Evanston. East has dumped York, LaGrange and now Morton East twice.

East went up 3-0 after three innings of the first game, traded runs with Morton in the fourth and fifth, then had to hang on for a last inning win after the Mustangs scored three in the sixth off Ellin.

Doug Moorad scored Maine's winning run after walking and moving to third on Jeff Briars' double. Ron Parker singled Moorad home.

Maine went up quickly in the opener when Dan McDonnell hit a bases loaded single, driving home Moorad and Lloyd. Both had walked.

Another run came in two innings later, for a 3-0 lead, when Moorad doubled, went to third on Dan Lowy's fielders choice and scored after a Parker fly ball.

Dave Ellin doubled home Chuck Sellergren in the fourth for Maine. Al Bonini tripled, driving in Lowy who had walked and stolen second in the fifth.

Morton brought the game to 5-5 in the sixth on a walk, single, triple and two errors by the Demons.

Ward pulled starting pitcher Maloney after three innings despite no-hit, no-run ball that included five strikeouts. Maloney was scheduled to start Monday's game with Maine North that was washed away and hasn't been rescheduled.

Ellin replaced Maloney, giving the Mustangs five hits, all five runs and three walks over two and one-third innings. He yielded to Gullberg during the three-run sixth.

McDonnell had two first game hits — a single and double. Moorad, Ellin and Briars all doubled. Bonini's triple was the final extra base clout.

The Blue Demons put the second game away early with one run in the second, five in the third and two in the fourth for an 8-3 lead.

Morton matched Maine's production in the second and added two in the third, all off starting pitcher Dave Baskin who went three innings. He yielded all Morton runs on three hits and two walks while whiffing two.

Maine's five-run third began with Warren Henricks singling and Jim D'Antonio walking for Baskin. Lloyd jammed the bases with a beautiful bunt that went for one base.

Moorad grounded out to second, but that scored Henricks and advanced D'Antonio and Lloyd. They came in one batter later on McDonnell's triple.

Bob Rinka then slapped McDonnell across with one of his four hits. He came around the bases on three wild pitches.

Rinka's four hits — three singles and a double — led East's attack. He'd been held out of the first game because of a sore hand.

Among East's 15 hits were triples by Parker and McDonnell. Winning pitchers Sommers and Rinka had the only doubles. McDonnell once again had two hits, including a single. Briars and Henricks both singled twice.

East has three Central Suburban League games yet to be rescheduled because of rain. Games must be made up with Maine North, Glenbrook North and Highland Park.

When it comes to saving money, most of us can use all the help we can get.

Joining the Payroll Savings Plan is one easy way to force yourself to save. When you sign up, an amount you specify is set aside from each paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds. It's automatic. Everything is done for you.

And now there's a bonus interest rate on all U.S. Savings Bonds—for E Bonds, 5½% when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). That extra ½%, payable as a bonus at maturity, applies to all Bonds issued since June 1, 1970... with a comparable improvement for all older Bonds.

Stick with the plan and before you know it you'll have a bankroll waiting. That's when you'll find you can do a lot more with money than you can with string.

Be sure you get the full bonus interest rate on your E Bonds. You may be offered a choice of E Bonds or I Bonds. You may be offered a choice of E Bonds or I Bonds. You may be offered a choice of E Bonds or I Bonds.

Take stock in America.

Now Bonds pay a bonus at maturity.

Voters to elect three trustees to 4-year terms

Voters will go to the polls today to elect three candidates to represent them as trustees on the Buffalo Grove Village Board. Although there are more than 7,000 registered voters in the village, it is impossible to predict how many will vote today, according to Village Clerk Verna Clayton.

Voters will elect the trustees from a field of 10 candidates, including four independents, three from the Concerned Citizens of Buffalo Grove (CCBG) party and three from the Village Independent Party (VIP). The trustees will be elected to four-year terms.

Mrs. Clayton said the 10 polling places will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m. The ballots will be counted at the respective polling places immediately after the election.

The results from each precinct will then be tallied at the village hall. Residents who want to get the election returns as they are received are invited to come to the village hall after the polls close, Mrs. Clayton said.

CANDIDATES running on the VIP slate are incumbent trustee Thomas Mahoney, as well as newcomers Philip Ralston and William Peterson.

Mahoney was appointed to the village board by Village President Gary Armstrong two years ago to fill the vacancy Armstrong left when he was elected president.

Peterson, elected Vernon Township auditor April 3, said last Friday he will resign the auditor's post if he is elected trustee. Although Peterson said he does not think holding both positions would be a conflict of interest, he thinks his resignation would be in keeping with the VIP platform. The platform pledges to avoid conflicts of interests or even the appearance of conflicts of interest.

Candidates running on the opposition CCBG party are Algismanas Kzelis, Betty Spence and Charles Cushman. The CCBG has been critical of the current village board, charging it lacks initiative and is insensitive to the needs of the community.

THE FOUR INDEPENDENT candidates running in today's election are Clarice Rech, John Ayres, Donald Kearns and incumbent Trustee Jerry Driscoll.

Driscoll was appointed last summer to fill the unexpired two-year term of Charles Vogt who moved from the village.

Representatives of both the CCBG and VIP parties said yesterday they will provide a shuttle service to voters who have no means of getting to the polls. Voters needing a ride should either call CCBG party president Ray Mahoney at 537-7242 or Ralston at 541-1306.

The VIP party will set up election headquarters at Bill's Buffalo House and the CCBG party will have headquarters at Striker Lanes. The four independent candidates will await election returns in their homes or at the village hall.

Gill gets 6% pay increase next year

School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill will begin taking home paychecks next year that will reflect a 6 per cent raise awarded him by the school board.

The increase will set Gill's salary for the 1973-74 academic year at $33,360. According to the contract, his salary will remain at that figure for the next three years unless the agreement is altered in the interim.

The contract also provides that Gill will receive the usual benefits specified for all full-time employees of School Dist. 21 including life, health and accident insurance.

GILL'S RAISE is comparable to a 6 per cent pay hike recently negotiated by Dist. 21 teachers. The salaries for all full-time Dist. 21 teaching personnel and administrators appear to be in line with those of other nearby school districts.

The $31,500 salary received by Gill last year was about average for other local school superintendents. Because 1973-74 salaries for most elementary district superintendents have not yet been finalized, it is not yet known how Gill's increased salary will compare to that of other area administrators.

Like several other superintendents, Gill receives a car to use in addition to his regular salary and contract benefits. The car is replaced every two years. The vehicle Gill presently uses was purchased for him last year.

MORE THAN 1,400 youths raised an estimated $30,000 in Saturday's March of Dimes walkathon through Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights. The sunny day gave walkers like these a chance to clown around. Three students who signed up for the day were in wheelchairs, and had provided their own friends to push them through the 17-mile route.

Students to work on archeological site

Three Adlai Stevenson High School students will participate in an archeological research project this summer at a site in the Illinois River valley, 15 miles north of Dixon, Ill.

The students who will take part in the project sponsored by the University of Wisconsin are Ron Noble, John Keefner and David Lewis.

Titled the "Orendorf site," the area where the Stevenson students will work is the only remaining source from which historians can piece together the social and religious life of the prehistoric Mississippian Indian culture in the central Illinois River valley.

Excavation at the Orendorf site began last summer. The Stevenson students expect to spend at least three weeks there this summer.

Valuation delays park bond sale

The Buffalo Grove Park District must wait for figures on the current assessed valuation of property within the district before finalizing plans for a $250,000 bond sale scheduled for summer.

Park Director Stan Crosland said it may be as long as two months before the assessed valuation of the Lake County portion of the village is available. The Cook County figure, he said, is supposed to be released within two weeks.

According to state law, a park district can only issue bonds for an amount equal to 2 1/2 per cent of the assessed valuation of all property in the district.

Park district residents authorized the sale of $1,250,000 in bonds in a 1971 referendum. However, because the assessed valuation was not high enough to cover all the bonds at the time, park officials were only able to sell $1 million in bonds.

CROSLAND SAID he has been assured by municipal bond consultants Benjamin and Lang, that the assessed valuation has increased sufficiently to allow the sale of the remaining $250,000 worth of bonds. Benjamin and Lang will handle the bond issues. They also negotiated the sale of the park district's first bond issue.

Crosland has said it is imperative that the park district arrange the bond sale before June 30. The general obligation bond interest rate that is currently at 7 per cent reverts to 5 per cent July 1.

Crosland said if the park district is forced to wait a year to sell the $250,000 in bonds, it will mean a serious delay on some park projects that have not been started.

THE MOST important project that would be affected if the bond sale has to be postponed, Crosland said, is the proposed park at the curve of realigned Buffalo Grove Road, just east of Dundee Road.

The proposed park is intended as a neighborhood park for residents of the Cambridge subdivision and Cambridge-on-the-Lake. The park district has already purchased 3 1/2 acres in that area and is in the process of condemning another 3 1/2 acres.

"I'm confident that we can get buyers for under 7 per cent, but not under 5 per cent," Crosland said. "If the interest rate goes that low, then I'd say it's unlikely that anyone will be floating municipal bonds next year unless something happens to the prime rate."

Crosland said revenue from the bond sale is necessary to complete the land purchase for the Cambridge park and to construct recreation facilities. Tennis courts and a small playground are planned there, he said.

"Construction of this park is particularly important," Crosland said, "because we don't have anything like tennis courts for residents in the Cambridge area. It just isn't safe for kids there to cross Dundee Road to play at Kilmer."

Record turnout expected today for city election

Drawn by a nip-and-tuck three-way mayoral race, a record number of voters are expected at city polls today.

Polling places in Des Plaines 41 precincts will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

"I predict the largest percentage of voters in city election history," City Clerk Eleanor Rohrbach said yesterday. "It should be at least 50 per cent. Probably more than 15,000 people."

Totals released yesterday show 29,334 registered voters in Des Plaines.

Top vote draws on today's election ballot should be the mayoral and city treasurer's races where Mayor Herbert Behrel and Treasurer Irving Rateike are seeking reelection.

Fire department Capt. David Wolf and teacher Burton Kosmen are challenging Behrel.

Park District Comr. Thomas Mahon is opposing Rateike.

Six aldermanic races also are contested, including three-way battles in the 2nd, 5th and 6th Wards.

PAST CITY elections point to a trend in higher voter turnouts here. In 1971, a nonmayoral year, 8,316 residents voted. In 1969, 11,437 persons, about 40 per cent of registered voters turned out. The 1965 city race, when Behrel defeated Wolf's father, Rheinhardt for mayor, drew 7,714.

Nearly 175 persons requested absentee ballots this year, more than doubling that vote in 1969.

Mrs. Rohrbach warned residents "not to go to their old precincts." Des Plaines city council redistricted all city wards last fall, placing some residents in new wards and most in new precincts.

"You can't go to your old precinct to vote. It's illegal. It's not possible," Mrs. Rohrbach said.

Des Plaines' 205 election judges will be armed with polling place lists to aid wayward voters. Second largest stumbling block may be address and name corrections. Persons who did not file name or address changes with the clerk's office by March 19 cannot vote today, Mrs. Rohrbach said.

Rohrbach said. Judges will check computer voter lists and registration cards "to see that, if possible, every person who comes in the door is allowed to vote."

ALTHOUGH city hall will officially be closed today, the city clerk's office will be open from 8:30 a.m. until votes are totaled about 7:30 p.m. The city switchboard, 824-3136, will be manned throughout the day.

Voters also can call the clerk's office at 824-2012 or 296-3253. After 6 p.m. election phone numbers will be 296-1422, 296-1381 or 296-1375.

Emergency city crews will be on duty tomorrow and garbage will be collected.

City officials worked on last-minute election preparations yesterday. Polling place materials were distributed by the police department to election judges. And, the clerk's office started a scramble to fill vacancies created by judges' resignations.

The city council last night, after Herald press time, was expected to approve an ordinance assigning judges to election posts and naming alternate judges.

State statute allows four of five judges to reside in the precinct assigned. "If two people don't show up and I can't find a substitute from the precinct, I'll send in someone from outside," Mrs. Rohrbach said.

Today's the last day for potshots!

Most voters familiar with aspirants, issues: survey

Candidates did their work . . . so have residents

Des Plaines candidates have done their work and residents have done their homework, a Herald survey showed yesterday.

Of forty persons called yesterday by Herald staffers all but four said they would be voting in the Des Plaines city election. All of the nonvoters are newcomers to the community and have not registered.

The remaining 36 are ready to cast their ballots for "the best man."

About 75 per cent had been contacted by at least one candidate either in person, by a member of a campaign team or on the phone. Most everyone had received literature on the election — especially from one of the three mayoral candidates.

MRS. HARRY PASCHEN, 450 W. Westmere, is enjoying the competition in the city's top races. "It's fun," she said, "and I'll be voting for sure." Her ward race is uncontested but that hasn't discouraged her from keeping informed of election issues.

Those surveyed were generally very informed about candidates and issues.

Most knew what ward they lived in, where they were supposed to vote and who the candidates are.

"I'm more aware than I usually am," said Mrs. W. J. Gebhardt, 1548 Webster Lane. "This campaign has been more publicized than others. I know who's running and who I'm going to vote for."

The election has become a topic of neighborhood discussion the survey showed. Mrs. Anna Stobe, 1431 Wicke Ave., has been talking with neighbors all week.

MRS. STOBE, a resident since 1938, says she's not much for politics but knows who she'll vote for and is going to vote.

A 6th Ward voter and two-year resident gladly volunteered she would be casting her ballot for Mayor Herbert Behrel. Another 6th warder is for David Wolf, but reported her husband is a Behrel fan and they're both working on her parents to vote for the man they're campaigning for.

"We were going to put two posters in the window — his in the living room and mine in the dining room — but we thought it might look foolish," she said. "It's not good if you're for different candidates. One of us won't be happy (tonight) when the returns come in."

An older Des Plaines man looks back at other elections and feels this one is the best he's seen.

"I'm not going to tell you who I'm going to vote for but I'll tell you this — competition keeps these guys on their toes and I'm glad to see it," the 68-year-old voter said.

"I've been contacted by two aldermanic candidates and Dave Wolf. I think that's good. Gets people involved and lets them know someone cares if they live here," he said.

EVERYONE TALKS about voter apathy but he hasn't seen it, he said. "The people in this ward (the 2nd) seem to know what's going on."

"I'm not apathetic," said a 3rd ward resident. "My husband won't let me be. He's gung ho politics and it rubs off."

Residents agreed press coverage has been adequate and many thought it was excellent. One voter said the only information he has gotten has been through the newspapers. "No candidate has been around here," he said.

"All in all it looks like a good election," said a former Chicago resident who just moved into Des Plaines last month. "I know what's going on and wish I could vote. It's a lot different for Chicago elections."

Election results at 297-6633

Election information will be available at the Des Plaines Herald office from 8 until 10 p.m. tonight.

Residents may call the Herald office at 297-6633 for vote totals and the names of city election winners.

Information on polling places is available from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. today by calling 297-6633. Polls will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The Herald staff encourages all registered voters to go to the polls today and cast their ballots for the candidate of their choice.

Social seminar at Oakton

More than 25 professionals working in youth programs, community "hot lines," and education will attend a five-day social seminar training program in drug abuse at Oakton Community College this week.

The seminar, a multi-media drug abuse education program, is sponsored by the Cook County Department of Public Health and Oakton Community College, 7900 N. Nagle, Morton Grove.

The training program will be conducted by Bert Billing, a member of the staff of the Social Seminar Training Center, National Institute of Mental Health, Bethesda, Maryland.

Participants will represent schools and organizations from the North Shore and Northwest suburbs. Representatives of the Gate House program and Family Service in Wilmette will attend. The Maine Township Mental Health Service, Oakton Community College, Turning Point program in Arlington Heights, and High School District 214 are also sending participants.

The social seminar approaches the problems of drug abuse and drug abuse prevention within the context of total society. The perspective underlying the social seminar is that there are no simple solutions.

Maryville site faces delays

Unexpected snags may delay approval of a River Trails Dist. 26 site for a new school for students at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines.

Although the Illinois Capital Development Board (ICDB) approved a grant of $125,000 in planning funds for the new school late last week, the Dist. 26 board is not expected to discuss site plans until May.

According to board member William Haase, "very probably it will be discussed at the first meeting in May." He said one of the reasons for the delay is that the board has "run into some snags" in acquiring a site. Haase would not comment on what the snags are.

Board Pres. Lloyd Demel last week said the board "is really favoring one location," but he refused to reveal the location.

THE ICDB approval was necessary before the Dist. 26 board could continue

Day care center to seek aid from townships

The Northwest Suburban Day Care Center, plagued by diminishing finances, will seek aid from township governments, an organizer said yesterday.

Operating funds for the center, at First Presbyterian Church, Howard and Maple streets, Des Plaines, "are about running out," said Mrs. Robert DiLeonardi, chairman of the board of directors. "We do have enough money to operate until next Jan. 1 at least."

Center officials expected $12,000 in federal funds last fall. But new federal guidelines eliminated eligibility of the 33 low-income students enrolled at the day care center.

Mrs. DiLeonardi has "talked with officials of Elk Grove and Maine townships" about application for a portion of anticipated federal sharing funds. The federal money has been delayed in Washington for almost three months because of a mailing error. Maine Township officials expect more than $100,000 when the funds are received.

"Township revenue sharing funds are not earmarked," Mrs. DiLeonardi said.

"We've had verbal contact and expect to make written application soon."

The center serves "four or five" area townships. "But most of our students are from Des Plaines," she said.

OPENED IN September, 1970, with "Hike for Hunger" funds, the center is the only "sliding scale" day care center for low-income families in the Northwest suburbs. Parents who have children at the center are charged according to their income.

"We're struggling," Mrs. DiLeonardi said. "We've been husbanding our money from the 'Hike for Hunger' from private foundations and from contributors."

"But we haven't been able to raise money from private sources fast enough," she said.

The center's budget is about $40,000 a year. Five teachers and volunteers provide an educational curriculum for preschool children from 3 to 5 years old. Enrollment will increase from 33 to 46 children when summer vacation begins.

The center's application for Social Security funds was approved last fall. Under former guidelines, children whose mothers were not working qualified for funds if family income was low. New regulations qualify only children of parents in work training programs.

"YOU DON'T NEED day care unless you're working," Mrs. DiLeonardi said. "But working parents' children don't qualify."

New guidelines also lowered family income levels. Last year, families of three persons qualified with incomes less than $6,000. New rules set the maximum at $4,400.

Officials of the center have started a letter-writing campaign to congressmen, the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare and White House officials, she said.

To be widened from Devon to Salt Creek

$2.5 million contract OK'd for Arlington Heights Road

A $2.5 million contract was awarded yesterday by the Cook County Board to widen Arlington Heights Road from Devon Avenue to Salt Creek in Elk Grove Village. Construction is expected to start in early May.

Milburn Brothers Inc., of Arlington Heights, submitted the successful bid for the project to widen 1.7 miles of the thoroughfare. Construction company officials are scheduled to meet with representatives of the county highway department this week to discuss details of the project.

Hugo Stark, Cook County superintendent of highways, has said the project will take about a year to complete, but the work will be done in stages during two construction seasons to maintain the flow of traffic. No announcement has been made as to which section of the road will be improved first.

Plans call for Arlington Heights Road to be widened to four lanes with a median strip. Parts of Biesterfeld Road and Devon Avenue will be widened near their Arlington Heights Road intersections along with the existing Devon Avenue bridge over Salt Creek.

The contract also covers curbs, gutters, grading, drainage, traffic signals and landscaping.

ELK GROVE VILLAGE has devised a plan to handle traffic during construction that would maintain two-way traffic on Biesterfeld Road between Arlington Heights Road and Wellington Avenue and on Arlington Heights Road between Biesterfeld Road and Devon Avenue.

During construction on the roadway from Salt Creek south to Elk Grove Boulevard, cars and other non-truck traffic will be detoured away from Arlington Heights Road by way of Elk Grove and Kennedy boulevards. Truck traffic will be detoured from Arlington Heights Road to Landmeier and Tonne roads during the entire construction period.

Money for the road improvement project will come from state motor fuel tax funds.

Although the project does include widening Biesterfeld Road from Arlington Heights Road to Wellington Avenue, there was some discussion of eventually widening the entire length of Biesterfeld from Arlington Heights Road to the bridge over Interstate 90. However officials later said this additional work would have to be done at a later date.

$1.25 million referendum slated

A $1.25 million bond issue referendum will be held June 9 in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59. The referendum will be for the remodeling of Grove and Dempster junior high schools.

At last night's school board meeting the motion to hold the referendum passed by a 5-0 vote with Emil Bahnmaler and Charles Knap, two new board members, abstaining.

The remodeling will relocate classrooms and replace heating and ventilating systems in the two schools.

James Erviti, superintendent, said the architect would require four to six months to complete detailed drawings of the remodeling and specification sheets to be used for letting of bids. ERVITI SAID if the referendum passed in June construction would not start until Jan. 1 or soon after.

Board members indicated if the referendum failed in June there would be another attempt to pass it in the fall.

The school board was reorganized prior to the discussion of the referendum. After the canvassing of votes in Saturday's election, Allen Sparks was unanimously voted president of the board.

Judy Zanca was named secretary.

The question of the pay hike for Erviti, which was approved Friday by a 4-3 vote of the board, was also discussed at last night's meeting.

MRS. ZANCA contended Friday's special meeting was not proper for four legal reasons:

—The meeting notice was not posted on the door of the administration building.

—The notice did not specify that the superintendent's contract would be discussed at the meeting.

—No address was listed in the meeting notice.

—The meeting violated the district's contract with the teachers which states that the teachers will be notified of all special board meetings.

Mrs. Zanca requested that the pay hike be put on the agenda for the next meeting.

On Friday the school board had approved a 10 per cent raise for Erviti. The raise boosted his salary to about $35,000 a year plus benefits for the remaining two years of his three-year contract.

Bill hits tax meet 'secrecy'

A bill was introduced in the Illinois General Assembly last week to combat the secrecy surrounding property tax hearings before the Cook County Board of Appeals.

State Sen. David Regner, R-Mount Prospect, submitted a bill Thursday that would require all hearings on appeals of property tax assessments to be publicized before cuts are made.

The bill states that persons submitting appeals must designate the school districts and municipalities within which the property is located. In addition, no hearing can be held on the appeal until the schools and municipalities are notified and given an opportunity to be heard, according to the bill.

The legislation came after disclosures by the Better Government Association showed selected properties in Cook County were granted big tax breaks. The big tax advantages were linked to Chicago Ald. Thomas Keane, his brother, George, and other business and political figures.

Lower tax assessments mean less income for school districts and municipalities that derive a portion of their revenue from property taxes.

"Since it's the school districts and municipalities whose revenue is affected by changes in assessments, I certainly feel that they have a right to be heard," Regner said concerning his bill. "Now they are in the dark and in many cases are caught by complete surprise when they find a loss of revenue due to lowered assessments."

Elk Grove Village officials originally suggested to Regner that statewide legislation this area was needed. Regner's bill applies only to Cook County.

Centex's Winston Grove homes sell fast

by CAROL RHYNE

Centex Homes Corp. came close to realizing every developer's dream last week by selling nearly 90 per cent of its Winston Grove homesites in Elk Grove Village the first day they appeared on the market.

Although construction of the homes has not begun and delivery isn't planned until fall, one Centex salesman said 50 couples were waiting to buy homes when he arrived at the sales office at 8 a.m. April 7.

Some people spent the night at the Centex office at 1510 Stafford Circle waiting for models to open at 10 a.m., Philip Cook, sales manager of Winston Grove, said. He said one couple even brought a portable television set for entertainment.

Subdivision 1f land on which the new homes will be built has not been approved by the Elk Grove Village Plan Commission, and several plan commissioners have said they would like to see some changes made in the project. Centex has submitted plans for the section that include a two-acre lake to be used as a water retention area.

THE PLAN commissioners have asked

Centex to drop five homesites near the lake to create a larger park.

Of the 89 sites that were put up for sale, 77 lots were sold the first Saturday and three more homes were sold Sunday for a total of $3.5 million in sales. During last week, an additional three lots were sold, leaving only six lots to sell. All sales were made by sending letters and telephoning persons on Centex's waiting list.

Cook said he expected more sites in the Winston Grove development west of Ill. Rte. 53 to be ready for sale in about two (Continued on page 3)

'Lame-duck' board will name school treasurer

A Schaumburg Township school treasurer will be named this week by a board that hopes to lose its appointive powers.

Incumbents Art Wagoner and Richard Ritchie, reelected to the board Saturday, said they will vote for reappointment of Treasurer James Bowen. But they will continue to support legislation which would pass the power to appoint a treasurer over to the school districts in the township.

Wagoner and Ritchie are joined by George Bond, a third board member who was not up for reelection, and Bowen, in objecting to what they describe as duplication of work.

"The treasurer keeps records that are duplicated by the school district. It just makes good sense that the treasurer be appointed by the school district," said Wagoner.

WAGONER SAID preselection rumors he heard led him to believe challenging candidates wanted control of the township school board to keep the appointive power for patronage purposes.

Wagoner and Ritchie were challenged by Charles Ritz and Don Dinkelmann of Hoffman Estates.

"Appointment of the township school treasurer should remain the township school trustees' job," said Ritz.

Ritz said he sought the township school trustee post because he believes in the preservation of township government and opposes attempts to do away with any township office.

He denied that his bid for the office would have led to patronage appointment of a treasurer. He said he is presently not a member of any major political party, although he was formerly a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

campaigned together but their campaign was not paid for or endorsed by any major party.

Dinkelmann was unavailable for comment.

Wagoner said the treasurer's job is a salaried position, although township trustees serve without pay. Bowen, who has held the post for 12 years, is paid $4,000 a year.

"I'm particularly pleased that the township residents chose to reelect me and Ritchie," said Wagoner.

"Apparently the taxpayers were concerned about making the treasurer's job a patronage post and decided to vote us back into office," said Ritchie.

Election results show Wagoner received 691 votes. His opponent for the six-year post, Ritz, received 653 votes. Ritchie received 724 votes and his challenger for the four-year term, Dinkelmann, received 608 votes.

A CANVASS of the election will be held later this week, said Wagoner. The treasurer will be appointed and the board will elect its president the same evening.

In contrast to the treasurer, who must work all fiscal year, the board will meet officially just once more this fiscal year after this week, Wagoner said.

"By law, we hold title to all school lands in the township and control school funds. Our only duty is to appoint the treasurer, and if ours and the treasurer's efforts to make this the school district's responsibility are successful, we will be pleased," said Wagoner.

The township board of school trustees has been phased out in all of Illinois outside Cook County. In the rest of the state, and even in some parts of Cook County which still have such boards, school districts appoint the treasurer. And in areas where the boards do not exist, the districts also hold title to school property.

MORE THAN 1,400 youths raised an estimated $30,000 in Saturday's March of Dimes walkathon through Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights. The sunny day gave walkers like these a chance to clown

Former IRS agent denies tax charges

Louis Archbold surrendered to federal marshals in U.S. District Court yesterday and pleaded innocent to 10 counts of criminal violations of the U.S. tax code.

Archbold, 41, of 201 Victoria Ln., Elk Grove Village, was indicted on the charges last Thursday by a federal grand jury.

Archbold is charged with helping numerous Spanish-speaking taxpayers prepare their tax returns so that they could claim substantial refunds to which they were not legally entitled. All of the counts amount to inflating various taxpayers' deductions by more than $19,000, the U.S. attorney's office said.

The increases inflated each taxpayer's expenses by more than 200 per cent for an average increased deduction of $1,267 per taxpayer, the government charges.

Archbold faces sentences of three years and fines of $5,000 for each of the 10 counts if convicted.

Assistant U.S. Atty. Theodore Scudder said the case will next come to court on May 7 for a trial date to be set.

ARCHBOLD WORKED as an Internal Revenue Service agent from Nov. 30, 1970 until June 23, 1971. He was dismissed from that job for alleged unsatisfactory progress in a training course, but took the dismissal to a civil service board for review. The board ruled in his favor and Archbold was to be reinstated as an IRS agent yesterday and receive back pay.

However, Archbold's arrest on the false tax filing charges in March and the indictment last week have delayed his reinstatement pending the outcome of the trial, Scudder said.

Scudder said yesterday that Archbold helped 10 families with returns that he allegedly falsified. Nine of the families were Spanish-speaking, Scudder said.

Scudder said Archbold apparently received no kickbacks from the families who got the inflated refunds from the government on the falsified returns.

SCUDDER SAID the charges relate to the time after Archbold had been dismissed by the IRS when he was working as a tax preparer on a private basis. He said one example of the falsifications was a deduction for new car taxes when the family had not purchased a new car.

Scudder said he anticipated the case will come to trial rather than an out-of-court settlement because of Archbold's comments in court that he intends to fight the allegations. The case is expected to come to trial in the fall.

Shooting death ruled suicide

A coroner has ruled suicide as the cause of death of a 20-year-old Rolling Meadows man found shot in the head late Saturday in his apartment.

The ruling was made yesterday after an inquest into the death of Douglas A. Buchanan, 4728 Arbor Dr., Apt. 202. Buchanan allegedly jumped out of a window of his second floor apartment and shot himself with a .22-caliber rifle.

The incident occurred late Saturday during a drinking party in Buchanan's apartment, police said.

Several persons were in the apartment at the time the incident occurred but only one man, Richard E. Heimberger, 22, has been charged.

Heimberger, who shared the apartment with Buchanan and two others, is charged with contributing to the delinquency of two juveniles who were in the apartment at the time of the shooting.

'150 miles an hour...is really moving'

The doctor has a love affair—with Corvettes

by STEVE BROWN

Dr. Bruce Peterson is known to his patients as "the eye doctor with the Corvette."

But for the 30-year-old Schaumburg optometrist the relationship with his 'Vette' is far more intense than that of average motorist and the family buggy.

Peterson "lives, breathes and eats" Corvettes in his spare time. When the unassuming optometrist begins to explain his experiences, the listener learns he is a true aficionado of the specialized automobile.

One look around the doctor's office in the Town Square shopping center reveals that his interest in America's only true sports car is much more than a passing fancy.

Trophies abound and above his desk is a painting of a yellow "Vette" streaking along a race course.

"That's MY favorite," he explained while glancing toward the flaxen fiberglass speedster he owned and raced in 1967.

The doctor's love affair with the car blossomed in 1955 and has continued ever since. In 1970, he became president of the Chicago Corvette Club, a position he still holds.

While Peterson said he became interested in the car in 1955, it was not until 1964, after working odd jobs and saving his cash that he was able to buy his first "Vette."

"I have had one ever since," he said with a smile.

And although Peterson bought his first Corvette before his wife's engagement ring, the car and club have proved to be a source of many activities for the couple.

"She was driver of the year for the ladies in 1971," he said, explaining his wife has not become a weekend widow.

The car, however, still dominates at least one weekend a month. The club holds races, rallies and other activities to keep the owners involved, Peterson said.

Corvette owners get together annually for a national convention, usually near a major racing facility.

Peterson said his biggest thrill behind the wheel came not too long ago at the Daytona Speedway in Florida.

"We hit about 150 miles per hour on the banked track, and that is really moving," he said.

He said he usually drives conservatively on the street because his 500-horsepower car tends to attract extra attention from police.

"I try to keep about five miles under the limit, just to be sure," he added, which is probably to his advantage. The car with its modified hood, special exhaust system and radial tires appears to be going about 100 miles per hour while standing still.

Peterson said he probably will not run again for the club presidency. He wants to become more involved in the Jaycees and other activities.

But that does not mean his interest in the sports car is lessening. He recently bought his 2-year-old son a "Vette," the two pedal kind, and he is looking forward to an anticipated model change in 1974 or 1975.

Will he ever give up this affair with his motorcar and settle down to a sensible station wagon, with air conditioning and maybe even power steering?

"Never, once the car gets in your blood..." he said while pouring over a newly arrived edition of the Corvette owner's magazine.

"Once it gets in your blood, you can never change."

Winston Grove homes nearly sold out weeks. All the homes have three and four bedrooms and sell for between $38,900 and $47,490.

THE ENTIRE Winston Grove development consists of 1,096 acres. One section of single-family houses has been completed, and another section south of Nerge Road is under construction.

Several families have been waiting since the end of last year to move into their homes in the Von Braun Trail area south of Nerge Road. Robert Dombrosky, projection construction superintendent, said yesterday that weather has held up the project and crews have been unable to build a road because the ground was thoroughly saturated.

Dombrosky said street work on Von Braun Trail, Worden Way and Chaffee Court hopefully would start the end of April. If all goes well, he said the road would take a month to build, pushing occupancy on the homes to June.

READY TO ROLL...Schaumburg optometrist, Dr. Bruce Peterson, stands by his shiny Corvette, which not long ago turned more than 150 m.p.h. on banked track at the Daytona Speedway. Peterson is president of the Chicago Corvette Club and is active in the Schaumburg Jaycees.

Voters to elect mayor, clerk, 4 trustees today

Voters will go to the polls today to determine the makeup of the Palatine Village Board for the next four years.

At stake in the election are the positions of village president, village clerk and four of six trustee seats.

The Republican Party and the Village Independent Party are fielding full slates to fill the posts.

The campaign waged by the two sides — the mostly incumbent VIPs and the challenging GOPs — has sparked interest in the contest, but some observers predict a low voter turnout because of two previous local elections within the past two weeks.

Mosquito suit again delayed

The suit over the ability of the Northwest Mosquito Abatement District to spray mosquitoes in Palatine and Schaumburg has again been postponed.

The trial was to begin yesterday, but was delayed to May 11 because of the promotion of Circuit Court Judge Robert J. Downing, who was to hear the case.

The new judge has not been named. He will be the third judge to be assigned the case, after the promotions of Judge Downing and Circuit Court Judge Edward J. Egan to the Illinois Appellate Court.

Deger elected head of local Jaycees

Ralph Deger, a member of the Palatine Jaycees for 1 1/2 years, recently was elected president of the local chapter.

Deger, of 649 Tahoe Tr., was publicity chairman of the Jaycees this year, and had been appointed state director.

A Palatine resident for two years, he is director of financial planning for the Midwest Stock Exchange in Chicago.

Deger and other recently elected Jaycees officers will be installed May 28.

Other officers are Larry Johnson, 219 W. Kenilworth Ave., internal vice president; Fred Hall, 221 S. Elmwood Ave., and director of the Palatine Park District, external vice president; Warren Kramer, 161 N. Clark Dr., secretary; Jack Grimm, 539 E. Baldwin Rd., treasurer; Norman Knapp, 124 Elizabeth Ct., state director, and Bill Metcalf, 958 Countryside Dr., Bruce Black, 1417 Anderson Dr., and Tom Lester, 1157 E. Sayles Dr., directors. Lester is the outgoing Jaycees' president.

Deputy Clerk June Boston said yesterday 73 absentee ballots had been filed. In the hotly-contested 1971 election, 82 absentee ballots were completed. There are now 15,286 registered voters in Palatine, some 4,000 more than in years ago.

BOTH OF THE candidates for village president, VIP Clayton W. Brown and Republican Wendell E. Jones, have said a high voter turnout would help their parties.

The highest local election turnout in Palatine history was in 1967, when 4,213 citizens cast ballots.

The 26 polling places in the village will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Candidates on the VIP ticket, besides Brown, are Thomas F. Ahern, 1420 E. Palatine Rd.; Terry L. Leighty, 114 S. Forest Ave.; and Shirley A. Munson, 639 N. Benton St., for four-year trustee seats; Kent L. Bradley, 336 S. Rose St., for a two-year trustee seat; and Marilyn J. Bogen, 910 E. Slayton Dr., for village clerk. Ahern, Leighty and Munson are incumbents.

RUNNING ON the Republican ticket, besides Jones, are Richard W. Fonte, 240 N. Carter St.; Robert J. Guss Jr., 637 N. Wren Ave.; and James L. Shaw, 411 S. Benton St., for four-year trustee seats; Bryan P. Coughlin Jr., 512 McArthur Dr., for a two-year trustee seat; and Diane B. Greenlees, 530 S. Elm St., for village trustee.

Both Jones and Brown have been village trustees since 1967.

Also on today's ballot will be the uncompleted election of Palatine Library Board members.

The four incumbent board members seeking to retain their seats are Dorothy Gilpin, 512 E. Robertson St.; Judith Gamoran, 617 N. Whitcomb Dr.; Gerald A. McElroy, 602 E. Palatine Rd.; and Michael F. Foley, 1135 S. Falmore Dr.

Election-eve tradition: Candidates Clayton Brown and Wendell Jones greet Palatine commuters.

Jones casts negative vote

Village approves $1.8 million budget

The Palatine Village Board last night approved a $1.8 million budget for fiscal 1973-74.

The new budget is nine per cent more than last year's but maintains virtually the same services. The increase was attributed to hikes in salaries of village employees. Other added costs reflected in the budget include $55,000 for a fire engine and the added cost of supplies and equipment.

Palatine's budget became a part of the election campaign after the Republican slate for the village board submitted an alternative budget last week. The Republican budget differs from the village budget primarily in its wide use of motor fuel tax funds — the tax obtained through the gasoline sales tax.

Four Village Independent Party candidates, who voted to approve the budget, are incumbents on the board and are seeking election today against the Republican slate.

Republican candidate for village president Wendell Jones voted against the budget last night. He asked that adoption of the budget be deferred until after the election.

MRS. SHIRLEY MUNSON, chairman of the finance committee, said "at this late date and after four or five months of work, we feel it should be adopted."

Both Mrs. Munson and Jones agreed the major difference between the two budgets was in the interpretation of use of motor fuel taxes. The GOP candidates contend the money should be used on various projects, primarily in the area of public works. The trustees feel the money should be saved for road improvement projects.

If the Republican candidates sweep the election today they likely will try to amend the budget. Village officials said any amendment would take a two thirds vote of the board.

"The budget can be changed . . . it is simply a legal authority to expend the money," Mrs. Munson said, but added "the work has been done by this board and should be adopted by the board."

$170,000 appropriated by town board

The Palatine Township Board of Auditors last night approved a total of $170,000 for the town fund and general assistance fund and said residents' taxes to support township government will remain virtually the same next year.

Final approval will come from the newly-elected board of auditors after a public hearing May 21. Those officers, who will officially take over next week, were sworn in following last night's special budget session.

The largest jump in the budget came in town fund expenses, particularly the cost of the township election two weeks ago, and some $20,000 for the collector's office. The budget for collector will be spent only if duties for that office are restored. Unless pending legislative or court actions return the powers of the collector, whose authority was stripped several years ago in a court action, he will legally not be allowed to receive a salary. But township officials are inserting salary and expense figures in case the collector's duties are restored.

The Bridge, a youth counseling center run by the Palatine Township Youth Committee, will receive either $52,000 or $62,000, depending on Wheeling Township's decision whether to give $10,000 in support of The Bridge.

"I would say that it looks very much like there would be a total of $30,000 coming in from other townships," Supervisor Howard I. Olsen told the board last night. Other townships already promising the $10,000 allotment are Schaumburg and Elk Grove.

If Wheeling decides to give less than the full $10,000 or provides nothing, the Palatine board resolved to make up the deficit through part of its revenue sharing fund. Additional uses for the $48,750 revenue sharing money will be up to the new board in the coming month. Agencies for the elderly, teens, preschoolers, the needy and the handicapped have asked for shares of Palatine Township's cut of federal revenue sharing.

The board found itself with a $10,000 surplus in the general assistance fund, money which was appropriated but not spent in the past year. As a result, the tax levy for general assistance will be lower this year although the basic budget is the same at $24,000.

For the 1972-73 fiscal year, Palatine Township's tax rate was 6.2 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation. The projection of the coming year is a 6-cent tax rate, with a slight increase in the town fund appropriation and a slight decrease for the general assistance fund. Those estimated tax rates are 5.6 cents for the town and .35 cents for general assistance.

Countryside Y may be renamed for benefactor Buehler

Countryside YMCA may become the Buehler YMCA if voting members of the organization approve the name change next week.

The Y's board of directors have proposed bylaw changes, including the switch in names, for final approval at the April 27 annual meeting.

A. C. Buehler, a Barrington executive, was the single largest contributor to the Y building fund, giving $750,000 to the fund in 1971 on the condition that drive leaders raise an equal amount in community pledges.

Executive Director Herman Hertog said yesterday that the board of directors in 1971 had approached Buehler and asked him to consider the $750,000 investment, with the provision that the board work to eventually name the new YMCA after the Buehler family.

"WITHOUT THIS gift by Mr. Buehler and his family, it would not have been possible to provide facilities adequate to meet the interests and needs of this community," Hertog said, adding that naming the Y after Buehler was the single greatest recognition that members could bestow.

A. C. Buehler

The decision to request the donation and consequently name the Y after Buehler "was not an easy matter to come to a decision about," Hertog said. But when the board members did take the action five years ago, it was a unanimous decision made in the "best interests, goals and objectives of the Y," according to Hertog.

In a letter to members of the Y, R. Jack Fisher, vice-chairman of the board of directors, wrote that the arrangement with Buehler was made "in the best interests of our YMCA . . . You have the assurance and confidence that your Board of Directors, as a unit, believe they have acted correctly and appropriately in your behalf."

BUEHLER DIED in September, 1971, only months after the contribution arrangement was made. He retired in 1964 as chairman and president of the Victor Comptometer Corp. Buehler also played a major role in the building of Northwest Community Hospital, serving as chairman of its board of trustees. He and his wife are listed as the largest contributors to the hospital during its building program.

His first involvement in the YMCA program came in 1928, when he was a charter member of the board of the Lincoln-Belmont YMCA in Chicago. Buehler was chairman of that group for 17 years.

"Our recognition of Mr. Buehler is really, I think, principally for his leadership in the YMCA, and secondarily for his contribution to our program," Hertog said.

Recognizing contributors through plaques or by naming rooms or buildings for them is a standard practice when trying to raise money for major projects, according to Hertog.

"Clearly, they (contributors) don't do it just for that purpose, but it is a good way to motivate people to give more," Hertog explained.

"THE MEMBERS and community should be aware that we would not have gone to just anyone with this proposal," Hertog said. "I will miss the Countryside name. It has served us well. But I will be proud and happy to work with the Buehler YMCA," he added.

Including Buehler's donation, a total $1.7 million has been raised toward the building, which is expected to cost $2 million. Fitness centers costing an additional $500,000 are being financed by separate contributions from people who will use those facilities. The structure at Baldwin Road and Northwest Highway is near completion, with opening ceremonies set for September. The building will include everything from meeting rooms to a swimming pool.

The name change and other bylaw revisions will require a two-thirds majority vote of members present at next week's annual meeting.

Rugs damaged by acid

Two buildings managed by the JMB Realty Co., a Palatine firm, were damaged yesterday when someone apparently sprayed or poured an acid on carpeting in the hallways.

The substance ate through the carpeting in both buildings. Carpeting at the Suburban National Bank building at 800 E. Northwest Hwy., Palatine, was damaged in an elevator and on the second through ninth floors. A manager of the building told police that it would cost some $40,000 to replace the damaged carpeting, but police believe the damage may not be that serious.

Woman, 22, charged in bad-check case

An Arlington Heights woman was charged yesterday in Arlington Heights branch of Cook County Circuit Court with writing bad checks in Palatine and Arlington Heights over a period of several months.

Mary Ann Smessaert, 22, of 109 E. Rand Rd., allegedly wrote some $500 worth of checks in the area on a closed account. A court hearing was scheduled May 18, after a bond of $2,000 was set, and psychiatric counseling was ordered by the court yesterday.

The second office building is located at 800 E. Northwest Hwy. in Mount Prospect.

Palatine police say they have no witnesses or leads to the vandals but are sending samples of the carpeting to a crime laboratory to determine what substance was used in the incident.

Managers of the JMB Realty Co. were unavailable for comment late yesterday afternoon.

MORE THAN 1,400 youths raised an estimated $30,000 in Saturday's March of Dimes walkathon through Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights. The sunny day gave walkers like these a chance to clown around. Three students who signed up for the day were in wheelchairs, and had provided their own friends to push them through the 17-mile route.

Election today; five aldermanic seats at stake

The election of five aldermen to serve on the Rolling Meadows City Council for the next four years will be decided today. Polls in fifteen precincts will be open from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.

Only one candidate will be running unopposed; Ald. Thomas Waldron (2nd), the city council's senior member.

Incumbents in other wards will be challenged by four independents seeking first terms on the council.

In the 1st Ward, Ald. Merrill Wuerch will be opposed by Mrs. Marilyn Deane Wandersee, a member of the zoning board of appeals. Wuerch has been a member of the council since 1969 when he was appointed to fill the vacancy left by then-Ald. James Watson after Watson was named city manager.

Mrs. Wandersee is only the second woman in the city's history to run for a council seat. If elected, she will be the city's first female alderman.

CHALLENGING 3RD WARD INCUMBENT Ald. Stephen Eberhard is Richard Nolan, a foreman for the state's Division of Highways. Campaigning in the 3rd Ward has produced more vocal debate between the candidates than in other wards due to allegations by Eberhard that Nolan has received backing from the Palatine Township Republican Party.

Nolan, while admitting he has in the past been active in GOP political campaigns, has denied the charges, insisting he is running as an independent.

Eberhard is seeking his fourth consecutive term on the council. His 13-year tenure on the council is second only to Waldron.

Residents in the 4th Ward will choose between incumbent Ald. Daniel Weber, who will seek his second term of office, and challenger George Corral. Weber had originally indicated he would not seek reelection because job commitments would prevent him from performing aldermanic duties. He was later urged to run by neighbors.

Corral, an independent insurance agent, has campaigned with a pledge to improve communications between the city and residents and to encourage more citizen participation in city affairs. He has also said he will work to get traffic control lights installed at Wilke Road and Algonquin Road.

THE 5TH WARD race will pit incumbent independent Ald. Fredrick Jacobson against Bernard Macklin. Jacobson is the only incumbent to be challenged by Mayor Roland Meyer, who last week announced he would support Macklin in the 5th Ward.

Jacobson, who won election to the council in 1969 despite Meyer's endorsement of then-Ald. Rudolf Balek, has often challenged Meyer in matters pending before the council.

Meyer, who lives in the 5th Ward, has also said he supports Macklin in order to gain more representation for the southern end of the ward. Macklin lives at 4601 Magnolia Dr. Jacobson and the 5th Ward's other alderman, Kenneth Retzke, both live in the northern end of the ward.

Macklin, who Meyer appointed to the zoning board of appeals in 1970, is seeking his first elective office.

City officials say they do not know whether voter turnout will be large in all wards, but indications are that races in Wards 3 and 4 may draw many voters.

FIREMEN FROM ROLLING MEADOWS attempt to right an overturned vehicle that struck a guard rail on Ill. Rte. 53 Sunday. The driver of the car,

Maria Flores of Itasca, escaped serious injury. Police said the accident occurred after a blowout of the car's left rear tire. The car struck a guardrail and overturned. Firemen later hosed down the area to dilute spilled gas from the vehicle.

Little change in taxes

$170,000 appropriated by town board

The Palatine Township Board of Auditors last night approved a total of $170,000 for the town fund and general assistance fund and said residents' taxes to support township government will remain virtually the same next year.

Final approval will come from the newly-elected board of auditors after a public hearing May 21. Those officers, who will officially take over next week, were sworn in following last night's special budget session.

The largest jump in the budget came in town fund expenses, particularly the cost of the township election two weeks ago, and some $20,000 for the collector's office. The budget for collector will be spent only if duties for that office are restored. Unless pending legislative or court actions return the powers of the collector, whose authority was stripped several years ago in a court action, he will legally not be allowed to receive a salary. But township officials are inserting salary and expense figures in case the collector's duties are restored.

The Bridge, a youth counseling center run by the Palatine Township Youth Committee, will receive either $52,000 or $62,000, depending on Wheeling Township's decision whether to give $10,000 in support of The Bridge.

"I would say that it looks very much like there would be a total of $30,000 coming in from other townships," Supervisor Howard I. Olsen told the board last night. Other townships already promising the $10,000 allotment are Schaumburg and Elk Grove.

If Wheeling decides to give less than the full $10,000 or provides nothing, the Palatine board resolved to make up the deficit through part of its revenue sharing fund. Additional uses for the $48,750 revenue sharing money will be up to the new board in the coming month. Agencies for the elderly, teens, preschoolers, the needy and the handicapped have asked for shares of Palatine Township's cut of federal revenue sharing.

The board found itself with a $10,000 surplus in the general assistance fund, money which was appropriated but not spent in the past year. As a result, the tax levy for general assistance will be lower this year although the basic budget is the same at $24,000.

22 candidates' political fates on line today

The political fates of 22 candidates for village offices in Hoffman Estates and Schaumburg will be decided today.

Voters in Hoffman Estates will choose a mayor, three trustees and a clerk, while Schaumburg voters will select four trustees. Polling places in both villages will be open from 6 a.m. until 6 p.m.

In Hoffman Estates, incumbent Mayor Frederick Downey leads the Civic Party slate against a Republican ticket headed by incumbent trustee and mayoral candidate Virginia Hayter. Independents Shirley Turpin and Irene Petke are challenging the slates and each other for mayor.

Downey, who broke with the Republican organization last year, is backed by running mates Charles Loveisky, Lee Dodgion and William Stukas. All are seeking four-year trustee terms.

Incumbent Bruce Lind and newcomers Ralph Lyster and Melvin Timmons are seeking trustee election under the GOP banner.

TWO INDEPENDENTS. Walter Sullivan and Sheldon Galanter, also are vying for village trustee seats.

Republican candidate Mrs. Helen Wozniak faces Mrs. Patricia Fanella of the Civic Party in the contest for clerk in Hoffman Estates.

Two incumbents, Herb Aigner and Denis Ledgerwood, head the Schaumburg United Party slate in that village. Newcomer Raymond LeBeau is the third SUP candidate seeking a four-year spot on the board.

The SUP candidates are challenged by Carol Johnson, Helen Jackson and George Dougherty, all Independent candidates seeking four-year board terms.

In the remaining race for a two-year seat on the village board, Suzanne Popp faces SUP candidate Raymond McArthur.

Bicycle safety program set

The Schaumburg Police Department's bicycle safety program will begin again May 1.

The program, which includes a special court system, will be staffed by four reserve police officers.

Schaumburg Police Chief Martin Conroy said Patrolmen Hy Yeargin, John Cornwall, Jack Todd and Ray Nelson will head the safety program.

Village Trustee James Guthrie will again serve as presiding judge for bicycle court, Conroy said.

Conroy said the officers will issue citations to bicyclists who violate village regulations. Violators are then asked to appear in court with their parents, he added.

"Safety is the most important thing we try to impress on the youngsters with this program," the chief said, adding he hopes parents will cooperate with the department in the program.

Village bicycle regulations include: All bicyclists must ride with traffic but as near to the curb as possible; bicycles must stop at all stop signs; no double riding; proper hand signals should be used at all times; no free-hand riding; riders should not carry packages that prevent keeping both hands on the handlebars; no riding shopping center sidewalks; no riding at night without a light and rear fender reflector; no bicycle shall be left lying on a street or sidewalk and all bicycles shall have village licenses.

Conroy said the licenses are available at no charge from the police department in the lower level of the Great Hall, 231 S. Civic Dr., Schaumburg.

"I hope that all parents will teach their children the safe methods of operating a bicycle," Conroy said.

More than $900 in cash was taken in a burglary of a Schaumburg ice cream parlor yesterday.

Schaumburg police said the operators of the Baskin-Robbins Ice Cream Store at 1406 W. Schaumburg Rd., Schaumburg, reported the store had been burglarized Sunday night or early yesterday morning.

The thieves apparently gained entrance to the store in the Schaumburg Plaza shopping center by smashing a plate glass door, police said.

READY TO ROLL...Schaumburg optometrist, Dr. Bruce Peterson, stands by his shiny Corvette, which not long ago turned more than 150 m.p.h. on banked track at the Daytona Speedway. Peterson is president of the Chicago Corvette Club and is active in the Schaumburg Jaycees.

'150 miles per hour...that's really moving'

The doctor is in love — with a 'Vette

by STEVE BROWN

Dr. Bruce Peterson is known to his patients as "the eye doctor with the Corvette."

But for the 30-year-old Schaumburg optometrist the relationship with his "Vette" is far more intense than that of average motorist and the family buggy.

Peterson "lives, breathes and eats" Corvettes in his spare time. When the unassuming optometrist begins to explain his experiences, the listener learns he is a true aficionado of the specialized automobile.

One look around the doctor's office in the Town Square shopping center reveals that his interest in America's only true sports car is much more than a passing fancy.

Trophies abound and above his desk is a painting of a yellow "Vette" streaking along a race course.

"That's MY favorite," he explained while glancing toward the flaxen fiber-glass speedster he owned and raced in 1967.

The doctor's love affair with the car blossomed in 1955 and has continued ever since. In 1970, he became president of the Chicago Corvette Club, a position he still holds.

While Peterson said he became interested in the car in 1955, it was not until 1964, after working odd jobs and saving his cash that he was able to buy his first "Vette."

"I have had one ever since," he said with a smile.

And although Peterson bought his first Corvette before his wife's engagement ring, the car and club have proved to be a source of many activities for the couple.

"She was driver of the year for the ladies in 1971," he said, explaining his wife has not become a weekend widow.

WHILE THE CLUB is his major hobby, Peterson has also become involved in the Schaumburg Jaycees and several professional associations.

The car, however, still dominates at least one weekend a month. The club holds races, rallies and other activities to keep the owners involved, Peterson said.

Corvette owners get together annually for a national convention, usually near a major racing facility.

Peterson said his biggest thrill behind the wheel came not too long ago at the Daytona Speedway in Florida.

"We hit about 150 miles per hour on the banked track, and that is really moving," he said.

He said he usually drives conservatively on the street because his 500-horsepower car tends to attract extra attention from police.

"I try to keep about five miles under the limit, just to be sure," he added, which is probably to his advantage. The car with its modified hood, special exhaust system and radial tires appears to be going about 100 miles per hour while standing still.

Peterson said he probably will not run again for the club presidency. He wants to become more involved in the Jaycees and other activities.

But that does not mean his interest in the sports car is lessening. He recently bought his 2-year-old son a "Vette," the two pedal kind, and he is looking forward to an anticipated model change in 1974 or 1975.

Will he ever give up this affair with his motorcar and settle down to a sensible station wagon, with air conditioning and maybe even power steering?

"Never, once the car gets in your blood..." he said while pouring over a newly arrived edition of the Corvette owner's magazine.

"Once it gets in your blood, you can never change."

DEE-LIGHTFUL: When Art and Bonnie Dee decided to join SUP they had no idea of the prominence they would soon gain. At Friday night's Banjo Bash, the couple was introduced as the 1,000th members of the independent village party. A plaque honoring that milestone in the development of the less than three-year-old party was presented to the Dees by Mayor Robert O. Atcher.

Among more than 350 guests at the bash were former trustee Don DeVale, and his wife Bonnie, who now live in Sycamore. Don was one of the motivating forces behind permanent establishment of a local party in Schaumburg.

THE REPUBLICAN Organization of Schaumburg Township (ROOST), obviously did not count on a quiet, but well-organized effort to re-seat Dick Ritchie and Art Wagner as township school trustees Saturday.

ROOST candidates Chuck Ritz, an old party faithful, and Don Dinkelmann, a new GOP precinct captain, did not come up with sufficient votes to allow capture of a majority of the three-man board of trustees. Ritz and Dinkelmann, both of Hoffman Estates, were promoted as candidates for those posts in literature distributed by the GOP Saturday.

The object of their candidacy was, after successful election, to provide a $4,000 school treasurer's job in a hard-working party member. Reportedly, their first choice for that job would have been Ralph Lyerla, a Hoffman Estates trustee candidate and former township official.

Traditionally in Schaumburg Township, the school trustees have been politically independent and it looks like that will remain status quo for the time being anyway.

SHEFFIELD PARK'S popular Jack Halpin has a problem! In anticipation of a bon voyage party for Schaumburg's Jane Murphy, Halpin bought a custom-made mosquito costume. But now that Mrs. Murphy's plans have changed and she will not soon be leaving the community, Jack just doesn't know what to do with the outfit. Ideas from readers would be appreciated.

FOR HOCKEY at its best...don't miss Woodfield Hockey Rink's Olde Timers! The group includes Carl Hunderiser and George Becker of Hoffman Estates and Bob DuLaney and several others from Schaumburg.

We're told the group began a bit rusty but has gotten really sharp.

In other information about the players, the Becker's, George and Virginia, are again justly proud of their oldest, Barbara, who has, for the umpteenth time, made the Dean's List at Illinois State University, Normal.

And the DuLaney's, Bob and Laurel, are delighted with their Denise who was recently named to the National Honor Society. She is a Conant senior with plans to become a special education teacher.

"The best way to save face is to keep the lower half of it shut," says C. David Mills Sr.

'Lame-duck' board will name school treasurer

A Schaumburg Township school treasurer will be named this week by a board that hopes to lose its appointive powers.

Incumbents Art Wagoner and Richard Ritchie, reelected to the board Saturday, said they will vote for reappointment of Treasurer James Bowen. But they will continue to support legislation which would pass the power to appoint a treasurer over to the school districts in the township.

Wagoner and Ritchie are joined by George Bond, a third board member who was not up for reelection, and Bowen, in objecting to what they describe as duplication of work.

"The treasurer keeps records that are duplicated by the school district. It just makes good sense that the treasurer be appointed by the school district," said Wagoner.

WAGONER SAID pre-election rumors he heard led him to believe challenging candidates wanted control of the township school board to keep the appointive power for patronage purposes.

Wagoner and Ritchie were challenged by Charles Ritz and Don Dinkelmann of Hoffman Estates.

"Appointment of the township school treasurer should remain the township school trustees job," said Ritz.

Ritz said he sought the township school trustee post because he believes in the preservation of township government and opposes attempts to do away with any township office.

He denied that his bid for the office would have led to patronage appointment of a treasurer. He said he is presently not a member of any major political party, although he was formerly a member of the Republican Organization of Schaumburg Township.

campaigned together but their campaign was not paid for or endorsed by any major party.

Dinkelmann was unavailable for comment.

Wagoner said the treasurer's job is a salaried position, although township trustees serve without pay. Bowen, who has held the post for 12 years, is paid $4,000 a year.

"I'm particularly pleased that the township residents chose to reelect me and Ritchie," said Wagoner.

"Apparently the taxpayers were concerned about making the treasurer's job a patronage post and decided to vote us back into office," said Ritchie.

Election results show Wagoner received 691 votes. His opponent for the six-year post, Ritz, received 653 votes. Ritchie received 724 votes and his challenger for the four-year term, Dinkelmann, received 606 votes.

A CANVASS of the election will be held later this week, said Wagoner. The treasurer will be appointed and the board will elect its president the same evening.

In contrast to the treasurer, who must work all fiscal year, the board will meet officially just once more this fiscal year after this week, Wagoner said.

"By law, we hold title to all school lands in the township and control school funds. Our only duty is to appoint the treasurer, and if ours and the treasurer's efforts to make this the school district's responsibility are successful, we will be pleased," said Wagoner.

The township board of school trustees has been phased out in all of Illinois outside Cook County. In the rest of the state, and even in some parts of Cook County which still have such boards, school districts appoint the treasurer. And in areas where the boards do not exist, the districts also hold title to school property.

Civic Party gets backing of two officials

Endorsements for the Civic Party slate in the Hoffman Estates village election today were announced yesterday by two public officials who also were party activists.

The endorsements for members of the slate were made by Thomas Barber, president of the Hoffman Estates Park District board and CP vice chairman, and William Brilliant, member of the Hoffman Estates Fire Protection District board and party chairman.

"In my position as park board president it is necessary to work with the village government on many items. The cooperation obtained from people interested in the community should go a long way in helping all the taxpayers," said Barber. He cited a belief national politics should not be part of local elections as one reason for his endorsement and said the CP slate members "have shown leadership, business background and involvement in community affairs."

Election canvass Thursday

Schaumburg Township Dist. 54 Board of Education will meet Thursday to canvass Saturday's election results, seat new members and elect officers.

Incumbents Mary B. Hannon and Donnie Rudd will be sworn in for second terms and newcomer Brenda Pulla will replace Dianne Marks, board president who did not run for reelection.

President Marks will preside at the regular 8 p.m. board meeting to hear building progress reports.

After the regular session the board will reconvene to canvass the school board election.

The old board will elect a president and secretary pro-tem, the new board will be seated and sworn in. The new board then will elect its permanent officers and set meeting dates for the coming year.

The board meets in Helen Keller Junior High School, 804 W. Bode Rd., Hoffman Estates.

MORE THAN 1,400 youths raised an estimated $30,000 in Saturday's March of Dimes walkathon through Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights. The sunny day gave walkers like these a chance to clown

$170,000 appropriated by town board

The Palatine Township Board of Auditors last night approved a total of $170,000 for the town fund and general assistance fund and said residents' taxes to support township government will remain virtually the same next year.

Final approval will come from the newly-elected board of auditors after a public hearing May 21. Those officers, who will officially take over next week, were sworn in following last night's special budget session.

The largest jump in the budget came in town fund expenses, particularly the cost of the township election two weeks ago, and some $20,000 for the collector's office. The budget for collector will be spent only if duties for that office are restored. Unless pending legislative or court actions return the powers of the collector, whose authority was stripped several years ago in a court action, he will legally not be allowed to receive a salary. But township officials are inserting salary and expense figures in case the collector's duties are restored.

The Bridge, a youth counseling center run by the Palatine Township Youth Committee, will receive either $52,000 or $62,000, depending on Wheeling Township's decision whether to give $10,000 in support of The Bridge.

"I would say that it looks very much like there would be a total of $30,000 coming in from other townships," Supervisor Howard I. Olsen told the board last night. Other townships already promising the $10,000 allotment are Schaumburg and Elk Grove.

If Wheeling decides to give less than the full $10,000 or provides nothing, the Palatine board resolved to make up the deficit through part of its revenue sharing fund. Additional uses for the $48,750 revenue sharing money will be up to the new board in the coming month. Agencies for the elderly, teens, preschoolers, the needy and the handicapped have asked for shares of Palatine Township's cut of federal revenue sharing.

The board found itself with a $10,000 surplus in the general assistance fund, money which was appropriated but not spent in the past year. As a result, the tax levy for general assistance will be lower this year although the basic budget is the same at $24,000.

For the 1972-73 fiscal year, Palatine Township's tax rate was 6.2 cents per $100 equalized assessed valuation. The projection of the coming year is a 6-cent tax rate, with a slight increase in the town fund appropriation and a slight decrease for the general assistance fund. Those estimated tax rates are 5.6 cents for the town and .35 cents for general assistance.

New savings & loan planned

Plans for a new savings and loan association in Schaumburg were announced yesterday.

Officials of Laramie Federal Savings and Loan of Chicago said within 30 days they will begin construction of a two-story building at Higgins and Plum Grove roads.

A spokesman for the firm said temporary facilities will be established at that location while construction of a 16,000-square-foot building is completed.

The financial institution will be known as First Federal Savings of Schaumburg after May 1, the spokesman said.

The facility will feature a drive-up window and parking space for 95 cars.

A large community room, with stage and completely equipped kitchen, will be available to community organizations.

A large safety deposit vault also will be housed in the lower level.

Officials were unsure as to when the institution will be open for business.

Architects for the projects are Irvin J. Buxell Jr. and Associates and Planned Projects Inc. of St. Louis, Mo.

Schaumburg village offices will be closed Friday and Saturday. Village departments in Hoffman Estates will remain open both days.

Schaumburg Township offices will be open from 9 a.m. until noon Friday and closed all day Saturday.

Youth group to hear plans for its 'day'

The Hoffman Estates Youth Commission will hear plans for a May 14 student takeover of village government at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the municipal building, 1200 Gannon Dr., Hoffman Estates.

Youth In Government Day was originally slated for April 30.

Frank Alexa, youth commission chairman, requested the change to avoid a conflict with spring vacation.

James B. Conant High School students will hold a school election naming pupils to village offices.

For Youth In Government Day, the elected officers will run the village and hold a regular board session.

In other business the commission will hear reports on the "Place With No Name," a center for young people in the old village hall, 161 Illinois Blvd.

The center is staffed with volunteers and Youth Outreach Worker Bryan Syer. The center is open 7 to 11:30 p.m. Fridays, and 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. Sundays, Mondays, Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Driver charged with pulling gun on pair

A McHenry man was charged with assault and a weapon violation Sunday after he allegedly threatened two motorists with a gun.

Schaumburg police said Jerry Davis, 21, of 348 W. Rand Rd., McHenry, was charged with two counts of assault and two counts of unlawful use of a weapon.

Davis was arrested at about 3 a.m. Sunday after he reportedly accosted Curtis Burns of Roselle and Steven Gardener of Hoffman Estates on Roselle Road just north of Golf Road.

Burns and Gardener told police they had been driving behind Davis' auto, which was traveling about 15 miles per hour. They said Davis suddenly stopped his car and ran back to their auto.

They said he pulled a hand gun and told them to get following him.

Burns and Gardener then contacted police. Both men signed assault and weapons complaints against Davis.

Davis was released yesterday on $1,000 bond. He is scheduled to appear in court May 23 in Schaumburg.

Mental health board volunteers sought

Schaumburg Township Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein is seeking volunteers to serve on the township Mental Health Board.

Anyone interested in participating may contact Laubenstein by calling the township offices, 894-8130.

The seven member board serves in an advisory capacity to the township board of auditors. Presently the advisory group has one vacancy.

Mental health board members meet the first Tuesday of the month at the Prince of Peace Lutheran Church on Higgins Road in Hoffman Estates.

Maryville pupils' new school site runs into 'snags'

Unexpected snags may delay approval of a River Trails Dist. 26 site for a new school for students at Maryville Academy in Des Plaines.

Although the Illinois Capital Development Board (ICDB) approved a grant of $125,000 in planning funds for the new school late last week, the Dist. 26 board is not expected to discuss site plans until May.

According to board member William Haase, "very probably it will be discussed at the first meeting in May." He said one of the reasons for the delay is that the board has "run into some snags" in acquiring a site. Haase would not comment on what the snags are.

Board Pres. Lloyd Demel last week said the board "is really favoring one location," but he refused to reveal the location.

THE ICDB approval was necessary before the Dist. 26 board could continue plans on the school site. ICDB oversees the construction of all school buildings in the state.

According to Ray Morris, ICDB project director, the initial grant of funds will be used to get the architect started on site plans and "to see what we have to do with the site. We could end up leasing or buying or using existing land," Morris explained.

The ICDB will be in charge of administering the Maryville project in conjunction with the Dist. 26 school board.

Dist. 26, which operates the River Road School where approximately 110 of the Maryville children attend classes, requested the release of state funds under a new law passed by the legislature last year. The law allows a school district to request funds for a school building when a nonpublic school closes, resulting in an increased enrollment of five per cent or more to a public school district.

Such an emergency occurred in Dist. 26 in 1968 when Catholic Charities announced it could no longer afford to educate the Maryville children, who are wards of the state. Dist. 26 is reimbursed by the state for "tuition" for the Maryville students, as well as the $5,000 a year rent Maryville charges for use of classrooms, music and science rooms and a gym.

SHORTLY BEFORE River Road opened as a Dist. 26 school, it was inspected by Robert Hayes, an assistant superintendent in the Cook County education office, to see if it met the Illinois Life Safety Code.

It did not, and the district was granted a five-year extension to bring the building up to regulations. According to Hayes, the extension is up at the end of the 1973-74 school year.

According to Demel, the ICDB has said that if plans get started this spring, the new school facility can be finished by September, 1974. "But how do you define spring?" Demel asked. "When you start to get into May and June, the time gets so short it makes you nervous."

Morris said he did not know whether the building could be completed by September, 1974. "It all depends on what type of building we decide on," he said.

The school district has estimated the cost of the facility at approximately $750,000. However, Morris said "it'll be a while before we can put a price tag on it."

MORE THAN 1,400 youths raised an estimated $30,000 in Saturday's March of Dimes walkathon through Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights. The sunny day gave walkers like these a chance to clown around. Three students who signed up for the day were in wheelchairs, and had provided their own friends to push them through the 17-mile route.

Chief denies crimes 'lost in shuffle'

Mount Prospect Police Chief Bert Giddens has denied charges by mayoral candidate Michael Minton that police reports of crimes committed in Huntington Commons were being "lost in the paper shuffle."

Giddens told the Herald that no police reports have been kept from the newspapers and he released a list of all police reports that have been made from the Huntington Commons area. This development, west of Elmhurst Road and south of Golf Road, consists of 324 apartments and condominiums.

Minton has said on several occasions, including an interview with the Herald,

"We have instances investigated by police officers of two rapes, a shooting, a stabbing and a pistol-whipping in one building of Huntington Commons within a five-week period." That period, he said on March 27, was a month or two earlier.

Voter list requirement may be axed

The law requiring municipal clerks to provide a list of registered voters at least five days prior to an election may be bounced from the state election code.

State Sen. David J. Regner, R-Mount Prospect, last week began legislative action to repeal the 35-year-old law. Regner, acting on the request of the Mount Prospect Village Board, introduced Senate Bill 800 Thursday.

"It's time," Regner said, "we cleaned archaic laws from the books. The information is available without having municipalities incur added expenses by producing unnecessary records."

On April 3, the Mount Prospect village board gave Village Clerk Donald Goodman the go-ahead to prepare such a voter list. At that time Goodman said the list should be prepared, although it had never been done in the village in the past, because "we are faced with the possibility that Mr. (Michael) Minton will file a lawsuit."

Minton, independent candidate for mayor, already had filed suit to get the election ballots changed.

IN A PRESS release dated March 26, Minton said, "I will not have the election illegally stolen from me by (Mayor Robert D.) Teichert. In accordance with the State of Illinois laws, the entire list of registered voters must be publicly posted not less than five days prior to an election for public viewing."

"I insist that I be given the opportunity to examine the list of registered voters in order to insure the electorate that only legitimately registered voters are on the books. I am requesting the Better Government Association to join me in the investigation of these election records."

As of 2:15 p.m. yesterday, the only request to see the prepared voter list was from the Herald. According to the clerk's office, only one other person had even asked about the list.

SIX ADDITIONAL part-time personnel were hired by the village to prepare the list of registered voters, since the county lists were, according to Goodman, only up-dated through last November. Teichert, who is seeking reelection against Minton and independent candidate Albert Mutsch, later said that the county list has different precinct numbering than the village's.

In a press release dated April 4, Minton said, "This section of the law helps to prevent vote fraud and insure a fair election, and the legislature has refrained from modifying or repealing it. Any attempt to do so would be irresponsible."

Minton said that rather than giving Goodman "a blank check" to prepare a list, the Village Board should have had Goodman "go to the Cook County Clerk's office in Chicago and obtain a list with current additions and deletions of all of the registered voters in Mount Prospect for posting in Village Hall, at absolutely no cost to the village or taxpayers."

Rosen calls ad for Minton a 'rape of my reputation'

A man quoted yesterday in newspaper ads for Mount Prospect mayoral candidate Michael Minton has said he never made the comments attributed to him.

Charles Rosen, vice president of Littlestone & Co., which manages Huntington Commons Apartments, was quoted yesterday as saying, "Huntington Commons has 108 low-income, federally subsidized housing units. . . there have been incidents of stabbing, shooting and rape."

He also was quoted as saying he would not like to live in Mount Prospect because of the built-up character of the village, and that he chose to live in Schaumburg.

"I did not make any of the three statements," Rosen said. "There have been no stabbings, shootings or rapes. There are 108 federally subsidized units, but they are not low-income. I never said I live in Schaumburg, because I live in Roselle."

JOHN BIESTEKE, Minton's employer, spoke for Minton yesterday when he insisted the statements were made. "The statements and others were made to me March 9 while Mr. Rosen took me (Continued on page 3)

This Morning In Brief

The nation

The United States resumed bombing Laos yesterday after accusing the North Vietnamese of violating the 7-week-old cease fire by overrunning a Laotian village and air field.

The Pentagon notified Congress that 274 military bases around the country will be closed or cut back. An estimated 21,172 civilian and 16,640 military jobs will be eliminated.

President Nixon, hoping to check the spiraling cost of industrial raw materials, announced plans to sell almost 90 per cent of the nation's strategic stockpile — $8 billion worth of metals, rubber and other goods.

House Republicans won a lopsided procedural victory in their effort to defeat tough price-interest-rent controls, apparently foreshadowing approval of a one-year extension on wage-price powers for President Nixon.

The Mississippi and Missouri rivers will crest again this week because of heavy rains.

The Senate Watergate Committee reported it had virtually agreed on rules under which all witnesses would testify at public hearings to begin about May 15.

The Highest court ruled 6 to 3 against 15 Elks lodges in Maine whose liquor licenses are being revoked on grounds they discriminated against blacks.

The state

The proposed Illinois supplemental freeway system, a submerged issue since Gov. Daniel Walker froze funds several months ago, has resurfaced. Senate Republicans introduced bills to fund major portions of the system.

State's Attorney Bernard Carey said his office will conduct its own probe of the fatal shooting of a Chicago woman. Authorities labeled it "a tragic accident."

Chicago police continued to hunt for clues to the killer of racketeer Sam DeStefano.

The world

Communists killed 10 ranking Cambodian army officers in an ambush on Highway 1 southeast of Phnom Penh, military sources said.

The dollar firmed on all but British exchanges yesterday in quiet trading. The price of gold in London lifted slightly.

The Luxury liner Queen Elizabeth II is en route to Israel, her 580 passengers guarded by British warplanes. Precursors were ordered to forestall any Arab attack.

In very slow trading, stock prices eased on the New York Stock Exchange. Analysts said investors were sitting on the sidelines waiting to see Washington's actions to combat soaring inflation. Bruce Metge has been elected president of the Illinois Association of Student Councils (IASC). He passed up two other candidates to capture the top spot for 1973-74.

The election was at the recent IASC convention at Chicago's Pick Congress Hotel. More than 200 high schools in Illinois sent delegates.

During his year as president, Bruce will attend several conventions and workshops. In June he will take part in the national convention of Student Councils in Colorado.

At Prospect High School, Bruce has been a member of Student Council for three years, serving as vice president during his junior year. He also served as sophomore class president. Bruce's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Metge, 405 MacArthur Dr.

So far they have sent $250 to each of four missionary families; set up a scholarship fund for a young person planning a career in Christian service; given $250 to the Paul Carlson Foundation, and allotted $500 to the Lost and Found Coffee House, which ministers to young people in this area, many of whom have been on drugs.

around the development," Bluestek said. "It was rundown, beat-up and smelly."

Rosen was vehement in his denial. "The only rape that has taken place has been the rape by Minton of my reputation and that of the Huntington Commons Apartments," he said.

Minton could not be reached for comment yesterday. Minton is opposing incumbent Mayor Robert D. Teichert and independent Albert J. Motsch.

Bluestek further said that Rosen outlined the number of subsidized units by number of bedrooms, told of a stabbing, a rape and other tenant trouble with the police. He said Rosen "decided the Mount Prospect shoddy building code."

Bluestek said he would prepare an affidavit, if necessary, verifying his report of their conversation.

ROY GOTTLIEB OF Kenroy developers attacked the advertisement for its list of 11 locations supposedly being "considered for low-income housing."

Gottlieb said he had talks with the owner of the Rob Roy Country Club about development of the property, but no deal has been made and low-income housing is not even being considered or intended. He also said he talked with the owner of Simonson's Nursery about that 60-acre property, only to find out that current planning makes the land unavailable until the fall of 1975. Then, the owner is unsure as to his plans for the land, Gottlieb said.

Several of the other parcels, he said, are either not for sale or are zoned light industrial, making their cost prohibitive for residential development.

Gottlieb said he has no apology to make for Huntington, which will have 1,450 units in all when completed. Of these, all will be condominiums except for Littlestone's 324 apartments. Under the subsidy program, he said, nine families have incomes between $4,000 and $6,000, while 40 units will be rented or are rented to families with incomes between $6,000 and $8,000.

There are no families in Huntington who are on welfare, Gottlieb said. "Everybody who lives there thinks it is a great place. It is all the success we expected it would be."

No new leads in Taylor case

Lake County Sheriff's investigators believe a 19-year-old man found dead Saturday in the trunk of a car was shot in Des Plaines or Mount Prospect and driven to the spot where his body was found.

The body of Michael Taylor, 500 W. Touhy Ave., unincorporated Elk Grove Township, was discovered by two teenage bicycle riders who saw the empty car near Mundelein. Police said Taylor was apparently shot and then abandoned in Lake County in his own car. He had shotgun wounds in his stomach and chest and stab wounds in the back, according to an autopsy by the Lake County coroner.

Taylor was wanted in Mount Prospect and Des Plaines on a warrant for jumping bail. He was to appear in court in January. When he failed to show up, the warrant was issued. He had been charged with robberies in Des Plaines, Palatine, Skokie and Mount Prospect.

Another man arrested in connection with the same crimes pleaded guilty to several armed robberies and was sentenced last month to two to four years in prison. He was James LaRocco, 20, of Niles. Charges against a third man were dropped.

Taylor and LaRocco had been accused of a series of grocery store robberies that were committed by men wearing ski masks.

A Des Plaines police officer was sent to Lake County yesterday to assist in the investigation.

Lake County sheriff's deputies have begun a search for persons known to have associated with Taylor, but they have reported no leads or clues in the incident. As of last night, police had no information on the location of the weapons used in the murder.

Taylor is believed to have been dead several months before his body was discovered.

Andrea's friends say final goodbye

by MARY HOULIHAN

Children. Seated in pews, standing along the aisles and in the back of the church. Children in Boy Scout uniforms and in the everyday clothing of their normal school lives.

These were Andrea Novy's friends. And at memorial services yesterday at the South Community-Baptist Church, several hundred of them came to say goodbye.

Drowned in a rowboat accident on Fox

Lake in Lake County April 5, Andrea's body was not recovered until last Friday.

It was the special request of the Robert Novy family that the memorial service be scheduled so Andrea's schoolmates could attend.

THE ENTIRE SERVICE was based on life and youth. The "Life" choir, made up of teenagers from 15 churches in the area, sang "Kum Ba Yah" and "Friendship." Warren Sapp, the youth pastor at South Community-Baptist, gave the eulogy.

"There are several questions we must ask ourselves at the time of someone else's death," Sapp said. "What is there beyond life, and why must someone die?"

"We cannot find these answers outside ourselves," he said. "We will each of us answer these questions, and these questions must be our own. We must ask ourselves, can the passing of one we love change our lives, and in our answer will be the answer to the question, why?"

During the past year, Andrea Novy wrote some poetry. In her writing she perhaps revealed a secret that she would like all of her friends to remember.

"Everything, even if it is gone, still exists, for time is, has and will always be, although we can only live now."

Miss Novy's body will be at Friedrich Funeral Home, 320 Central Rd., for visitation today. Funeral services will be at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday. A memorial fund has also been established in Miss Novy's name to benefit the rescue units of the Fox Lake fire and police departments. Donations are being accepted at the funeral home.

$1.25 million bond issue referendum to be June 9

A $1.25 million bond issue referendum will be held June 9 in Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59. The referendum will be for the remodeling of Grove and Dempster junior high schools.

At last night's school board meeting the motion to hold the referendum passed by a 5-0 vote with Emil Bahmaier and Charles Knap, two new board members, abstaining.

The remodeling will relocate classrooms and replace heating and ventilating systems in the two schools.

James Erviti, superintendent, said the architect would require four to six months to complete detailed drawings of the remodeling and specification sheets to be used for letting of bids.

ERVITI SAID if the referendum passed in June construction would not start until Jan. 1 or soon after.

Board members indicated if the referendum failed in June there would be another attempt to pass it in the fall.

The school board was reorganized prior to the discussion of the referendum. After the canvassing of votes in Saturday's election, Allen Sparks was unanimously voted president of the board.

Judy Zanca was named secretary.

The question of the pay hike for Erviti, which was approved Friday by a 4-3 vote of the board, was also discussed at last night's meeting.

MRS. ZANCA contended Friday's special meeting was not proper for four legal reasons:

—The meeting notice was not posted on the door of the administration building.

—The notice did not specify that the superintendent's contract would be discussed at the meeting.

—No address was listed in the meeting notice.

—The meeting violated the district's contract with the teachers which states that the teachers will be notified of all special board meetings.

Mrs. Zanca requested that the pay hike be put on the agenda for the next meeting.

On Friday the school board had approved a 10 per cent raise for Erviti. The raise boosted his salary to about $35,000 a year plus benefits for the remaining two years of his three-year contract.

Shooting death ruled suicide

A coroner has ruled suicide as the cause of death of a 20-year-old Rolling Meadows man found shot in the head late Saturday in his apartment.

The ruling was made yesterday after an inquest into the death of Douglas A. Buchanan, 4728 Arbor Dr., Apt. 202. Buchanan allegedly jumped out of a window of his second floor apartment and shot himself with a .22-caliber rifle.

The incident occurred late Saturday during a drinking party in Buchanan's apartment, police said.

Several persons were in the apartment at the time the incident occurred but only one man, Richard E. Heimberger, 22, has been charged.

Heimberger, who shared the apartment with Buchanan and two others, is charged with contributing to the delinquency of two juveniles who were in the apartment at the time of the shooting.

Free textbooks to students next September

Elk Grove Township Elementary School Dist. 59 will distribute free textbooks to students in September. The official canvass of Saturday's referendum on free textbooks showed the issue passed 75-62.

The votes for the three unopposed candidates for the school board were also canvassed at Monday night's meeting. Vote totals were: incumbent Judy Zanca, 1,126; Emil Bahmaier, 1,148; and Charles Knap, 1,165.

Twenty-six persons also received write-in votes. Highest write-in vote was for Richard Hess, who received 23 votes. Sherrie Hilderbrandt, board member who did not seek reelection, received 12 write-in votes. Al Broten, High School Dist. 214, write-in candidate, received 12 write-in votes for the Dist. 59 race. The other write-in candidates received between one and four votes.

Joe Pepitone, Chicago Cubs baseball player received one write-in vote.

Supt. Percy gets 'Lamp of Learning' award

Mount Prospect Dist. 57 Supt. Richard Percy has been presented with the "Lamp of Learning" award by Cook County Supt. of schools Richard Martwick.

Martwick presented the award in appreciation for Percy's work as a superintendent. The award was presented at a retirement party for Percy last week.

Asked about the award, Percy said he didn't expect it at all. "I didn't know anything about it."

He said he still has no definite plans for retirement. "I'm hiding my time and maybe for a couple of months I might just stare into space," he said.

Other than the rape and the gun incident (which was not listed as a shooting), none of the other crimes mentioned by Minton appear in the chief's list, even though two crimes were at different locations.

Late last month, police responded to three calls of domestic disturbances at 1340 S. Elmhurst Rd. There have been six reports of vandalism, seven complaints of juveniles either swimming in the lake or playing on construction equipment, a report of a gas odor, a fire in the Difficult question, Strong says

How do our schools rate with others in this area?

by KURT BAER
(A News Analyst)

"Good schools" is a big reason many people say they decide to move to Arlington Heights. But how good are the schools in Dist. 25 compared with other neighboring school districts?

That question was raised by a group of parents during the recent campaign for the Dist. 25 school board. The question today remains unanswered, and according to Dist. 25 Supt. Donald Strong simply cannot be answered conclusively.

The issue of accountability of school administrators for the quality of education in Dist. 25 is tied to the recurrent question of why the district will not publish standardized test scores.

"There is no comparative (test score) data available," Strong said yesterday when asked about the ranking of Dist. 25 students compared with students in other elementary districts in the area.

HIGH SCHOOL Dist. 214 does adminter a standardized test to all eighth grade students that will be entering its high schools, but has never made results of the testing public.

"Our responsibility is to show every parent every bit of information we have on their child. That's where real accountability has to lie," Strong said.

Dist. 25 makes its test scores of an individual child available to the parents. But Strong says he has never seen any test data that would compare Dist. 25 with other school districts feeding the 214 high schools.

The accountability issue was brought into focus at a recent meeting of school board candidates. At that meeting at least one candidate, Richard Schlott, said he thought the question merited further study.

"I think clearly there has been a lack of candor in this whole area," Schlott said yesterday. "I think the first step is for the (school) board to talk to the administration, and then get together with the citizens."

Schlott was reelected to the board in Saturday's election along with William Beck. Edith Jolly also was elected to a first term on the Dist. 25 board.

SCHLOTT SAID he expects the board will spend a lot of time on the accountability question between now and the end of the school year. "It's something I very much want to know more about," he says.

But, at least according to Strong, there is a limited amount that can be said.

"I don't quarrel with the notion that in the years ahead we may find a better way of measuring school districts with test scores," he said. But right now, he says, the complete measure is not at hand, and the test data that is available is too fragmentary to tell the story.

As for the parent who wants to know whether he should enroll his child in Dist. 25, Strong suggests a visit to the neighborhood school.

"I would say go to the neighborhood school and discuss the approaches and materials being used there to see if they meet the needs of the student," he said.

Most of the Dist. 25 schools follow "transitional methods" of education. These are programs that fall somewhere between the traditional and avant garde.

"I think this is reflective of the community as a whole," he said. "We want to try new ideas, but we don't want to experiment just for the sake of experimentation."

Gill gets 6% pay increase next year

School Dist. 21 Supt. Kenneth Gill will begin taking home paychecks next year that will reflect a 6 per cent raise awarded him by the school board.

The increase will set Gill's salary for the 1973-74 academic year at $33,360. According to the contract, his salary will remain at that figure for the next three years unless the agreement is altered in the interim.

The contract also provides that Gill will receive the usual benefits specified for all full-time employees of School Dist. 21 including life, health and accident insurance.

GILL'S RAISE is comparable to a 6 per cent pay hike recently negotiated by Dist. 21 teachers. The salaries for all full-time Dist. 21 teaching personnel and administrators appear to be in line with those of other nearby school districts.

The $31,500 salary received by Gill last year was about average for other local school superintendents. Because 1973-74 salaries for most elementary district superintendents have not yet been finalized, it is not yet known how Gill's increased salary will compare to that of other area administrators.

Like several other superintendents, Gill receives a car to use in addition to his regular salary and contract benefits. The car is replaced every two years. The vehicle Gill presently uses was purchased for him last year.

Nike site housing plan hit

The Arlington Heights Village Board has adopted a strongly-worded resolution condemning plans to build 140 Navy housing units at the Arlington Heights Nike Base.

The resolution, which will be sent to President Nixon, Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson, and Representatives Philip Crane and Sam Young, was supported last night by the presidents of the Surrey Ridge West and Heritage Park homeowners associations.

The statement calls on the Secretary of Defense to reconsider plans to build 140 housing units at the Nike site for Navy personnel who work at the Glenview Naval Air Station.

"The proposed use of said surplus property for housing will destroy one of the last remaining natural resources in the community, will cause congestion and overcrowding, is diametrically opposed to the United States government's own open space land programs, and defeats the development of the area for recreation purposes," the resolution states.

Village and Arlington Heights Park District officials had sought to acquire the Nike base for development of a regional park. But those hopes were dealt a blow last week with the announcement that Congress had appropriated funds for the Navy housing units.

THE NAVY OWNS 51 acres of land, 41 of which would be used for the housing, at the northwest corner of the base near Central and Wilke roads.

The resolution cites the availability of other land closer to the Glenview station than Arlington Heights, that could be used for housing without "being detrimental to existing communities."

"There is an urgent need for open space land in the Arlington Heights Park District area to assure a decent living environment, to provide for adequate parks and recreation areas and the growing leisure time of the residents of the park district, and to curb suburban sprawl and prevent the spread of urban blight and deterioration," it states.

Victor Johnson, president of the Surrey Ridge West Homeowners Association, said residents near the Nike base also were concerned that the housing, if built, would eventually be abandoned and left to deteriorate.

Thomas McDonnell, vice president of the association, called on the village board to push for public meetings with the Navy where residents could air their objections to the proposed development.

Village Pres. John Woods, last Friday, sent a personal telegram to the same federal officials protesting the housing plans.

MORE THAN 1,400 youths raised an estimated $30,000 in Saturday's March of Dimes walkathon through Des Plaines, Mount Prospect and Arlington Heights. The sunny day gave walkers like these a chance to clown

BOLI opposes Old Wilke Rd. shutdown

The Arlington Heights Board of Local Improvements has objected to a proposal by Rolling Meadows to close off Old Wilke Road at the Algonquin Road intersection.

Arlington Heights officials said the proposed cul-de-sac for old Wilke at Algonquin Road would create problems for residents of a large apartment complex there — Twelve Oaks. They said shutting off old Wilke would cause residents difficulty in getting to their homes.

City Engineer James Muldowney, representing Rolling Meadows, said the city wanted to block the intersection because the heavy traffic on Algonquin has made the intersection hazardous.

Arlington Heights board members, however, asked that the request be dropped until completion of New Wilke Road which is expected to be the major north-south thoroughfare for that area. New Wilke Road is the four-lane highway located just east of Old Wilke Road. New Wilke eventually will run from Kirchoff Road to Golf Road.

Countryside YMCA, now near completion, may be renamed the Buehler YMCA next week.

Countryside Y may be named for benefactor

Countryside YMCA may become the Buehler YMCA if voting members of the organization approve the name change next week.

The Y's board of directors have proposed bylaw changes, including the switch in names, for final approval at the April 27 annual meeting.

A. C. Buehler, a Barrington executive, was the single largest contributor to the Y building fund, giving $750,000 to the fund in 1971 on the condition that drive leaders raise an equal amount in community pledges.

Executive Director Herman Hertog said yesterday that the board of directors in 1971 had approached Buehler and asked him to consider the $750,000 investment, with the provision that the board work to eventually name the new YMCA after the Buehler family.

"WITHOUT THIS gift by Mr. Buehler and his family, it would not have been possible to provide facilities adequate to meet the interests and needs of this community," Hertog said, adding that naming the Y after Buehler was the single greatest recognition that members could bestow.

The decision to request the donation and consequently name the Y after Buehler "was not an easy matter to come to a decision about," Hertog said. But when the board members did take the action five years ago, it was a unanimous decision made in the "best interests, goals and objectives of the Y," according to Hertog.

In a letter to members of the Y, R. Jack Fisher, vice-chairman of the board of directors, wrote that the arrangement with Buehler was made "in the best interests of our YMCA. . . . You have the assurance and confidence that your Board of Directors, as a unit, believe they have acted correctly and appropriately in your behalf."

BUHLER DIED in September, 1971, only months after the contribution arrangement was made. He retired in 1964 as chairman and president of the Victor Comptometer Corp. Buehler also played a major role in the building of Northwest Community Hospital, serving as chairman of its board of trustees. He and his wife are listed as the largest contributors to the hospital during its building program.

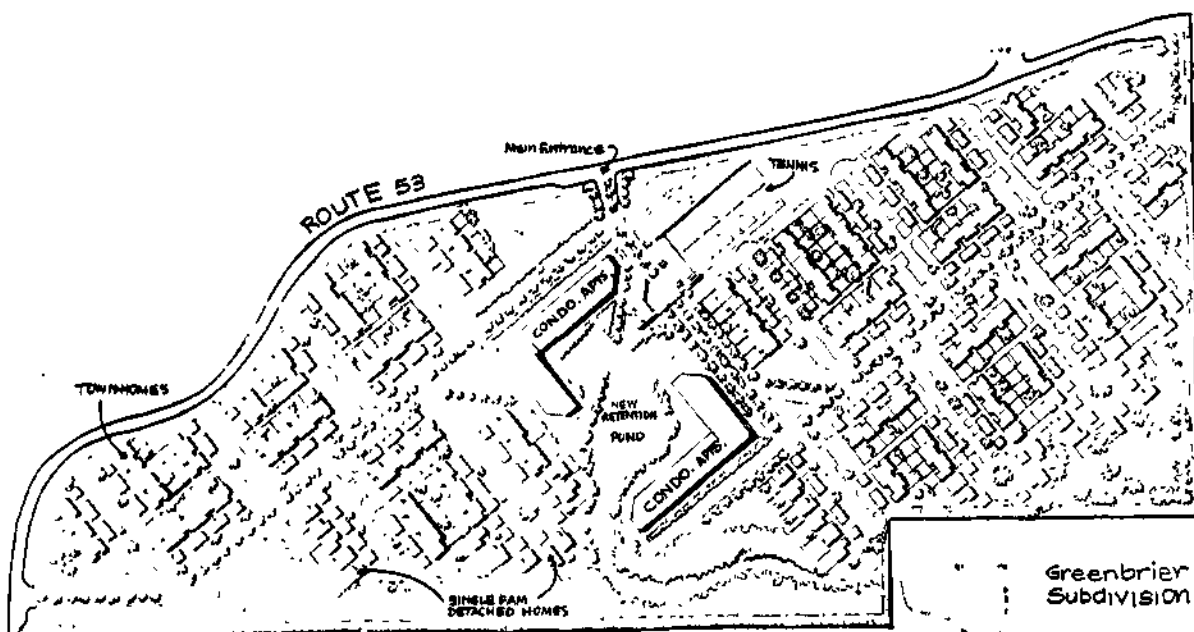

His first involvement in the YMCA program came in 1928, when he was a charter member of the board of the Lincoln-Belmont YMCA in Chicago. Buehler was chairman of that group for 17 years.

"Our recognition of Mr. Buehler is really, I think, principally for his leadership in the YMCA, and secondarily for his contribution to our program," Hertog said.

Recognizing contributors through plaques or by naming rooms or buildings for them is a standard practice when trying to raise money for major projects, according to Hertog.

"Clearly, they (contributors) don't do it just for that purpose, but it is a good way to motivate people to give more," Hertog explained.

A NEW SITE PLAN for what was once known as the Chelsea Square development, on 45 acres at the northeast corner of Rte. 53 and Palatine Road, has emerged after months of meetings between the developer, I. Simon and Sons and a special village board committee. The project, which would consist of $45,000 to $60,000 condominium units, now includes 150 apartments, 170 townhouses and 30 single-family homes. The village board last night approved rezoning for the project and the concept of the development. Specific plans remain subject to plan commission and village board approval.

Woman, 18, 'good' after 2-car crash

An 18-year-old Arlington Heights woman is in good condition at Northwest Community Hospital after a two-car accident at a private drive near Northpoint Shopping Center, Rand and Arlington Heights roads.

Joy Lennon, 1732 Jonquil Ter., was treated for possible concussion, said a hospital spokesman.

Miss Lennon was exiting from a drive near the shopping center and crossed Palatine Road when she was struck broadside by a car driven by Gary Naszger, 20, Palatine.

Arlington Heights police charged Miss Lennon with failure to yield right-of-way.

12-year-old boy hit by car on Rand Road

A 12-year-old Arlington Heights boy was struck by a car yesterday afternoon near the intersection of Rand Road and Margaret Street, Arlington Heights.

Albert Ortiz, son of Mr. and Mrs. Angle Ortiz, 1652 Windsor Dr., was playing with a friend along Rand Road when he apparently darted in front of an auto driven by Chester Madeck of Chicago, Illinois State police said.
